SENATOR LEWIS ASKS CAMPAIGN WORTHY OF CITY

Deplores Donkeys, Opposes Swine.

Jurors Quiz Galpin

Homer Galpin was questioned by the special grand jury yesterday about gifts from supposed gangland sources to previous Thompson campaign funds. Details on page 3.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 17.—[Special.]—Senator James Hamilton Lewis is leaving the capital tomorrow or the next day to return to Chicago and fight once more for Democracy and the candidacy of Anton J. Cermak. He expects the final ten days of the campaign to be "fiercely contested" and he is willing that they should be so.

Once, during his previous senatorial term, Senator Lewis remarked, as part of a lively debate, that his opponent was using a bludgeon, but that he was employing a rapier tipped with a rose. Tradition has it that the opponent didn't have time to appreciate the rose; he was too busy defending himself from the hidden point.

Mr. Lewis intimated today that he is at present in somewhat the same mood.

Please, No More Swine.

He hopes the campaign will be conducted on a level of dignity. He has no use for methods which include either jackasses or swine as part of the program.

"I trust," he said, "that the campaign will be kept before the people as an issue between two candidates who recognize that they are striving for the presidency of a young republic of more than three million inhabitants, who realize that they are being observed by the world.

"I would deplore any methods by either candidate that would reduce the respect which Chicago should have from the cities of the world. Chicago has suffered too much from being advertised as a city having a mayor——"

And it was here that the rapier point began to glitter wickedly among the flowery petals——

"Having a mayor," he went on, "who was charged with not being loyal to the flag, with not supporting the nation when the nation was at war.

It's City That Suffers.

"Chicago has suffered by being held up as a community officered by men charged with being incapable in intelligence and unworthy in character.

"This unfortunate blight has lost for Chicago the esteem and honor of which her people have made her worthy. I insist that our people in Chicago should make a change in all the things wherein Chicago has been maligned, and that they should make a new era of offices and officeholders, as necessary to fix Chicago again in the admiration and esteem of the world."

And as a final thrust he added:

"The only thing the Democratic candidate, Mr. Cermak, needs for an overwhelming victory is the votes of his own party. The Republicans will give the Democracy enough votes to balance any opposition. The Democracy need only furnish the majority."

JEST OVER RESIGNATIONS

BY PARKE BROWN.

Politicians of all faiths, including even some of the city hall people, said they were puzzled yesterday by the sound robin resignation of about one-half of Mayor Thompson's appointees.

Thompson's office made public the letter in which twenty-two members of his cabinet and official family announced their readiness to quit their jobs at his pleasure. But it was discovered that there are about an equal number of jobholders who had not affixed their signatures to the document.

Even with this showing and with an advance understanding that none of the resignations would be accepted, the move was novel in American municipal history and kept all headquarters buzzing throughout the day. The discussions centered chiefly on the cause for the step and its effect on the voters.

Democrats Laugh at Move.

The Democratic organization at once adopted a policy not to discuss the wholesale offer to leave the city hall. They were inclined to consider it nothing more than a gesture and a

STARTLED BURGLAR FIGHTS GUN DUEL IN A DIM LIT STORE

Cleveland, O., March 17.—[Special.]—An unidentified burglar prowled about in the darkness of the Frank Freiburg music store last night.

Suddenly he was confronted by a figure approaching, gun in hand. It, too, was masked. The burglar opened fire just as a gun flash spit from the other. Three shots were fired by the thief and three times the gun of the other split the darkness with a tongue of flame.

BRIDE'S ELECTION CAMPAIGN HOLDS UP HONEYMOON

An impending election campaign will prevent Mrs. Jeanette Black, 52 years old, from going on a honeymoon with her new husband, John T. Black, 66 years old, of Toronto, Ont. The couple were married yesterday in the county building here by Judge Herbert Anderson, but their honeymoon plans must wait the outcome of the April 7 election in Lake county, where Mrs. Black, formerly Mrs. Jeanette Kellogg Aiken, a widow, is running for county supervisor.

Mrs. Black said she planned to keep the marriage secret until after the election, but it became known in Waukegan last night that the marriage license had been issued. Simultaneously with the news of her wedding came the announcement that her daughter, Jeanette Aiken, had eloped to Crown Point, Ind., last Jan. 7 to marry Norman Sabine of Camp Logan.

Mrs. Black is a wealthy resident of Winthrop Harbor and is the daughter of the first white woman born in Lake county. Her husband was Robert H. Aiken, inventor. Mrs. Black is a prominent member of the Lake County Federation of Women's clubs and the county branch of the League of Women Voters. She was county manager for Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick in her senatorial campaign.

Girl, 9, Leaps Into Park Lagoon to Save Playmate

Jane Benkard, 321 Webster avenue, and Margaret Brothers, 925 Webster avenue, both 9 years old, were playing on the banks of the Lincoln park lagoon near the park refectory last night. Jane fell into the water where it was over her depth. Margaret plunged in to save her playmate. Charles Williams, a cab driver, heard the calls for help and pulled the girls out.

2 Women Missionaries from U. S. Slain in China

HONGKONG, March 18.—(AP)—Murder of two American women, Mrs. C. B. Miller of Glendale, Cal., and Mrs. Dallas R. White, St. Helena, Cal., at Yunnanfu Sunday night was reported in a telegram from that city today. The two women were Seventh Day Adventists.

A New Yorker Puts His Faith in Mustaches

Monday night the Chicago detective bureau received a telegraphic request from the New York police to arrest Charles Wilson, 41 years old, wanted for wife and child abandonment. He could be found at 2207 South Park way, the telegram said, and could be recognized by a large black mustache like the handlebars of a racing bicycle.

Sergts. Leroy Carlson and Elmer Johnson called at the address. Wilson was living there under his own name. His distinguishing mustache made identification easy. At the bureau he asserted his name to be Frank Smith.

"Children?" he queried. "I'm not even married."

He Sticks to His Story.

He stuck to his story through a night's questioning. At 8:15 o'clock yesterday morning he still refused to sign extradition papers.

"Well, we'll let it ride," Sergt. Carlson replied. "Your wife couldn't fail to identify you with that mustache."

He went out for breakfast and returned. Smith, or Wilson, was not in the cell block.

"Where's Smith?" Sergt. Carlson demanded of the lockup keeper.

"Here I am." A prisoner stepped to the front of the big cell. Carlson's eyes popped out like a fifer's. The prisoner was smooth shaven.

To Carlson's astounded queries, Smith calmly denied ever having a mustache. Under repeated questioning he broke down and confessed.

"I was asleep on the floor and some one threw a lighted cigaret into my cell," he said. "Half of my mustache was burned away. The remaining half was no good alone and I pulled it out."

Anyway, It's Disappeared.

Carlson thought this a little too much. Smith readily assented that it sounded unreasonable.

"O, I remember," he said. "It was false. Where is it now? Perhaps the janitor swept it out. Or again a curio hunter?"

"Mrs. Wilson is on her way to Chicago with her abandoned child," the chief said. "Now if she arrives and the mustache is not there, how can she identify Charles? These New York slickers can't make a laughing stock of the Chicago detective bureau. That mustache must be found."

The law is inviolable and not to be made light of.

BOY IN "MACHINE LUNG" KEEPS UP BATTLE FOR LIFE

A stronger heart action and lower temperature late last night renewed hope for Charles Caughey, 7 years old, who for thirteen days has been living with the aid of Drinker respirator in the St. Francis hospital in Evanston. The lad, who in the last few months has suffered attacks of scarlet fever and diphtheria—which was accompanied by paralysis of the throat, necessitating the respirator—now has pneumonia. He was taken from the respirator last night for a few hours' rest.

Dr. Noel G. Shaw, the attending physician, held out a slight hope for recovery. The child is still in a coma into which he lapsed on Monday morning. He was regaining his normal breathing powers when the pneumonia set in and aggravated his weakened condition. He suffered a sinking spell during the day.

However, there was a hopeful turn late last night when the child's fever was reduced, with some clearing of congestion.

4 JURORS SWORN FOR BROTHERS' MURDER TRIAL

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Four men were sworn in as jurors yesterday afternoon to try Leo V. Brothers, St. Louis gangster, for the murder of Alfred Lingle last June at Randolph street and Michigan avenue.

It took nearly all day to fill in this first panel, and examination of the second group had not proceeded far at adjournment time. It is now anticipated that it will take the rest of the week to complete the jury.

Three Peremptory Challenges.

Two peremptory challenges were used by the defense during the day and one by the state. The four jurors finally accepted for service are:

Herman Isaacson, 3562 Palmer street, employé of the Peck & Hill Furniture company.

Walter W. Graff, 1847 Wenonah avenue, Berwyn, a foreman at the Western Electric company.

Herman Crotzer, 1517 East 67th street, former machinist for the Interstate Iron and Steel company, unemployed for ten months.

The trial proceeded smoothly in Judge Joseph Sabath's court, with little in the way of dispute or interruption to disturb the tranquil examination of the veniremen. Despite the monotony of the proceedings crowds sought admission to the courtroom, filling all the seats and lining the wall aisles all day.

Brothers Decides on Jurors.

They saw the defendant appear in a new suit, one of reddish brown, unmindful of the crowd, going into frequent huddle with his four attorneys as the fate of some prospective juror was being determined.

It was Brothers who had the final word in this, as the most vitally interested person. He became a reader of character, guessing from expression and fragmentary history, whether each man would be inclined to favor such a man as he and how the proposed juryman would approach the crime of which Brothers is accused.

An incident of the day was the appearance of Harvey Brothers, father of the defendant. He is a Chicago barber, a gray haired man who has seen much of the rough side of life, and who looked on the scene grimly, chatting at times with his long estranged former wife, Mrs. Rose Jessen, the mother of the defendant, and snuggling close to his married daughter with the pretty face, Mrs. Esther Dick.

Little Emotion Among Family.

The family, separated since the children were young, were united now temporarily, and with little emotion, under these strange circumstances. The practical minded mother paid more attention to her notes and papers than she did to her former husband.

Robert E. Cantwell, retired criminal lawyer, who has been in and out of the case, took a place at the defense table in the morning and participated in the discussions over jurors.

He had disobeyed his doctor and his family and had run away to this fascinating place. At noon his stalwart sons took him home again, and it was announced that he was out for good on his doctor's orders, although the other defense lawyers said they would be glad of his counsel. He has tried 433 murder cases in his time.

Examine 15 Veniremen.

Fifteen men were examined during the day by Attorney Tyrrell Krum for the defense and Assistant State's Attorney C. Wayland Brooks for the state.

Krum injected into his questions the various newspaper rewards for the apprehension of the slayer that were offered at the time of the Lingle killing.

"In determining the credibility of witnesses, you would look for a motive back of their testimony?" he asked. "You would take into consideration, would you not, the fact that such a large reward might influence the testimony of some witnesses. You would reflect that $55,000 is a lot of money to any one?"

The men in the jury box assured him they would think of these things.

State Is the Prosecutor.

When Krum sought to question on the ground that "THE TRIBUNE is prosecuting this case," Brooks objected, declaring that the state was the prosecutor. Judge Sabath upheld him. "Strike it out," said the court. "The state is prosecuting this case."

The examination of John N. Abbott

HORSE ISLAND, N. F., March 17.—(AP)—A new picture of the Viking disaster—108 survivors ashore here, three aboard the steamer Sagona, ten adrift in the ice, and more than a score unaccounted for—was reconstructed late tonight.

The steamer Beothic reported sighting five men on an ice floe and five in a dory. The Beothic feared it would be unable to reach them before daybreak.

The Sagona rescued Harry Sargent, Boston explorer and motion picture man, and two members of the Viking crew from a fragment of the ship, which was blown to pieces by a mysterious explosion Sunday night. The whereabouts of Sargent's shipmates, Varick Frissell and A. G. Penrod, American members of a motion picture expedition, remained a mystery.

Number of Missing in Doubt.

The exact number of missing was clouded in doubt. Allowing for the ten sighted by the Beothic, the government figures listed twenty-four as unaccounted for. The exact number of persons aboard the Viking at the time of the explosion was also uncertain.

The plight of the survivors, who reached here after a hazardous eight mile ice trek from the scene of the explosion, still was precarious tonight. None of the rescue ships had been able to make a contact with Horse island to deliver badly needed food and medical supplies. Their landing had been awaited for several hours.

The lights of one rescue vessel, presumably the Foundation Franklin, were visible from here, but it was believed a boat could not be landed until daybreak.

Survivors Settle Down to Wait.

The survivors here, many of them seriously injured, have settled down to another night of waiting for the food and medical supplies dispatched from St. John's yesterday. The latest straggler stumbled ashore late tonight after two nights spent on the ice. He was Richard King.

The more exhausted are being cared for in the five homes making up the settlement, but many are shifting for themselves.

Capt. Abram Kean Jr. of the ill-fated Viking is slowly recovering his strength. He was greatly cheered tonight when told of a message received from the Sagona reporting the rescue of Sargent, Capt. William Kennedy, navigator of the Viking, and Radio Operator C. King off Gull island.

"I never thought I would ever see them again," he said.

Finding of these three gave rise to the hope that some of the other missing men might have escaped death in a similar manner.

Sargent said he was "practically well" tonight, but exhausted. The explorer-actor, 42, and of strong physique, stood the ordeal well. H. B. Clyde Lake, minister of fisheries, telegraphed felicitations and hope that the rescued American's mates would be found. Sargent had been stranded 44 hours on the wreckage and had drifted 15 miles from the scene of the disaster.

Searchers covered a wide area of ice today, but found no trace of the two missing Americans. They encountered straggling parties of exhausted refugees, however, and helped them ashore.

"Heroine" Proves to Be Brother.

Sisters sometimes get the credit for the work their brothers do and that's how Miss O. Bartlett's name was blazoned on front pages of newspapers throughout America today as the heroine of the Viking disaster.

She had been an amateur wireless operator on this lonely island for two years until last Christmas and had been used occasionally by the Newfoundland Postal Telegraph company. This Christmas she left the island but her brother quietly carried on her

WOMAN MISSING 2 WEEKS SLAIN; BODY IN WOODS

Car Abandoned Next Day 600 Mi. Away.

BULLETIN.

Frank J. Murray's Marmon automobile, in which he has consistently claimed he and Miss Norma Newby were kidnaped and taken to the Elk Grove forest preserve, where he was beaten and robbed and Miss Newby was slain, was abandoned on the next day at Jonesville, Va., nearly 600 miles away, by two men about 22 and 24 years old, who answer the descriptions of the kidnapers. The machine at Jonesville was positively identified early this morning by Sheriff E. C. Courtney of that place by the Illinois license, 583,804, and the Chicago license tag. The two men stopped in Jonesville when a tire went flat. Unable to unlock the spare tire, they drove the machine to a secluded place and abandoned it.

Chief William F. Collins of the county highway police said the finding of Murray's car so far away practically exonerates him of any suspicion of having any hand in the death of Miss Newby and confirms his story of the kidnaping and robbery. However, Chief Collins said Murray has told so many conflicting stories that he will be questioned further and held until after the inquest on Thursday. The Dorion brothers were all released as soon as the automobile was identified.

The body of Miss Norma Newby, 20 years old, who had been missing from her home at 2704 Flournoy street since March 2, was found late yesterday afternoon in a lonely clearing in the county's Elk Grove forest preserve, about two and a half miles south of Arlington Heights.

Apparently Miss Newby had been beaten to death with a heavy automobile wrench that lay only a foot or two from her clenched and outstretched left hand. Physical evidence indicated that death occurred nearly two weeks ago and that the body had lain concealed under the deep snows that fell on March 7.

Police Question Seven.

Last night the county highway police were holding for the inquest Frank J. Murray, middle-aged and married, Miss Newby's admirer for seventeen years, who was the last person known to have seen her alive, and Arthur Dorion, 2947 West Congress street, to whom she had been engaged for four years.

Others who were taken into custody for questioning were two brothers of Dorion; Mrs. Sarah Murray, wife of Frank; his daughter, Esther, and D. J. Murray, 5663 South Sangamon street, his brother.

Murray, who lives at 1641 West Marquette road and is a sales engineer for a steel company, has told repeatedly in the last five days the story that Miss Newby was kidnaped and carried away with him in his expensive automobile. One of the two kidnapers, he asserted, beat him until he was unconscious and left him in a roadside ditch not far from the spot where her body was found.

Dramatic Scene in Woods.

Murray repeated this same story, in the main, late last night during a dramatic scene in the deep woods, where he was taken by the police. Standing beside the body of Miss Newby, he looked down into her face, illuminated by the flickering flames of a campfire, and shed a tear as he said: "Yes, that's the girl." Later Murray was taken to the Morton Grove station of the highway police, where he was still being questioned early this morning.

Henry W. Bahe, 56 years old, a farmer living one mile southwest of Arlington Heights, discovered Miss Newby's body yesterday. He heard about the kidnaping and murder mystery last Friday when the county highway police began to search the woods. Familiar with the forest preserve, he told his wife yesterday that the snow was off the ground and that if the body was in the woods he would find it.

The task took him little more than an hour. The spot where the slain woman lay is about a mile and a half northwest of the crossing of Arlington Heights road and Higgins road, and about a quarter of a mile east of Salt creek, a winding sylvan stream that in summer is a rendezvous for picnic parties. It is about a half mile south of the northern edge of the Elk Grove forest preserve.

Partly Hidden by Snow.

A few yards to the east of this spot is a road that is little more than a mere trail. It has been passable for automobiles during most of the winter.

Miss Newby's body lay partly under a snowdrift with her face down. The left arm was flung outward and the right doubled under the body. The clothing was disarranged. A hat of the poke type, originally light in color but now dark with blood stains, lay a few feet away. Over the left ear was the mark of a heavy blow. Not far from the hat lay a bottle half filled with moonshine whisky.

Bahe hurried to a house in the forest preserve and reported his discovery to Henry Tagge, a forest preserve warden, who transmitted the information to Lieut. Lester Laird of the county highway police at Morton Grove.

A little later Chief William F. Collins of the highway police took active charge of the investigation. He sent his own men to take Murray into custody. Dorion was arrested by the Warren avenue police at Chief Collins' request in the home of Miss Newby's mother, Mrs. Lucy Sheehan, with whom the slain woman had lived.

The two brothers of Dorion who were held are Omar, 47 years old, 2947 West Congress street, and Albert, 36 years old, 4034 Taylor street. All the Dorions denied knowing anything about the killing and the slain woman's fiancé declared that he had never heard of Murray until a week after Miss Newby disappeared.

The fiancé of the slain woman had gone to Mrs. Sheehan's home to condole with her. When the police arrived to take him he was telling an interviewer of his love affair with Miss Newby.

"I had been going with her for eight years," he said. "We decided four years ago to get married, but we had to delay because neither of us could leave home. I had to support a mother and she had to help support hers. But I had given her a ring and she had the hope chest ready. We would have been married soon, I think.

"As for Murray, I never saw him and Norma had never mentioned him to me. They tell me Norma and he had been friends for 17 years. That part of it is all a puzzle."

Await Deputy Coroners.

Miss Newby's body was left as it was found in the lonely forest until the arrival of Deputy Coroners Charles Reynolds and Frank Donahue. It was while awaiting them that Murray was brought to the scene to repeat his story of the mysterious kidnaping.

Hurried from his home to the Morton Grove station, Murray was questioned briefly by Lieut. Laird and Sergts. Robert Schanbaum and Benjamin Ruben, and was then taken to the scene over a part of the same route, according to his story, that had been followed when he and Miss Newby went to the forest preserve two weeks and a day earlier.

He reiterated that on March 2 he had gone to the plant of the Malleable Steel company in Melrose Park and had taken Miss Newby with him. He had met her in the loop. While he was parking his Marmon car two men in another automobile halted beside him, according to his story, and one got into the back seat of his car and ordered him to drive north.

Beaten by Robber, He Says.

Obeying, he took Mannheim road as far north as Higgins road, where he turned west for six miles and then swerved, again at command, northward into the forest preserve trail. A mile back in the wintry forest depths he was told to get out. One of the men, following him on foot, took his watch and $97 and then beat him about the head until he was unconscious, Murray said.

Murray has consistently asserted that he had no knowledge of what happened to his car and to Miss Newby. But he did not report her abduction when the police questioned him about his own injuries and the fact that she had been with him was not known even to her relatives until a week later.

So, as they rode along, Lieut. Laird questioned him about the discrepancies in his story. To all the questions Murray returned steady answers.

Arriving in the forest preserve, Laird ordered a halt about 125 yards southeast of the spot where the body still lay under the guardianship of the deputy coroner, his investigator, and the county highway police.

"This," said the lieutenant, "is the place where, you told me last week, the robbers made you get out of your car."

"Yes," said Murray.

"Which way did they make you go?"

Murray pointed, but in a direction directly opposite to the one in which the body lay.

Then, with Schanbaum holding one arm and Lieut. Laird the other, he was marched over the light snow that still lay in the forest preserve. It crunched under their feet. A dim light began to loom through the trees. It was thrown by a small bonfire that had been built by a little group now standing by the body.

"I never came this way," Murray volunteered.

The policemen made no answer. They pushed him into the center on the lighted space and made him bend down and gaze into the face of the slain Miss Newby.

"Yes," he said, "that's the girl."

Then Deputy Coroner Reynolds motioned to Tagge, who was standing only a few feet away. As he came forward Reynolds turned to Murray.

"Do you know this man?" he asked.

Murray shook his head and Reynolds asked Tagge:

"Did you ever see this man?"

"Lots of times," replied the forest warden. "He and the woman came here in his car at least a dozen times this winter, at least once a week."

"You never saw me, brother," asserted Murray. "I was never here before the holdup in my life."

For at least half a minute there was a complete silence. The farmers and the policemen who stood about were stolid. The only sound was the cracklin_ of wood on the open fire. It was Murray who spoke first, and as if he were talking to himself.

"That's the girl, all right. Her name is Norma Newby. I believe I know who did this." His voice strengthened and he spoke in more excited fashion. "I wish I could see the man in the truck that picked me up. I believe some boys in Melrose Park did it. I'm not lying. I went the other way."

Then he was silent again. Lieut. Laird reminded him that he had never spoken of any boys from Melrose Park before. But Murray, for the moment, had finished with talk. He replaced his derby hat on his carefully trained gray locks. Lieut. Laird took him back to the highway police station.

There, a little later, he denied that he had ever seen either bottle of moonshine or the wrench which had laid beside his sweetheart's body.

The body of Norma Newby, who in life was a waitress and the fiancée of Dorion, a street car conductor, albeit the friend for seventeen years of an engineer, but who in death was the center of an absorbing mystery, was placed in a hearse and taken to the county morgue. It was still swathed in the red cloth coat with the rabbits' fur collar.

In Chicago, at the Sheehan home, Norma's mother, who had asserted when the finding of the body, was first announced that she had complete faith in Murray, cried out when she learned that he had viewed the body.

"If that's my girl and he killed her, I'll kill him myself."

There the case stood early today with the engineer, who insists he was merely a platonic lover, the fiancé and his two brothers in custody, the missing car, and the two alleged robbers being sought by the police.

The police considered the possibility that the alleged attack on Murray and the killing of Miss Newby were the outcome of a revenge plot.

But the mystery centered more on the story of Murray. The police assert that it is filled with inconsistencies. Why, Chief Collins of the Highway force asked, had Murray concealed the fact that the woman had been kidnaped, while talking freely about the beating and robbery of himself.

Tells of Trip Home.

Murray had stated that as soon as he recovered consciousness he made his way back to Higgins road, where he stopped a farmer in a truck and was taken to Grand and Cicero avenues, where he entered a Yellow cab and was driven home. There his injuries were regarded as so serious that he was taken to the Englewood hospital for treatment.

The first report of the affair was made at the hospital. Murray later said that he had kept the name of Miss Newby out of it because he did not want his wife and daughter to know of his friendship with her. Although Mrs. Sheehan told the police of her daughter's disappearance on March 3 and mentioned Murray to them, he kept silence about her for a week.

The police regarded it as strange it was two weeks before he advanced the theory that boys from Melrose Park were his assailants.

Other factors puzzling the police include Miss Newby's deception of her fiancé for eight years; how this intimacy—Murray had been out with her at least once a week for a long period—could have been concealed from Dorion.

Diamond Ring Missing.

The story that the slain woman was taken away by the robbers is strengthened by one fact. Miss Newby's diamond ring, the gift of Arthur Dorion, was on her finger when she left home on March 2. It was missing when Bahe found her body in the forest preserve.

Another fact which the police planned to investigate was that Albert Dorion, when he reached the Morton Grove station, had one ear bandaged. He was to be asked to explain that injury.

The Marmon car, from which police believe the wrench beside the body came, was a blue sedan of the 1929 model, and bore the 1931 Illinois license plates 583-804. This is the car in which Murray and the slain girl rode. It has not yet been found.

Cause of Blast Unknown.

Tonight there was still little information as to the cause of the explosion on the Viking. Capt. Kean, who was on the bridge of his ship when the explosion occurred, said he was thrown 12 feet to the ice. Members of the crew, quartered forward, were knocked down or tossed from their berths. Most of them, however, had no difficulty in making their way from the ship to the ice, but when some of them sought to return to the boat for personal belongings they were driven back by dense smoke. Fire already was roaring in the hold.

The explosion is generally believed to have resulted from too great a head of steam, put on in an effort to drive the 50 year old Viking through the ice. The engine crew, boatswain, steward, and cook are among the missing. All of these, together with the three Americans, are believed to have been aft when the explosion occurred.

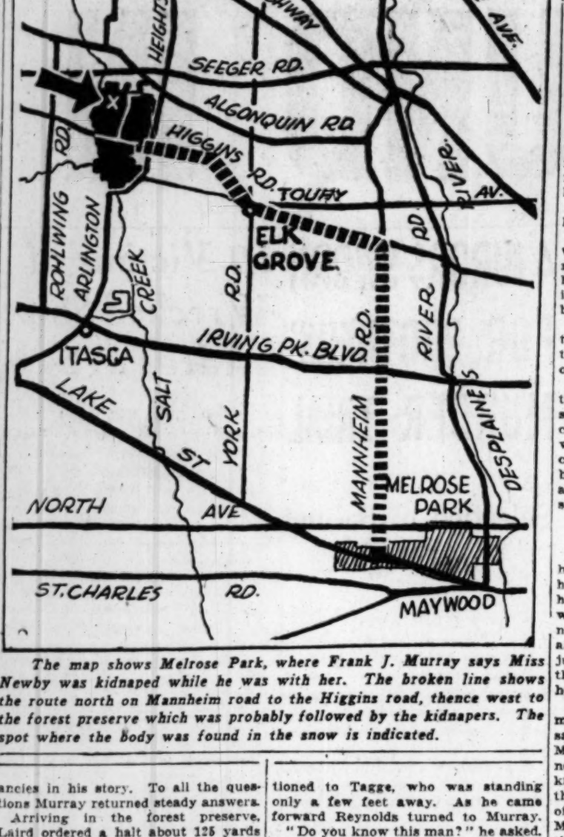
It was revealed today that there were two stowaways on board the Viking—Michael Gardner and Edward Cronin, both of St. John's. Whether they succeeded in reaching shore is not definitely known.

Penrod an Illinois Man.

Carbondale, Ill., March 17.—[Special.]—News that her son, A. G. Penrod, 42, motion picture cameraman, was among the missing following an explosion which destroyed the sealer Viking, was received today by Penrod's mother, Mrs. Blanche McGuire of this city. Although Penrod's home is now in Waterbury, Conn., he was reared and educated in Carbondale.

Scene of Kidnaping and Murder



The map shows Melrose Park, where Frank J. Murray says Miss Newby was kidnaped while he was with her. The broken line shows the route north on Mannheim road to the Higgins road, thence west to the forest preserve which was probably followed by the kidnapers. The spot where the body was found in the snow is indicated.

HUNT POLICE CHIEF FOR DISARMING OF PROHIBITION AGENTS

William Dillon, chief of police of Forest View, near Stickney, was revealed yesterday as the "unidentified gunman" sought by federal authorities for disarming two dry officers recently in front of Ralph Capone's Cotton club, 5342 West 22d street, Cicero. Forest View is reputed to be under Capone gang domination.

Dillon was named in a warrant issued by United States Commissioner Walker charging assault and interference with a federal officer. Deputy Marshals Joseph Spizzirri and Joseph O'Neill for the last week have been raiding vice dens in Capone territory, including the notorious Stockade in Stickney, but no trace of Dillon has been found. He was not at his office, nor at his home in Riverside.

Roy M. Budd, a prohibition agent, and Policeman Dan Coakley, attached to the dry bureau, were disarmed by Jack Karron, the doorman, while they were observing the Cotton club for liquor violations. The dry agents said a gunman assisted Karron in disarming them.

Cicero police were called and, despite the fact that they were shown the credentials of the dry officers, they took them into custody.

BERLIN, March 17.—(AP)—The reichstag today adopted a committee resolution recommending the drafting of a bill providing for a forty hour working week to relieve unemployment.

Peak in British Jobless.

LONDON, March 17.—(AP)—The number of unemployed increased by 57,163 in Great Britain during the week ended March 9, it was announced today, bringing the total of jobless to 2,691,737. The large increase was attributed officially to temporary cessations of work in the mining industry.

The figure represented the highest peak of unemployment ever recorded in Great Britain. The previous high was 2,643,127, recorded on Dec. 29.

Drink Parlor and Gypsy Flat Targets of Bombs

Two bombings occurred last night in Chicago. The first was at the soft drink parlor of Vincent Rolewicz at 4758 South Loomis street, and caused damage of $500. Rolewicz, whose family living quarters are in the rear of the saloon, said that he knew of no motive. The second bomb was set off in the rear of a three story flat building at 1447 South Halsted street, occupied exclusively by gypsies. A feud among gypsy factions was assigned by the police as the probable cause.

work and never thought to have the name changed on the telegraph company records.

So it was in her name that the first messages of the fatal explosion which tore the sealer Viking apart trickled through to the world, but it was her brother who tapped tirelessly out the first details, working 48 hours on end without sleep to tell of the disaster. And he never thought of credit until the telegraph company straightened out his identity tonight.

Seven Men Drift in Boat.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., March 17.—(AP)—The radio station at Horse Island sent out piece by piece tonight the story of the tragedy of the wrecked sealing ship Viking. In terse, broken sentences it gave what meager facts it could learn from the men who reached the island after a long trek over the ice. Many of them are suffering from exposure and weakness.

When dawn broke today those on shore saw a heartbreaking scene about four miles away—seven men, survivors of the Viking blast, fighting their faltering way in a dory among the tossing ice floes in an effort to reach the island. Five of the men in the boat appeared from shore to be seriously hurt. The other two were having difficulty in making progress. A company of survivors at Horse island, despite their own weakened condition, set forth shortly after noon today in an effort to reach the dory. Fear was expressed they would be too late.

DETECTIVES GO AND MRS. BRUNKER RULES HER HOME

Mrs. Margaret Gaynor Brunker, whose flight from her Lake Forest home with the Reno divorce court as her objective was halted early Sunday by north shore police, yesterday regained control of her household after a second conference between her attorney and those representing her absent husband, Albert R. Brunker, millionaire reformer.

As Attorney Walter B. Wolfe, representing Mr. Brunker, and John A. Bloomington, representing Mrs. Brunker, left the Lake Forest home last night they announced that "all was quiet" and that matters would remain that way—at least until Mr. Brunker, who is now in New York, returns next week. The attorneys declined to discuss the possibilities of divorce proceedings until the head of the house returns.

The detectives who have been watching the home to prevent Mrs. Brunker from making further attempts to take her two children with her to Reno were removed last night, the attorneys said, and the servants again were instructed to take their orders from Mrs. Brunker.

HOMER GALPIN HEARD BY JURY IN POLICE QUIZ

Homer K. Galpin, Republican leader now in charge of Mayor Thompson's campaign for reelection, spent an hour and 20 minutes yesterday before the special grand jury, which is investigating charges of police corruption. The jurors indicated last evening that Galpin may be asked to return at a later session after the testimony he gave yesterday is investigated by the jury's detectives working under the direction of Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller.

J. A. Farmer, foreman of the special grand jury, made the announcement that the jury has not completed its investigations pertaining to Galpin. He said that Galpin may or may not be called back before the jury, depending on what the investigations of the next few days disclose.

Galpin and Jury Silent.

Galpin refused to discuss the testimony he had given before the grand jury. The jurors also refused to discuss the situation at this time, saying that they want time to complete the investigation before making an official announcement of the results.

The jurors refused to say whether Galpin admitted or denied the rumors that a $25,000 check from the Hawthorne Kennel club, known as Capone's dog track, had been paid into the last Thompson campaign fund. It was said that the authorities had information that this check was made out to Galpin and did not go through the regular channels of the campaign funds.

The jurors had expressed a curiosity as to why an organization not within the confines of the city should make such a large contribution to a mayoralty candidate unless it was for past favors for other interests within the city.

Jury to Investigate.

Galpin, it was announced, was not asked to sign an immunity waiver. He could not claim any privilege to prevent him from answering all questions directed at him. Because of this the jurors want first to investigate his statements before issuing any official announcement.

S. L. Chleboun, cashier of the First National bank of Cicero, also was before the jury yesterday with the records of disbursements of all funds of the dog track interests. An agent named Hodgkins from the office of the collector of internal revenue was also before the jury.

The jurors also refused to discuss the testimony of these witnesses. Some of the records of the kennel club are now in the hands of the government.

Jurors Hear Carlos Ames.

The jurors heard testimony from Maj. Carlos Ames, who was ousted as president of the civil service commission last week, following the posting of the results of the competitive examination for police sergeants. Thompson accepted Maj. Ames' "resignation" because of complaints made about the examination, he said.

"The jurors gave Maj. Ames a vote of confidence," Foreman Farmer said after the session. "The jurors to a man feel that the examination conducted by Maj. Ames was fair and square. We know the manner in which the examination was conducted, the way the papers were guarded, and the system of grading the papers. We feel that it is the first competitive examination in a good many years at least which provided for fair and square treatment of the rank and file of the department irrespective of political connections."

Employes from the office of Christian Paschen, building commissioner, who recently was indicted on charges of income tax evasion, were before the jury yesterday for questioning on contributions to a campaign fund. They denied that they were asked to contribute to any fund.

SISTERS CRUSHED UNDER BURNING AUTO

[Moffett Photo.]

Crash Near Dwight

Mrs. Dorothy Wilson, 26 years old, 854 Briar place, and her sister, Mrs. Donnelly McBride, 30 years old, 5823 West 64th street, were seriously injured yesterday when their automobile crashed into the rear of a truck parked on a highway three miles north of Dwight, Ill.

Mrs. Wilson was severely burned on the body and legs when the car caught fire and physicians at St. Joseph's hospital in Joliet said that it may be necessary to amputate both of her feet. Mrs. McBride suffered a broken leg, internal injuries and a possible skull fracture.

Wiley J. Huddle, 52 years old, 794 Rosewood avenue, Winnetka, a consulting engineer, died in the Evanston hospital last night as the result of injuries suffered on Sunday night when he was struck by a hit and run driver as he and his wife, Harriet, were crossing Tower road at Vernon avenue in Winnetka. Mrs. Huddle suffered minor injuries.

John B. Thorpe, 25 years old, 6614 Kenwood avenue, was killed early this morning when he struck a safety island at Vincennes avenue and Oakwood boulevard. It is supposed he was blinded by the snow storm which began shortly before daylight.

Joliet Saloon Damaged by Explosion of Bomb

The saloon of Hubert Curry, 213 Indiana street, Joliet, was bombed early this morning. The bomb was placed at the front door and blew windows out of the structure and from buildings across the street. The damage was estimated at more than $1,000. This is the second time Curry has been bombed and it is the third bombing in Joliet in the last 18 months.

STRATTON WARNS 300,000 TO BUY MOTOR LICENSES

Arrests to Start on April 1, He Says.

Secretary of State William J. Stratton reported yesterday that while a million 1931 state licenses have been issued, there are still approximately 300,000 automobiles on the streets and highways with the 1930 plates.

WILLIAM J. STRATTON.

"I wrote a letter to the chiefs of police of all municipalities several days ago," said Mr. Stratton, "asking them to warn motorists with 1930 plates to pay their registration fees. On April 1 I'm going to ask the state highway police to start making arrests."

Discusses Chicago Arrests.

"Do you expect Chicago police to arrest motorists before April 7?" he was asked.

"I don't expect the Chicago police will bother automobile drivers until after the mayoralty election," he replied. "However, it's unfair to the million who have paid their auto taxes for 300,000 to postpone paying. The state is losing interest on more than $3,000,000."

City Auto Tax Delinquents.

A casual inspection of cars on the boulevards indicates that many automobile owners are delinquent in paying the city wheel tax. Many cars, it was observed, have their 1931 state plates, but are without the 1931 city vehicle tag.

Yesterday being St. Patrick's day, the office of City Collector Morris Eller was closed, and figures on the city vehicle tax payments were not available.

DIES OF BURNS.

BILL GIVES TEACHERS FIVE DAYS TO ATTEND COUNCIL MEETINGS

Springfield, Ill., March 17.—[Special.]—Senator Thomas J. Courtney [Dem., Chicago] introduced a bill into the state senate today which would allow Chicago school teachers, belonging to the teachers' councils, five days off per year to attend the council meetings.

When he was superintendent of schools of Chicago, William McAndrew abolished this custom. The meetings would be under the control of the board of education, which would be authorized to close the schools not more than five days per year to allow the teachers to attend the meetings.

SHOTGUN GANG RAIDS OFFICE; SEIZES $2,000

Other Robbers Use Truck to Clean Out Store.

Five robbers, three armed with sawed off shotguns and two with pistols, terrorized fifteen employes of the west side branch of the Prudential Life Insurance company at 4750 West Washington boulevard late yesterday and fled after seizing more than $2,000.

William J. Kebs, 3919 West Grand avenue, cashier, and his clerks, most of whom are girls, were checking the day's collection receipts when the robbers entered. Two armed men took their stand at the front door, one went to guard an exit in the rear, and the others, holding their shotguns leveled, marched into Kebs' cage. One bandit watched Kebs while the other scooped the cash into a paper sack.

Forced to Lie on Floor.

Then, after all the employes of the office had been forced to lie down on the floor, the quintet fled. Kebs, at a window, saw them drive away in a red touring car.

Among the girls threatened by the robber gang are Helen Mueller, 206 North Latrobe avenue; Helen Kayser, 4718 Fulton boulevard, and Evelyn Warner, 336 Austin boulevard, Oak Park.

Women also were the victims in a holdup last evening of the Carlton dress shop at 4834 Sheridan road. The manager, Mrs. T. Leeb, and five customers who were looking at spring garments were forced into a dressing room by two armed men. The bandits escaped with $75 from the cash register and a wrist watch belonging to Mrs. Mary Melsha, 840 Ainslie street, whose husband, Edward Melsha, is credit superintendent for the Johns-Manville company.

Use Truck for Dress Loot.

Another pair of robbers went into the dress shop of Norman Shraiberg at 3438 Lawrence avenue and, after tying the proprietor and Solly Cohen, 3837 West Van Buren street, salesman for a wholesale dress concern, looted the store.

A truck was backed up to the rear door and 450 dresses, Shraiberg's entire stock, was loaded on it. Cohen's sample case with nineteen dresses went the same way, and the robbers took $37 from the two men before they fled.

Two patient robbers entered the office of the United States Finance and Mortgage company of 721 North Michigan avenue during the afternoon. They first bound and gagged Henry Freed and George Florence, clerks, who were unable to tell them the combination to the safe. Then the bandits waited until Albert R. Freed, the manager, arrived. From him they took $78 he had in his pockets—the safe was empty—and left after binding him.

Robert Hegnauer, 15 years old, 1024 Wellington avenue, was robbed of $35 in the offices of the students' newspaper in the Lake View High school. He is the editor of the paper and was counting the advertising receipts when a heavily bearded, shabbily dressed man with a pistol entered and forced him to surrender the money.

Elmer Plath, 1628 Cortland street, shot six times at a burglar who was trying to enter his home from the front porch roof early yesterday.

Two gunmen last night held up a restaurant at 3205 North Halsted street and locked the proprietor and five customers in the kitchen. Thomas Foches, the owner, lost $25. Miss Marie Doyle, 721 Belmont avenue, lost $4, and Miss Virginia Corthy of the same address lost $10 and her purse.

Joseph Arienn, owner of a furniture store at 1922 Milwaukee avenue, was met by two armed bandits last night at he was leaving his store. They forced him into a rear room, locked the door, and fled with a hand carved walnut radio and a hand carved occasional table valued at $150.

Henry Young, 1228 Farwell avenue, and Mrs. Kendell Clough, 529 Aldine avenue, were held up early this morning at Glenwood avenue and Norwood street. Young was robbed of $6 and Mrs. Clough of two rings valued at $350. Mrs. Clough had been a guest of the Youngs and Mr. Young was taking her home.

A Night Letter from Ring Lardner

Tucson, Ariz., March 17.—[Special.]—Whatever became of Mr. C. C. Pyle, the champion sports promoter? If he is still in the mood to do some promoting, here is an idea which I believe would knock them out of their seats: Arrange a combination yacht race and tennis tournament between Sir Thomas Lipton and Karel Kozeluh. Keep this going until one man or the other admitted defeat and then match the loser in a backgammon series with the Boston Red Sox.

CERMAK IS 2 TO 1 LEADER IN DAY'S SOUTH SIDE POLL

His Straw Vote Total Is 6,000 Above Mayor.

Pre-Campaign Poll

Cermak [D]	11,012	4,514	15,526	61.48
Thompson [R]	7,298	2,275	9,568	37.63
Stout [A]	154	80	293	.89
Totals	18,394	6,858	25,252	100.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The preferences or 6,858 south side residents on the mayoralty candidates were added yesterday to the opinions of 18,394 persons previously obtained. In yesterday's poll Anton J. Cermak received 4,514 votes to 2,275 for Mayor Thompson. Of the 25,252 expressions of preference gathered so far in the entire poll, Cermak is favored by 15,526, Thompson by 9,503, and the other 223 are for Ernest Stout.

On the basis of 1,000,000 active voters, these straw votes indicate that if the election were held today, Cermak, the Democratic candidate, would win by a 238,000 plurality.

Two to One for Cermak.

The straw votes collected yesterday at motion picture theaters of the south side in other than the 1st, 2d, 3d, and 4th wards, were distributed among the candidates as follows:

	Votes.	Per cent.
Cermak [Dem.]	4,514	65.82
Thompson [Rep.]	2,275	33.17
Stout [A. Nat.]	69	1.01
Totals	6,858	100.00

For the purposes of comparison the theater straw votes gathered yesterday have been divided into three groups. The first includes theaters in the Fifth, Sixth, Seventh and Eighth wards, which, combined, are usually Republican. In the second group is the string of Democratic wards, the Eleventh, Twelfth, Thirteenth, Fourteenth, Fifteenth and Sixteenth wards. The third group comprises the trio of southwest wards—the Seventeenth, Eighteenth and Nineteenth—coupled with the Ninth and Tenth on the far south side.

Results of Theater Poll.

In the last mayoralty election these wards polled an aggregate of 317,911 votes and in the election on April 7 next they probably will poll several thousand more.

THE TRIBUNE poll in these wards four years ago was more favorable to Thompson than the later election justified.

"CERMAK HOUR" WILL BE PUT ON THE AIR FIVE TIMES A WEEK

Five times a week from now until the mayoralty election on April 7, the Cermak Business Men's committee will present a program of entertainment and a brief speech during "Cermak hour" on four radio stations. The schedule is as follows:

Mondays	WENR	9:00 p. m.
Wednesdays	WIBO	8:45 p. m.
Thursdays	WJJD	7:15 p. m.
Saturdays	WIBO	8:45 p. m.
Sundays	WBBM	4:00 p. m.

On tonight's program Brig. Gen. John V. Clinnin is the speaker. With him will be Grant Withers, movie star, who will be interviewed by Miss Frankie James, Al Jolson's leading lady.

Women of Swedish Descent Plan Recepiton for Cermak

Plans for a reception at which A. J. Cermak will be the principal guest and which will be attended by 1,000 women of Swedish ancestry will be laid on Friday at a meeting in the Drake hotel. Mrs. John E. Ericsson, a Republican, heads the committee of Swedish women. Miss Genevieve Corkell, a former Densen worker, and Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, chairman of the women's independent organizations for Cermak, will speak at the reception.

LEWIS PLEADS FOR A CAMPAIGN MINUS DONKEYS

Deplores "Swine and Jackass" Politics.

futile one and to discuss it in only a lighter vein.

Some of the anti-Thompson Republicans who have refused to enter the city hall camp also declined to be interviewed for publication but they, too, jested to the effect that, whatever the exact reason for the unusual step, it was a confession of weakness on the part of the city hall.

The round robin implied that the signers were actuated by a desire to leave Thompson free to offer good appointments to hold-out Republicans and also to Democrats.

Round Robin Is Quoted.

"In order to relieve you of any feeling of obligation on your part to continue any of us under your incoming administration," it read, "we hereby individually and collectively tender to you our resignations of our respective offices to take effect at your pleasure."

Among the signers were Corporation Counsel Ettelson, City Collector Eller, City Sealer Dan Serritella, Capone lieutenant; Building Commissioner Paschen, and President Faherty of the board of local improvements.

Opposition leaders pointed out that some of these officials have been considered a burden on Thompson's shoulders in this campaign. Building Commissioner Paschen is under indictment in the federal courts, charged with income tax evasion. City Sealer Serritella has been closely linked up with Al Capone. Faherty has been widely condemned by business, real estate, and local improvement organizations.

Others Are Not Signers.

But, it was argued, if the purpose of the move was to lift a load of responsibility from the candidate for the conduct of his appointees, the list of signers would have been much longer.

It was remarked that Bishop A. J. Carey, Negro member of the civil service commission, is under indictment on charges of conspiracy in connection with the sale of jobs, that Commissioner Richard W. Wolfe of the public works department had placed responsibility for the Wabash avenue bridge scandal on his deputy, E. F. Moore, and that Harry Hochstein, deputy city sealer, has been in trouble more than once. None of their names was included in the round robin.

It also was recalled that there were two reasons why the signers did not need to offer their resignations. One of these was seen in the Thompson practice of obtaining an appointee's resignation before he takes office. It is believed he has the resignations of all his jobholders in his desk. It was a resignation of this sort that Thompson accepted from Maj. Carlos Ames, then head of the civil service commission, last week.

Lawyers' View of Resignations.

The second fact referred to by lawyers was that the terms of office of all of the round robin signers are only two years, that nearly all of them have served longer than that, and that therefore their terms have expired and their legal status is that of holdovers.

Some of the Democrats both joked and talked seriously with such expressions as "deserting the sinking ship," but other debaters insisted on their belief that the big resignation plan was prearranged with Thompson and that he would not take any action whatever on the letter.

It also was argued by politicians that Thompson did not need the resignation list in order to be free to offer fat jobs to district leaders and ward committeemen who are fighting him.

Cermak, Silent, Smiles.

A. J. Cermak, Democratic nominee for mayor, only smiled when he was asked about the Thompson cabinet maneuver. In his talk last night before the Ancient Order of Hibernians in the Ashland Boulevard Auditorium he confined himself almost entirely to a discussion of Irish heroism with only one allusion of a political nature.

"It was Gen. Anthony Wayne, the hero of Stony Point," he said, "who led the Pennsylvanians to many of their victories. Washington didn't seem to have the same objection to the name of 'Tony' that is expressed by some of the people constantly misquoting him today.

With the labor unions constituting the Wage Earners' league, a city hall auxiliary, under orders to march their men to the meeting, a large crowd is expected at the first of Thompson's noon meetings in the loop, a meeting at the Apollo theater today. All Thompson's pay rollers also have been instructed to send one or more relatives or friends so that the street corner will be jammed and impress the public as a proof of Thompson's popularity.

REPUBLICAN WOMAN TELLS WHY SHE IS SUPPORTING CERMAK

Four thousand letters addressed to club women affiliated in the majority with Jewish organizations were placed in the mail yesterday by Mrs. Judith Loewenthal. The letters give Mrs. Loewenthal's reasons for supporting A. J. Cermak for mayor, although she is a Republican.

Mrs. Loewenthal for years has been identified with the leading women's clubs of Chicago. She was a supporter of Ald. Arthur F. Albert for mayor in the primary, but immediately on his defeat switched her support to Mr. Cermak.

"Mr. Cermak," her letter says, "has demonstrated his capacity to serve his fellow citizens by honest efforts intelligently applied. In advocating and sponsoring comprehensive measures for reform, Mr. Cermak has come nearer to the ideals and standards of the Republican party as expressed by national leaders than has his opponent by his extravagant stunt politics.

"I am supporting Mr. Cermak because as a citizen of Chicago I hope that we may regain our spirit of action, our morale, and our progressive and kindly industrial and social leadership before the spotlight is turned on our great World's Fair. It appears self-evident that Mr. Cermak's election is essential if we are to build anew."

ROOSEVELT GETS CHARGES AGAINST MAYOR WALKER

Governor May Be Forced to Order Inquiry.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 17.—[Special.]—Formal charges against Mayor James J. Walker, now sojourning in California, were filed with Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt tonight.

The mayor is accused of neglect and unfitness, but the details were not made public and Gov. Roosevelt made no comment before entraining at midnight for Albany.

The charges are said to be specific and of such nature as to compel the governor to take some action toward widening the vice and graft investigation now confined to the police and magistrates. It is considered possible, however, that the governor will take the attitude that any general investigation of the Tammany controlled city government must come from the legislature, rather than from the executive branch of the state government.

G. O. P. Can't Line Up Votes.

Republican members of the legislature have been trying to put through a resolution for a general inquiry, but with a majority of one vote they have not been able to keep all their party men in line and have failed to pass the measure.

Presentation of the charges was effected tonight by Dr. John Hayes Holmes and Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of the city affairs committee. They visited Gov. Roosevelt's home at 10:30 p. m. and conferred with him just before he returned to Albany.

The charges are contained in a document of four thousand words. The first part is a list of specific complaints against the mayor. The second part is a memorandum containing supporting data. Persons outside the committee, who have seen the document, expressed the opinion that it was sufficiently strong to cause the governor to give it serious consideration.

No Response to Public Clamor.

Gov. Roosevelt had let it become known that he would not respond to any public clamor for a city-wide investigation and that he would act only upon specific charges, such as led him to appoint Samuel Seabury to investigate the conduct of District Attorney Thomas C. T. Crain. Previously Mr. Seabury had been put in charge of an investigation of police frameups in vice cases and of the conduct of city magistrates.

With the specific charges against Mayor Walker in his possession, the governor is now in position either to widen the investigations already under way, or to "pass the buck" to the state legislature.

Any investigation involving Mayor Walker would break wide open the rôle of Tammany hall in the city government. Many citizens have charged the city government is honeycombed with graft, that almost every department is involved in some "racket," and that a rigid inquiry would disclose facts as startling as the famous Lexow investigations of two decades ago.

Walker Blames Politics.

Mayor Walker departed for California for a rest cure on the eve of demands for a city-wide inquiry, but he has declared since his departure that he would be back in two or three weeks and that he is willing to be investigated up and down and sidewise. He blames the hue and cry to politics.

Other important developments in the various movements to bring about investigations of public officials in the city were the summoning of District Attorney Crain by Samuel Seabury, the governor's commissioner, to appear tomorrow on the City club charges against him, and Gov. Roosevelt's formal refusal of Mr. Crain's request to revoke the appointment of Mr. Seabury on the ground of bias.

Grants of Land to Park Used to Protest Tracks on Drive

Old records showing that Chicago's founders wanted the lake front developed as a people's park and not as a right of way for a street car spur were introduced as evidence before the Illinois commerce commission yesterday to support the petition of the Lincoln park board seeking the removal of car tracks in Lake Shore drive between Chicago avenue and Ohio street.

The documents were presented as proof that when Mayor Thompson and the park board allowed the present tracks to be laid during the Pageant of Progress in 1921 they violated the terms of the grant made by public spirited citizens who gave the land to Lincoln park with the stipulation that it was to be used for the sole purpose of beautifying the lake front.

"Temporary" Tracks Remain.

Those "temporary" tracks, put down ten years ago, are still there, the attorneys pointed out, seriously interfering with traffic along Lake Shore drive, obstructing the bridle path and marring the beauty of the lake shore.

Furthermore, the lawyers declare, the presence of the tracks will defeat the whole purpose of the new $10,000,000 outer drive link bridge. Unless the tracks are removed, they point out, a bottle neck will be created to halt the heavy flow of traffic made possible by the construction of the bridge.

The Chicago Surface Lines resist efforts to compel them to vacate the right of way, denying that the agreement under which the tracks were laid stipulated that they should be removed after the pageant.

Notable Names on Documents.

Attached to the documents setting forth the conditions under which the land was ceded to the park were the signatures of such notables as Nathaniel N. Fairbanks, John V. Farwell, Walter C. Newberry, A. H. Green, William O. Wheeler, and William A. Ogden.

Col. William H. Beckman and George E. Woods, attorneys for the park board, in closing their case before the commission, charged that the street car company is a squatter and a trespasser on land that was intended only for the use of the people. They cited as proof of their contention the following passage included in these early documents:

"That the lands and the riparian rights herein granted and conveyed to Lincoln park shall never be used otherwise than for park purposes, and that the lands, formed by accretion or otherwise, contiguous and belonging to the shores of Lake Michigan, thus formed and made by boulevard or driveway, shall not be used for the erection thereon, or for any purposes but those of a public park under the management of the commissioners of Lincoln park."

NEW ASSISTANT DIRECTOR FOR BUREAU NAMED

President Cermak of the county board yesterday confirmed the appointment of Miss Ruth R. Coleman of 1091 North Dearborn street as assistant director of the bureau of public welfare, in charge of the court service division.

The appointment is a part of Mr. Cermak's plan to put county offices on a civil service basis and was a result of a civil service examination conducted by a committee of social service workers headed by Miss Josephonisba Breckinridge of the University of Chicago.

Miss Coleman succeeds Mrs. Margaret Donar, a temporary appointee, who was made supervisor of the alimony bureau.

HINDU-MOSLEM CHIEFS IN INDIA AGREE TO PEACE

Old Religious War Ends; Will Sign Pact.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BOMBAY, March 17.—A solution of one of India's greatest tragedies, the strife between Hindus and the Moslems which has cost thousands of lives in recent years and wrecked all chances of Indian national unity, has virtually been achieved, Maulana Shaukat Ali, a rabid Mohammedan and communalist, told THE TRIBUNE'S correspondent in an exclusive interview tonight.

Ali had two long conferences with Mahatma Gandhi today, and a third with Pandit Jawaharal Nehru, president of the All-India Nationalist congress party. He then departed for Delhi, where the leading Moslems and Hindus of India are gathering to draw up the peace pact over the week-end. It is hoped this treaty will end for all time the bitter feud between the followers of the prophet and the worshipers of the sacred cow.

Will Draft Peace Pact.

The entire All-India congress working committee, led by Gandhi, moves to Delhi tomorrow to confer with the Mohammedans. They plan to draft an agreement which will not only settle the present differences but will enable them to present a united Indian demand for self-government at the round table conference.

Virtual accord was reached between the two religious factions after the Mohammedans ceded their claim to separate electorates and agreed to accept joint electorates in return for the Hindus' guaranteeing them a one-third representation in the central and provincial legislatures and in the government services. The Moslems number 80,000,000 or a fourth of the total population, but Gandhi has willingly conceded them 33 1-3 per cent.

Under the present scheme of separate electorates the Moslems will have their own electoral divisions. Under the proposed joint electorates the Hindus and Moslems will vote in the same division.

Held Up London Parley.

It was this lone point which held up the work at the London round table conference and prevented any progress in the minorities committee. The report of the committee, in fact, stipulated that, unless the two parties settled their problems among themselves, separate electorates would be retained under the new constitution.

Gandhi held out firmly against separate elections on the ground that they would perpetuate for all time a discord between the two bodies. He agreed to give the Moslems all the representation in the legislatures and government services they wanted.

Maulana Shaukat Ali admitted this tonight and said:

"Gandhi offered to give us anything we wanted to meet all our demands. We could not ask any more than that. So we will receive our one-third representation and agree to joint electorates provisionally. Then, if they work, we will accept them finally."

Shaukat Ali, with his brother, Mohammed Ali, who died in London at the recent conference, helped Gandhi lead the first noncoöperation movement 10 years ago, but later broke from the "holy man" and became a fanatic communalist.

Dr. Sayyed Mahmmud, general secretary of the All-Indian congress and a leading Moslem himself, confirmed tonight, after conferring with Shaukat Ali, that the Hindu-Moslem accord would be signed at Delhi.

80,000,000 Moslems Affected.

"This will bring 80,000,000 Moslems solidly behind the Indian demand for self-government," Mahmmud said. "But the reports circulated by the British that the Mohammedans never supported Gandhi in this struggle are untrue. Many did stand back because their leaders feared Hindu domination, but the world ought to know that 12,000 Moslems have been injured, and 500 killed, since Gandhi started his march a year ago."

Fires Lawyer, Takes Back Bride

Avoids Missouri

The conference resulted in the discharge of one of Thomasson's attorneys and a reunion of the couple, who were twice married within the past year.

Thomasson and his bride met here because the aged millionaire has avoided reëntering Missouri, where attorneys seek service against him in a suit for the naming of a receiver for his property on the ground that he is incompetent. The millionaire left for Chicago after the conference and his youthful bride went to St. Louis.

Attorney Walter Wehrle, counsel for Thomasson, was asked to resign his services, and was told to return to St. Louis and dismiss the annulment suit, because the "bride and groom are happy, always were happy, and didn't want interference on the part of friends."

The couple were married last July by an Illinois justice of the peace. The groom, who is 73 years old, disappeared after relatives interposed. They were remarried by a Methodist minister in Joliet Feb. 23 of this year.

THRONG GREETS CIVIL GOVERNOR IN VIRGIN ISLES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ST. THOMAS, Virgin Islands, March 17.—A cordon of police was necessary to curb the crowds which had gathered to welcome the new civil governor, Dr. Paul M. Pearson, of Philadelphia, and his staff upon arriving here today aboard the minesweeper Grebe. Business was halted. Bands played, thousands with flags crowded the wharf to greet the arrivals. Retiring Governor Waldo Evans of the United States navy headed the reception committee. Gov. Pearson will be inaugurated tomorrow and will go to St. Croix Thursday for additional ceremonies.

Ex-Gov. Walton Nominated for Oklahoma City Mayor

Oklahoma City, Okla., March 17.—(AP)—J. C. [Jack] Walton, once ousted from the governor's chair, tonight won a decisive victory toward a political comeback. Complete returns in the city primary gave him one of the two nominations for mayor. C. J. Blinn, anti-administration candidate, received 8,361 votes and Walton received 8,189. They will fight it out in the final election, April 7.

VIRGIN ISLANDS AND PORTO RICO MAY BE UNITED

Consider One Governor Over Both.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 17.—[Special.]—Amalgamation of Porto Rico and the Virgin islands into a single political unit administered by one governor, may result from the President's investigation of political and economic conditions in these islands during his vacation tour in the Caribbean. This became known tonight as the White House disclosed that Mr. Hoover and his party will sail from Norfolk on the the battleship Arizona, Thursday morning at 8 o'clock, returning twelve days later on March 30. The President will leave the capital by train tomorrow night.

Dispute Over Jurisdiction.

Should the Virgin islands be combined with Porto Rico for administrative purposes, indications are that pressure would be brought on the White House to have jurisdiction placed in the hands of the interior department, a move that would be opposed by the war department. The Virgin islands were placed in the hands of the interior department a few days ago and Paul M. Pearson of Swarthmore college appointed governor.

The closeness of the Virgin islands to Porto Rico, combined with the difficulties that the United States has experienced in recent years in improving political and economic conditions in the smaller island group, is responsible for the growth of sentiment in favor of but one governor for the two political units. Hard luck, prohibition, and the conversion of coal burning vessels to oil consuming ships are named by Washington officials as the three most potent causes for present unsatisfactory conditions in the Virgin islands.

Islands Under Navy.

In theory the Virgin islands have been administered by the navy department and a naval governor. In actual practice, during the last two years, the island government has been administered partly by Capt. Waldo Evans, the naval governor; partly by Herbert D. Brown, chief of the bureau of efficiency, and partly by members of the naval subcommittee of the house appropriations committee and the house committee on insular affairs. At the direction of the two committees, Brown went to the islands in 1929 to investigate conditions and report back to the committees. In 1930, Chairman Burton L. French of the naval subcommittee sent a letter to the White House suggesting that inasmuch as congress had appropriated $144,000 for projects recommended by Brown in his first report, the naval subcommittee thought that the efficiency bureau chief should have authority to administer this money.

Armed with the authority of the French letter, Mr. Brown went to the Virgin islands in 1930, established himself on the island of St. Croix. Brown's activities there caused friction between Capt. Evans and the efficiency chief. Brown returned to Washington and transfer of the islands to the interior department followed.

Missouri House Votes to Impeach State Treasurer

Jefferson City, Mo., March 17.—(AP)—Impeachment of State Treasurer Larry Brunk, for "high crimes, misdemeanors and misconduct in office," was voted late today by the house of representatives, 118 to 7. Brunk is a Republican.

CERMAK TALKS TO WOMEN AT LOOP MEETING

Women of German descent yesterday applauded an account of the early life of A. J. Cermak in which Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, chairman of the Democratic women's independent organizations, told how the mayoralty candidate was "firmly established in business on the west side before he ever went into public office." The meeting was held in the City Hall Square building.

Mrs. Fairbank reviewed Mr. Cermak's record in the city council, the legislature, and the county board. She pointed out that never in those campaigns had "such propaganda been distributed against him as in this one."

Mr. Cermak preceded Mrs. Fairbank. He was introduced by Mrs. Elizabeth Kautz, chairman of the German-American women. He said:

"When I am mayor I am going to make this city safe. I'll provide proper police protection, having policemen who will do only police duty, not snoop around at your back doors to see what you had for breakfast. I want to make it possible for you and your children to go out on the streets after dark."

MINNEAPOLIS — State at Jackson CHICAGO — ST. PAUL

PUT DOWN NEW RIOTS; CONVICTS ASK HOME RULE

Warden at Joliet Rejects Proposal of Felons.

Two additional attempts of convicts to start riots, one in the old Joliet penitentiary and another in the newer Stateville prison, were put down by prison authority yesterday while Warden Henry C. Hill was rejecting a bargain offer of good behavior by prisoners for milder treatment than has been accorded them.

The first trouble yesterday started among twenty felons who are members of the prison band at Stateville. A portion of them, according to reports, were vehemently in favor of starting a general riot like the one in the old prison on Saturday, in which two prisoners were killed and two others wounded. Another element in the band opposed any attempt of the kind.

Band Members Battle.

Closing in on each other, the two factions used chairs and musical instruments to beat each other until guards overpowered them and placed the whole crew in solitary confinement.

The second episode involving disorder occurred in the dining hall at the old medieval structure on the edge of the city of Joliet, where the rioting spirit flared up first at noon Saturday. Three or four men, starting by throwing food and dishes, began to shout to the other felons that they should all stand together and "wreck the joint again."

Guards closed in immediately on the disturbers and the three ringleaders were hastily thrust into solitary confinement. According to the guards, only a few of the men in the hall appeared to be willing to join the disturbers.

Seek Share in Prisoner Rule.

The prisoners being fed in the mess hall are the 678 who did not participate in the earlier riot. All of the 1,100 who did are still in their cells, existing on a diet of bread and coffee and nursing their grievances, real or fancied, against the warden and his staff.

"A message was sent to me through Deputy Warden George Erickson today," said Warden Hill, "that the convicts would submit without trouble to all orders given them if we would allow them to elect an advisory council among themselves, this council to sit in with the administrative officials and pass on punishments to be meted out.

"I have been told that the prisoners intend to circulate a petition making such a demand. My order is that any man who signs such a paper will be thrown into solitary and kept there a long time on bread and water. There is also a demand that the prisoners be allowed to administer funds, such as those coming in from prison shows. I will run this prison; the convicts will not."

Attack Guard at Inquest.

During the afternoon the coroner's inquest into the deaths of Albert Yarbeck and George Jakowanis, inmates who were shot down by Guard Frank Cutchin on Saturday afternoon, was held in Warden Hill's office. It was marked by an attempt by Yarbeck's sister, Irene, to attack Cutchin as he was giving his testimony to the coroner's jury.

Cutchin had just asserted that Yarbeck, carrying a table leg, was trying to beat down Guard Charles Hill when he fired.

"You are a dirty murderer," cried the sister of the slain convict.

She hurled her purse, striking Cutchin with it, and then strove to strike and scratch him. She was seized and taken from the room.

Two Bullets Wound Three.

Some unusual events were disclosed at the inquest. For one, it was asserted that Cutchin fired only two bullets to wound three men. One of them passed through the body of Jakowanis and the other through the body of Yarbeck. Both struck Joseph Kwoka and were found imbedded in his flesh.

Cutchin, who is about 60 years old, said that it was his duty to fire when he saw the convicts attacking Guard Hill and Guard Captain B. A. Davenport.

The coroner's jury returned a verdict stating that each of the men had been killed while he was assaulting an officer during the riot and added:

"We the jury exonerate the guard who fired the shots, as he was acting in the performance of his duty."

Chaplain George L. Whitmeyer, who resigned under pressure from his prison post, said that he was going to tell the legislative investigating committee, when it meets on Friday, that guards deliberately trapped and killed three men who attempted to escape on Feb. 22.

"I warned the prison officials of that break. The brutality shown in that affair led to the week-end riot."

Tailor In Moscow Presses Trousers: Just a Pair a Year

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MOSCOW, Feb. 19.—[By Mail.]—Hatters may be mad, but tailors can get angry, too. I met one irate tailor today in an establishment near the Kameny Most when I sought to get a button sewed on. Demkov was his name and he lived in America for many years and only returned to the land of his birth after the war. He spotted me for a Yankee immediately and broke into a brisk conversation.

"Sure, we can fix that all right," he said when I showed him the bits of thread on my jacket where the button had been. "But have you got the button? Because if you ain't got it I can't do a thing for you. I only got white buttons left."

"You're a swell tailor, with only white buttons," I remarked. "How come?"

Must Be "Button Minded."

"Say, when you live here a little while you'll do like other people does, and you'll save the button when it comes off, or maybe pull it off and keep it when it gets loose," he replied. "Anyway, I ain't been a tailor for nothing and I can fix that by cuttin' that bottom button off your vest and usin' that. It's nearly as big as them others on the coat."

He threaded his big needle with some black thread, and slipped on his thimble.

"It's silver," he remarked proudly. "I wouldn't work only with a silver thimble, them cheap ones infec' you if you stick yourself, and anyway they hurt your finger. I got this one in New York when I first went there and I ain't never lost it yet."

I asked him if he wasn't supposed to turn in all silver to the government, but he merely winked.

While he was sticking on the button I looked around the tiny shop. There was an ancient sewing machine, the big model that tailors once used, in a corner, and there were a couple of ironing boards of various types for pressing sleeves and trouser legs stuck up on a shelf with no covering. It was a long time since he had used them.

Doubles as a Shoemaker.

All around him were a pile of seedy looking garments, jackets, pants, overcoats, and a lot of felt boots piled on the floor, split on the sides.

"What do you do, double as a shoemaker?" I inquired.

"Say, that's the best part of this business in the vinter time, sewin' up them overshoes and boots that part in the seams," he confided. "Outside of that, the only work I do now is turnin' clothes, turnin' 'em inside out, you know.

"Do you know when I had my last order to clean and press a suit? It was way back last spring, and not from a reg'lar customer, either; some one I never seen before or since. Nobody gets their pants pressed any more, and when their clothes get spotted I s'pose they just stay spotted 'til they have 'em turned. I turn the same suit sometimes four times. Here, look at this coat, this will be number four for this one."

Suits Get Smaller.

"You can't keep turnin' 'em forever," the tailor continued, "because every time you turn 'em you gotta snip off a bit at the sleeves, where they get frayed, and the bottom of the coat, where it gets cut. But the toughest part of turnin' a suit is them damn pockets, especially if they have flaps on 'em. Sport suits with patch pockets is better for turnin'."

I asked him about inserting a cotton batting lining in my suit or overcoat to make it warmer.

"Easy; just bring me the stuff, I'll put it in. That suit fits you pretty snug, but I can line it and leave you room to get in by movin' the buttons all nearer the edge. Some of these dummies come in and want double cotton linin's put in, and then as he sat cross legged.

Cold Without Boots.

"You can't sit comfortable and work right in these damn boots," he explained, "and you gotta wear the boots or it's too cold."

"Say, things are pretty tough back in the United States," he remarked. "Papers here say a thousand people are starving to death every day, but most of them are down in Oklahoma and Arkansas. I never been down there. How's conditions in New York and Detroit and Chicago, I worked in all them towns, also Newark?"

I told him I doubted if any one was actually starving, but explained things were a little tight since the market crash.

"Yeah, I know, Wall street," he cried, "all those capitalists gamblin' in stocks and crushin' the poor workin' man. Here the government don't allow any speculation or any of that business. Why there ain't any stock exchange or any of that in this country.
they can't get the suit on."

He climbed up on his bench and reached for his shears to start work on an overcoat. I noticed he seemed to have trouble tucking his booted knees up in the approved fashion

"Hey, wait till this 5 year plan gets finished next year or so, then all your capitalists and all them countries that are trying to put Russia on the bum will find out. I'll get one of them big automatic steam pressin' ovens, and a new machine that can stitch them boots, too, and electric irons, so I won't have to bother about a fire."

Sleep Under Coats in Corner.

I suggested that meanwhile, things were pretty tight right here for him, and he agreed.

"That's right. Pretty slack times now. We sleep back there in that corner, under them coats, me and my wife. She works in an office downtown, sweepin' up and one thing and another, but she eats there and brings me home some stuff to eat most every day.

"We got food cards, but half the time you can't get what you want. My wife's people live out in the country and they send in some stuff to eat, butter and that, but its hard about cigarets. My wife draws her allowance of smokes at the office but she don't smoke, so I smoke them.

"No, I don't make much money, but I don't have any rent, only a little taxes twice a year, and when you do buy somethin' at the store its cheap enough. I never was a drinkin' man or that would be hard because booze is very expensive."

Explains His Troubles.

"It looks like you haven't any kick coming then," I remarked, just as the thread snapped.

"No kick comin'," he yelled, in a rage, "No kick comin' when the only thing you can get to work with is rotten lousy thread like that. Why every time you tug on it to catch up the snarls and straighten it out, it breaks. Why, I yelled to the tailors' union, and at the state shop, where I get the thread, 'til I'm black in the face.

"But you know why we can't get decent thread? Because the English make it all and they won't sell it to us because they're afraid we'll begin to make it ourselves in our new factories."

Russia Restores Three "Rebels."

MOSCOW, March 17.—(AP)—Restoration of Alexis Rykoff, recently deposed as premier, and several others who were "relieved" of their posts in recent shakeups was one of the surprising developments at the sixth all union soviet congress, which adjourned tonight.

Rykoff does not come back as premier, but he was elected to the important central executive committee, along with Nikolai Burkharin and Michael Tomsky.

4 JURORS SWORN IN MURDER TRIAL OF LEO BROTHERS

a claim adjuster, by Brooks shows the line of state questions.

Q.—Because of what any newspaper printed about this case, would your attitude be affected? A.—Not at all.

Q.—You would have no feeling about it, except that the state of Illinois brought this charge? A.—No, sir.

Q.—A great many witnesses will take the stand, of various nationalities and creeds. Do you believe every witness is entitled to a fair hearing? A.—I do.

Q.—Have you any thought in your mind as to how this case should end? A.—No, sir.

Abbott was excused soon after this as he said he did not believe in capital punishment. He was the first to leave the box for this reason, but Patrick Foy, a railroad clerk, soon followed him for the same reason.

Juror Graff was asked what papers he read. He said THE TRIBUNE, Herald-Examiner, and American.

Q.—Is there any thought lingering in your mind about this case? A.—One day it was one way and another day another way. I have no fixed opinion.

Q.—(By Krum)—You understand the state must prove this defendant guilty, even though he never says a word? A.—Yes, sir.

Contractor Is Questioned.

Q.—Did you read of this case? A.—Yes, I read all the papers.

Q.—Did you get an impression or opinion from your reading? A.—Not exactly.

Q.—If the evidence shows that THE TRIBUNE has expended large sums for special counsel and its employés have taken an active part in the investigation, would that have any bearing with you? A.—No, sir.

Krum in his next question referred to Charles F. Rathbun as a "special state's attorney." This was objected to, on the ground that Rathbun is an assistant state's attorney, and the objection was sustained by the court. Krum continued:

Q.—If it was shown that Rathbun was employed by State's Attorney Swanson at the instance of THE TRIBUNE, would that affect your verdict? A.—No, sir.

Two More Are Dismissed.

Frank Eliobolus, restaurant man, said he read all the papers about the case but had dismissed it from his mind and had no opinion. Questioned more closely by the defense, he said he had read the story of Brothers' arrest, but not far below the headlines and that it had made a temporary impression. He was dismissed peremptorily by the defense, while the state sent out Balkbich.

Morris J. Finn, an employé of the Commonwealth Edison company, was excused because he was opposed absolutely to the death penalty.

Justice Critzer was asked what he had read about the case. He said it was little.

Q.—Did you get some sort of an impression from this? A.—Yes.

Q.—Does it prevail with you? A.—Yes.

Q.—How strong it is? A.—Not very strong. My first impression is that I don't believe all I read in the papers.

Soon after this he was accepted and sworn.

Arthur E. Fox said he had read of the case, but had not been prejudiced. Henry Nolle was excused because he had a prejudice against the state through a previous court experience. Michael E. O'Connor, clerk in the First National bank, said he had read the papers, but had formed no idea about the case. He asked to be excused, however, as he said he was a friend of Robert E. Cantwell, and "because I do not have a lot of respect for circumstantial evidence." His request was granted.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

U.S. PRESENTS ITS VIEWS REGARDING NEW NAVAL PACT

Senator Morrow Confers with British Officials.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 17. — Senator Dwight Morrow today presented to the British government the views of the United States regarding the recently concluded British-Franco-Italian naval accord. Mr. Morrow, who arrived here today, was accompanied by Ambassador Dawes to a meeting at the foreign office with Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson and A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty.

No word was given out concerning the results of the first exchange of official views between the American and British governments, but it is understood that the time available was turned to consideration of three of the most important aspects of the truce between Italy and France as they affect the United States, Great Britain, and Japan.

The first of these is whether the new pact will constitute an annex to the London treaty signed a year ago by the United States, Great Britain, and Japan and be embodied therein, or be only a leanto, regarded as purely an European affair.

Decision Due Tomorrow.

A decision on this point and whether the new pact will have to be ratified by the United States senate and the Japanese diet or merely acknowledged through a simple exchange of notes will be determined by the position of Senator Morrow and Ambassador Dawes and the Japanese ambassador on Thursday, when experts of the nations involved assemble to draft the phraseology of the accord. The French experts arrived tonight for this purpose and the Italians are expected tomorrow.

The second point is the submarine superiority granted to both France and Italy. This superiority amounts to nearly 30,000 tons, France and Italy being allowed around 81,000 tons compared with 52,700 tons granted to the United States, Great Britain, and Japan in the London pact, when the American delegation gave up the 5-5-3 ratio established by the Washington treaty.

Discuss Battleship Tonnage.

The third point is Mr. Henderson's promise of a written guarantee that the British would hold a sympathetic attitude toward the French desire for limitation of capital ship tonnage to 25,000 tons, as compared with the present maximum of 35,000 tons under the Washington treaty.

The Japanese were not represented at this afternoon's conversations, but will take a hand during the coming parleys, which will continue until the text of the treaty is finished. The reason the Japanese ambassador did not attend today's meeting was that he is still awaiting instructions from Tokio.

It was reported tonight that Great Britain means to go on with the European agreement, even if the dispute over submarine tonnage leads the United States and Japan to ignore it altogether.

May Use Escalator Clause.

In that event Great Britain would annex a note embodying reservations on submarine strength, and America and Japan would present their observations in the form of notes. This would mean that Great Britain would reserve the right to build up her destroyer strength under the escalator clause in the London treaty, which in turn would give the same right to the United States and Japan.

Meanwhile it was learned tonight that Great Britain has decided not to build any more of the Washington treaty class of 10,000 ton cruisers. Britain has already built thirteen of these, armed with eight inch guns. The objection is that they are too big a target for their armament, and are so filled with machinery that they are easily disabled.

PROTEST COAST GUARD KILLING OF CANADA MATE

Formal Canadian Note on Josephine K. Case.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 17.—[Special.]—The Canadian government today delivered a note at the state department protesting the coast guard's recent shelling of the Canadian running schooner Josephine K., and the killing of the vessel's captain during the bombardment. The schooner was seized Jan. 24 off the New Jersey coast, in the vicinity of Ambrose light ship.

Capt. William P. Cluett of Lunenburg, N. S., master of the vessel, was mortally wounded by a one pound shell fired by the coast guard cutter 145, when the fugitive vessel attempted to escape after being sighted. The Canadian government held that unwarranted force was used by the coast guardsmen.

"Outside Legal Limit."

It is understood that the note of protest also asserts that the Canadian vessel was not within the legal limit where the United States has a right to seize rum running vessels.

The protest promises to lead to another diplomatic controversy similar to that caused by the coast guard's sinking of the Canadian registered schooner I'm Alone off the Louisiana coast on March 22, 1929. In this latter case the Canadian government raised the question of whether the United States, under the treaty of 1924, had the right to use force sufficient to sink a vessel and endanger its crew. The right to pursue a vessel beyond the one hour's sailing limit, when the chase did not begin within the three mile territorial waters limit, also was challenged.

May Abrogate Treaty?

As a result of the failure of the United States to stop coast guard shelling of vessels following the I'm Alone protest, it is considered possible that the Canadian government may raise the question of abrogating the liquor treaty of 1924, which permits this country to seize vessels caught violating the customs laws within one hour sailing limit of the American coast.

The I'm Alone case is now in process of arbitration. While the Josephine K. case may be submitted to arbitration, Washington officials believe it is more likely that the Canadian government will await the outcome of the I'm Alone case.

The state department will back up the contention of the coast guard that the seizure of the Josephine K. was legal.

JACK PICKFORD, FILM STAR, IS SERIOUSLY HURT IN AUTO MISHAP

San Bernardino, Cal., March 17.—(AP)—Jack Pickford, brother of Mary Pickford, film star, was seriously cut and bruised today when an automobile in which he was riding struck a depression in a highway near here. He was catapulted 30 feet. Frank Estrada, his chauffeur, received several broken ribs and cuts. Mr. Pickford was taken to a hospital, where physicians found his injuries to be serious, but said he probably would recover.

Will Make Wood Cuts of Hoover's Rapidan Camp

Washington, D. C., March 17.—(AP)—President Hoover's camp on the Rapidan is to be reflected permanently in a wood engraving. Macowin Tuttle said today he would depart tomorrow for the Blue Ridge mountains with a packet of tools small enough to carry in his pocket. He will use them to transfer to blocks of basswood the "atmosphere" of the camp. He said when the engravings are completed they will be presented to the library of congress for exhibition and permanent keeping.

3 OF FAMILY DIE; CHIROPRACTOR TO BE INVESTIGATED

State Medical Board Will Hold Inquiry.

BY WALTER FITZMAURICE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Mount Carroll, Ill., March 17.—[Special.]—Five physicians, comprising the medical advisory board of the state department of education and registration, tomorrow will conduct a hearing on the department's demand for revocation of the license of Lieut. Col. Ray McMahan, army reserve officer and self-styled chiropractic physician. They are coming from Chicago tonight.

Col. McMahon, former member of the marine corps, quit the military service eight years ago, took a course in the National College of Chiropractice, 20 North Ashland avenue, Chicago, and has acquired an extensive practice on Carroll county farms. Although licensed only as a chiropractor and midwife, the department of education charges he has been practicing medicine.

The hearing will be in the Carroll county courthouse, a red brick structure built before the civil war. Members of the advisory board will be Dr. Gilbert Fitzpatrick, Dr. M. L. Harris, Dr. Arthur H. Griger, and Dr. Wilbur H. Gilmore, physicians in Chicago, and Dr. J. R. Neale of Springfield.

Three Dead; Fourth Helpless.

The evidence will involve Col. McMahan's treatment of three members of the Zink family, farmers living seven miles northwest of here. The star witness, if his physician permits his appearance, will be George Zink, who, with his parents and his sister, were the patients McMahan is accused of maltreating. George Zink, once a robust man, is now a hopeless paralytic, unable to move his limbs or speak above a whisper. His parents, Basil and Emma Zink, and his sister, also named Emma, have died within the last fourteen months.

The physician to whom McMahan relinquished George Zink's case when his illness became critical, says the patient has only a few months to live. In the event George is unable to testify, the Zink family's story will be told by the one surviving brother, Basil Jr.

Basil, an elder son, is expected to repeat the story he told the Carroll county grand jury last November, a story which resulted in McMahan's indictment for practicing medicine without a license. Vigorously fighting the criminal charge, the chiropractor won a continuance of his trial until next June to enable him to prepare a defense.

Charge Maltreatment.

The substance of Basil Zink's testimony, the essential points of which McMahan denies, was revealed to THE TRIBUNE today by State's Attorney Ralph M. Eaton. According to Basil's story, his father, mother and sister all became ill about the same time in February, 1929, and McMahan, having been the family's medical adviser for four years, was called in to prescribe treatment.

In the father's case, McMahan diagnosed the illness as pneumonia, according to Basil's testimony. The father gradually weakened, expiring a few hours before McMahan called in a licensed physician, Dr. R. H. Wood of Stockton signing the death certificate. Dr. Wood named heart disease as the cause of death. The mother, Emma Zink, was ill meanwhile and also under McMahan's care. Within five days of her husband's passing, she too, was dead.

At the same time the daughter, Emma, was complaining of a pain, afterwards diagnosed as due to malignant cancer. McMahan, according to the brother's statement to the grand jury, assured her it was a mere glandular trouble, which he promised to cure within two weeks. He applied a salve, compounded by one Lester Tilton of Clinton, Ia., who describes himself as a cancer specialist, but whom the journal of the American Medical association in its issue of June, 1930, branded as a quack.

Sent to Cancer Institute.

Tilton's salve gave no relief and McMahan, according to Basil Zink's testimony, grew alarmed and decided to entrust the patient to the Baker institute at Muscatine, Ia., also called a cancer clinic, the license of which has been under attack. The Baker clinic, according to Basil Zink and Prosecutor Eaton, immediately diagnosed the woman's malady as beyond cure and sent her home. McMahan avers she was at the institute six months. In either case, the records show she died within two weeks of returning home.

George Zink was the next to be stricken. In his case the initial trouble, according to the physicians now attending him, was a trivial infection of the tonsils. Col. McMahan, according to Basil's testimony, inserted in his brother's throat a glass bulb which "shot out sparks," and then applied more of Tilton's salve.

Paralysis began creeping through his limbs, whether from neglect of the infected tonsils or from the insertion of the glass bulb, the present physician says he has been unable to determine.

McMahan Continues Practice.

In the face of Basil Zink's charges and the return of the indictment, McMahan has continued his practice as before, nor was he averse to discussing his case when visited today.

"I wouldn't be in this trouble if I had been willing to marry Emma Zink," McMahan whispered in a confidential tone as he discussed the case.

Quizzed about his treatment of the Zink family, he launched into an account of each case. He explained that he had been greatly worried by the charges, which, he declared, were "unfair and a frameup."

"Now, about the old man," he began, "the son and I nursed him through pneumonia. I was there all night with the son applying hot pads from the waist to the neck. When the job was done I said to the son, 'Let's call in Dr. Gustavson of Stockton. We've done good work and we'll get the doctor's O. K.'"

Cites Advanced Age.

The Stockton physician arrived and pronounced the treatment sound, the chiropractor declared, but McMahan, he regretfully explained, could not take credit for a perfect cure. Dr. Gustavson examined the patient and found evidence of heart disease. He died within a couple of hours.

"As for the mother, she had hardening of the arteries," the chiropractor explained. "But, good Lord, they were away above 70 years old. Why should these registration fellows blame me?"

Emma Zink knew she had cancer even before she consulted him, McMahan said. She pledged him to secrecy, fearing the shock might kill her parents, McMahan averred, and he kept his word. At her suggestion, rather than his, she went to the Baker institute.

"She was there six months," McMahan exclaimed. "They sent her home, she died within two weeks, and now they're blaming me."

In the case of George Zink, McMahan said, "There is little to be said. I gave him one violet ray treatment," said McMahan.

DETECTIVES HUNT VANISHED YOUTH AFTER THREATS

Detectives from the state's attorney's office yesterday were investigating the disappearance of Clyde H. Stimson Jr. 5019 West 24th place, Cicero, son of a locomotive engineer. Detectives Boyle and Madigan have questioned several Cicero gamblers in an effort to find some trace of the young man, who vanished on Feb. 3. Fears were expressed that he might have been taken for a ride and slain.

Lieut. William V. Blaul, in charge of the prosecutor's detectives, took an interest in the search for Stimson when he learned that he had been threatened following a robbery of $2,000 on Jan. 26 from Frank Masal's cigar store and handbook at 2509 52d avenue, Cicero. Stimson was in the store at the time of the robbery and made a remark to the effect that he thought he knew one of the robbers.

Stimson was last heard from by a Miss Blazek, 5218 25th street, Cicero. She said he telephoned her that he would deliver her eye glasses which he had taken to be repaired, within 30 minutes. He was never heard from after that.

FORMER SWARTHMORE PROFESSOR A SUICIDE IN NEW YORK HOTEL

New York, March 17.—[Special.]—Dr. Benjamin F. Battin, resident vice president of the National Surety company, who was a professor in Swarthmore college from 1900 to 1915 and served from 1914 to 1918 as international organizer for the World Alliance for Promoting International Friendship Through the Churches, committed suicide today by hanging himself in a room on the twenty-fifth floor of the Hotel Lincoln.

His wife told detectives that her husband's contract with the National Surety company was to expire on April 1. She said he had been brooding because he did not think the contract would be renewed. Also, she said, he had been in ill health.

Dr. Battin was 55 years old. He was a Quaker. Detectives found four sealed letters in the room and an unsealed envelope containing Dr. Battin's card and a $5 bill to pay for the room rent. One of the sealed letters was addressed to Mrs. Battin. The contents of these letters were not disclosed.

During the world war Dr. Battin had conferences with European statesmen and religious leaders. He had lectured in all parts of this country.

When Food SOURS

About two hours after eating many people suffer from sour stomachs. They call it indigestion. It means that the stomach nerves have been over-stimulated. There is excess acid. The way to correct it is with an alkali, which neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

The right way is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia—just a tasteless liquid; pleasant, efficient and harmless. But it kills excess acids. It has remained the standard with physicians for more than 50 years.

It is the quick method. Results come almost instantly. It is the approved method. You will never use another when you know.

Be sure to get genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for over fifty years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c bottles—any drugstore. The genuine is always a liquid—never made in tablet form. Look for the name Phillips on wrapper and bottle.

PILLS ARE OFTEN DANGEROUS

Most laxatives have to be taken in ever-increasing doses. Otherwise, they lose their power. The body needs roughage.

One of the most natural ways to obtain this roughage is by eating a delicious cereal: Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Read what Mr. Albert F. Parker of Massachusetts has to say:

"I am 52 years old and have put in years suffering from constipation. Bought all kinds of pills and drugged myself with them and awoke lots of mornings with a headache.

"Haven't taken one pill since I began on Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. I am now feeling the best I have felt in 20 years."

Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are guaranteed to give relief. At your grocer's, in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Want to Look Young?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young. To do this you must watch your liver and bowels. There's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you 90 per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They help bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

DRAFTS REPEAL OF TENNESSEE'S "MONKEY LAW"

Young Legislator Calls It Blot on State.

Nashville, Tenn., March 17.—(AP)—Legislators squirmed in their seats today as a bill to repeal Tennessee's anti-evolution law was announced ready for introduction for they saw the prospect of taking a stand approving or disapproving the measure that brought on the famous Scopes trial.

A bill to repeal the "monkey law" was prepared for introduction today by Attorney Robert M. Murray, 28, representative from Carroll county, but he decided not to submit it until tomorrow. He said the anti-evolution act "never had prevented the teaching of evolution."

Eight reasons were given by Murray for repealing the much disputed measure which, he said, makes "bootleggers of teachers of scientific information."

No Bridle on Education.

"Knowledge concerning evolution is a natural right of every young person seeking to know the thoughts of our leading men. There should be no limitation to the acquisition of knowledge nor a bridle placed on the tongues of our educators.

"To deny that man evolves is to deny that man advances, and no law should be on the statutes of Tennessee that denies such outspoken facts.

"No action of a legislature ever has brought so much unfavorable notice to the state as the 'monkey' law," he continued. "It gave Tennessee a reputation for ignorance, bigotry and backwardness and made us a laughing stock among informed people.

"It is significant, too, that when the Supreme court held the law valid only two justices were on record as upholding its constitutionality."

Four members of the present legislature who voted for the act when it passed in 1925 declined today to reveal their attitude.

Declines to Comment.

From Dayton, Tenn., scene of the trial of John T. Scopes, who violated the law voluntarily to provide a test of its constitutionality, Dean Willson Spindler of Williams Jennings Bryan university said he preferred to say nothing.

This is the first attempt to repeal the law. Murray said he had been assured of "considerable support."

The Scopes trial, which drew to Dayton Clarence Darrow and Dudley Field Malone for the defense, and William J. Bryan and others for the prosecution, was followed by Bryan's death in Dayton.

CRANE COLLEGE IS REINSTATED BY ASSOCIATION

Crane Junior college, ousted from membership in the North Central Association of Colleges and Universities last year because of laxity in entrance examinations, was reinstated by the association yesterday at its meeting in the Stevens hotel. Announcement of the reinstatement was made by H. M. Gage, chairman of the association.

The organization ruled that improvements made under the direction of Supt. Bogan of the public schools had eliminated the faults reported last year. These complaints included overloaded classes, insufficiency of teachers, and improper administration.

The association is also considering the reinstatement of Butler university at Indianapolis.

Britain Refuses to Seek Delay in Paying U. S. Debt

LONDON, March 17.—(AP)—National economy, the American war debt, and Great Britain's annual air budget figured chiefly in tonight's session of the house of commons. The war debt was soon disposed of.

"Will the chancellor of the exchequer consider a ten year moratorium in payments of debts, interest, and obligations to the United States?" asked R. Morley, Laborite.

"No!" replied F. W. Pethwick-Lawrence, financial secretary of the treasury, replying for Chancellor Snowden, his absent chief. Pethwick-Lawrence as emphatically denied that the government had taken any steps during the last six months toward a revision of the war debt and reparations payments, in view of the drop in commodity prices.

Plan Economy Committee.

Prime Minister MacDonald himself informed the house of commons regarding the latest step toward national economy. Two members of each party, he said, would be formed into a committee to make recommendations to the chancellor of the exchequer for effecting all possible economies in the national expenditures. A resolution authorizing such a committee was passed by the house of commons on Feb. 11.

The United States figured again in the debate when the house settled down to a consideration of air estimates for 1931, the total of which is $90,500,000, an increase of $1,250,000 over the budget for the current year. The estimate was approved after a left wing Laborite amendment to reduce the personnel by 100,000 men had been rejected by a vote of 248 to 12.

Cites United States Expenditures.

As an illustration of Britain's peaceful aims, Undersecretary of State for Air F. Montague, who introduced the estimate, said that while the present British air expenditure is about 1 per cent lower than for 1925-'26, the air expenditures of the United States have increased between 150 and 160 per cent during the same period, those of the French by between 130 and 140 per cent, and those of the Italians by 40 per cent.

This point was taken up by opposition speakers, including Sir Samuel Hoare, air minister of the last Conservative government, who said the figures seemed to show that the nations did not regard the league of nations' covenant and the Kellogg pact as sufficiently effective to enable them to make these pacts substitutes for national defense.

Stanley Baldwin Explodes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 17.—Stanley Baldwin, leader of the Conservative party, in one of the most outspoken speeches he has ever made, today viciously attacked Lords Beaverbrook and Rothermere, who, through their newspapers, are seeking to have him removed as leader of the Conservative party. Mr. Baldwin, supporting the candidacy of Capt. Duff-Cooper in the St. George's by-election against the Rothermere-Beaverbrook candidate, Sir Ernest Potter, made free use of the words "liars" and "propagandists."

"The papers conducted by Lords Rothermere and Beaverbrook are not newspapers in the ordinary sense of the term," he declared. "They are engines of propaganda for constantly changing policies, desires, personal wishes and personal dislikes of two men. What are their methods? Direct falsehood, misrepresentation, half truth, alteration of speakers' meaning by publishing sentences apart from the context, suppression and editorial criticism of speeches not reported in the papers."

Referring to a recent attack on him in Lord Rothermere's Daily Mail, Mr. Baldwin declared: "The statement was a lie. It could only have been written by a cad."

Mr. Baldwin said he would not sue for libel "because first, there is no value in it, and second, I wouldn't touch the money with a barge pole."

CANADA PREMIER DEFIES FOES ON TARIFF STAND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., March 17.—Not one word of his British Empire tariff preference proposals made before the empire economic conference did Premier R. B. Bennett of Canada withdraw in the face of fierce parliamentary criticism today for his alleged arrogance and egotism at the London parley.

Answering Liberal leader Mackenzie King's condemnation and lack of a confidence motion on that score, Premier Bennett told the house of commons that when the adjourned conference meets at Ottawa this summer his government would not abate from its stand that Britain should give tariff preference to her dominions in return for similar favors from them, if the British empire expects to achieve economic unity and strength.

Bargaining has been the basis of British settlements at all times, he said, and his administration proposed to continue that policy. He admitted the September tariff increases against Britain were to strengthen Canada's bargaining position. Premier Bennett defended his bluntness before the conference, declaring it was time British empire statesmen talked to each other without platitudes.

Mrs. Frances Marahold, 80 years old, 5230 West 24th place, Cicero, was found dead in the kitchen of her home yesterday with gas flowing from an open jet on the stove. Police believe the woman committed suicide because of loneliness and the death of her husband a few years ago.

W. I. BULLARD, BANK OFFICIAL, DIVORCES WRITER

Washington Irving Bullard, banker and manufacturer, was granted a divorce on grounds of desertion yesterday from Mrs. Anna Jacobs Bullard of Boston, Mass., a writer.

With his attorney, Lloyd Faxon, Bullard appeared before Superior Judge John J. Sullivan at noon and testified that his wife deserted him in June, 1928, after 25 years of married life. Mrs. Bullard did not contest the suit. A property settlement was arranged out of court, it was said.

Bullard, formerly vice president of the Merchants National bank of Boston, was elected a vice president of the Central Trust company of Chicago last September. He has been identified with a number of business organizations. He is treasurer of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, chairman of the committee on aeronautics of the United States Chamber of Commerce, and a member of other committees of the latter organization.

Question: Can you explain in simple language the mechanical design of Buick's Syncro-Mesh transmission?

Answer: Buick's Syncro-Mesh transmission is a device which causes two gears about to mesh to revolve at the same speed. This effect is obtained with two clutches. As the gear shift lever is moved from neutral it acts on one or the other of these clutches, causing the clutch to synchronize the two gears about to mesh. The gears are synchronized so quickly that, with no pause in the motion of shifting, the final movement is made while the gears are revolving at exactly the same speed. As a result, the teeth interlock quickly, easily, and silently.

Question: How does Syncro-Mesh enable one to shift more rapidly?

Answer: The time required for shifting gears is reduced by Syncro-Mesh, because one can shift instantaneously, easily, and silently.

Question: How does Syncro-Mesh transmission make driving in heavy traffic safer?

Answer: The outstanding value of Syncro-Mesh in traffic is the ability to shift silently and quickly from first to second, second to high, or from high back to second. This enables one to get maximum car speed under various driving conditions.

Question: Is it desirable to shift into second when stopping on slippery streets?

Answer: Yes. It should be remembered that the braking force of the engine is perfectly equalized on both rear wheels. Braking power applied in this manner reduces the tendency to skid on slippery roads. With Buick Syncro-Mesh transmission, it is a simple and easy matter to shift from high into second.

Question: How does Syncro-Mesh aid in driving downhill?

Answer: Experienced motorists use the braking power of their engines in descending long, steep hills. Naturally, the braking power exerted by the engine is much greater when the car is in second speed than when it is in high. When a grade turns out to be longer or steeper than is anticipated, it is frequently desirable to shift from high into second during the course of the descent. With Syncro-Mesh transmission, this is accomplished in a split second.

Question: How does Syncro-Mesh transmission make it easier to drive up steep hills?

Answer: There are times in driving up steep hills when a shift into second is absolutely necessary. With Syncro-Mesh transmission, this change can be made instantly. As a result, driving up steep grades is not only easier but also safer when the car is equipped with Syncro-Mesh transmission.

Question: Why is Buick Syncro-Mesh transmission an advantage in acceleration?

Answer: With Buick Syncro-Mesh, the driver is able to use the full speed range of his engine in both low and second speeds before going into high. In shifting from low to second or from second to high, the shift may be made rapidly without clashing, and therefore the full momentum of the car is maintained. As a result, the full accelerating possibilities of both low and second are employed and a lead of many yards is gained over traffic.

Syncro-Mesh

-the new Thrill of the

NEW BUICK EIGHT

There is nothing so completely satisfying to most motorists as the smooth, silent shifting of gears. Silent gear-shifting is the mark of the expert driver—or, rather, it was, before Syncro-Mesh transmission came along to make experts of us all. Buick's Syncro-Mesh, an important feature of each of the four series of new Buick Eights, provides many other driving advantages including faster acceleration and greater safety. And, like the Buick Eight itself, it offers known reliability, established first in tests at General Motors Proving Ground and, later, in millions of miles of owner service.

Greater Safety on Ice and Slippery Roads

A swift shift into second on ice or slippery roads gives you the braking effect of your engine equalized on both rear wheels. This equalization reduces the tendency to skid.

Faster Getaway at Traffic Lights

Greater Safety Going Down Hills

Buick Syncro-Mesh transmission enables you to shift instantly and easily into second gear, if necessary, and thus utilize the additional braking power of the engine.

Syncro-Mesh Makes Everyone an Expert at Gear-Shifting

With Buick's Syncro-Mesh transmission one can always shift gears smoothly and silently. No conscious effort is required, for the gears mesh without clash.

SEARCH SERBIA FOR BOMBERS IN BELGRADE BLASTS

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

BELGRADE, March 17.—The Jugo-Slav government is making a vigorous search for the persons who planted four bombs which exploded in the early hours this morning in an open street near the Belgrade railway station and in a district where most of the government buildings stand.

The police suspect the bombs were placed by persons who came from outside Belgrade. The bombings, in their demonstrative character, bear close resemblance to a series of similar attempts at Zagreb some months ago, shortly before King Alexander's visit to that Croatian center. Today's were the first attempts of the kind made in Belgrade since the inauguration of the dictatorship.

The first bomb exploded before the uncompleted building of the traffic ministry, the second between the finance ministry and a large building in which five other departments are housed, and the third near the military academy. The last two of these bombs had been secreted in garbage cans.

The final explosion occurred after a suspicious packet had been found by the police in a garage opposite the finance ministry. Maj. Rekulof, an army explosive expert, who had been summoned, lifted the package from a can and was about to examine it when it exploded, causing injuries from which he died in a hospital a few minutes later.

The first bomb explosion occurred at 5:30 a. m., and the rest about an hour and a half later.

ETHEL BORDEN HARRIMAN "ON STAGE FOR LIFE"

New York, March 17.—(AP)—Tired of treading the road paved with ease and wealth, Ethel Borden Harriman, daughter of Mrs. J. Borden Harriman of Washington, has turned to the stage for the thrill of fame and creative accomplishment. She will stay with it, she says, "until she is as old as God."

She has teamed with Viola Tree, who, like herself, has long been amusing her friends with solo sketches, and together they will present Sunday night performances.

They made their debut tonight at a private party in the home of Mrs. Vincent Astor, a close friend of Miss Harriman, who for stage purposes masquerades under the name of Ethel Borden.

Miss Harriman is to have a small part in "The Truth Game" when it goes on the road in a week or so.

She is the divorced wife of Lieut. Henry Potter Russell, son of Charles H. Russell, to whom she was married in 1918, and served through the war as an army nurse.

Grieving Over Death of Mate, She Drowns Self

Mrs. Nellie C. Goldthwaite, 37 years old, 2455 East 72d street, drowned herself in the lake early yesterday near East 72d street. Her sister, Mrs. Fred Enloy, with whom she lived, identified the body and told police that Mrs. Goldthwaite had been grieving over the death of her husband.

Confess Killing Hillman Guards

All Captured

The three men who shot and killed one guard and fatally wounded another in an unsuccessful attempt to rob Hillman's Pure Food store at 30 West Washington street of $18,000 on Jan. 24 were all under arrest last night. Two of them made confessions.

They are James Zeman, 24 years old, 2342 Bloomingdale road; Charles Wallard, 23 years old, 1808 North Lincoln street, and Samuel Goldstein, 21 years old, 1355 North Western avenue. Zeman and Wallard were taken into custody on information furnished Lieut. Philip Carroll by Alfred Martin and Fred Singer, burglars who were arrested last Friday as they were trying to blow a safe.

The pair also named Goldstein as their accomplice, but a search of his old haunts was fruitless. The police learned that he had taken a train to New York only on Monday. He was seized by the New York police as he left a Pennsylvania train in the terminal there late yesterday afternoon.

Max Axelrod was the guard killed during the attempted robbery. Eugene Toro, also shot during the battle with the trio of robbers, died of his wounds on March 4.

Latter Day Saints' Bishop Hangs Himself in Chapel

Salt Lake City, Utah, March 17.—(AP)—The body of William T. Harkness, bishop of the Latter Day Saints church at Magna, Utah, was found today hanging from a beam in the basement of the chapel of his ward. Indications were he had tied a rope about his neck and kicked a chair from under him.

Woman Shoots Self, Then Holds Police Off with Gun

Anderson, S. C., March 17.—(AP)—Armed with two pistols a woman held officers at bay for five hours today from her hotel room. The woman, Mrs. William Tibbs of Greenwood, had shot herself in the leg. She told officers to leave her alone and let her die from loss of blood. She was taken after tear gas had been released in the room.

NO THIRD PARTY IN 1932, OPINION OF LA FOLLETTE

Discusses Objectives of Independents.

Miami Beach, Fla., March 17.—(AP)—Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin said today a third party, which he called the bugaboo of nearly every presidential campaign, often is talked but never develops into a serious branch of contention and will not do so in 1932.

Senator La Follette is here with Mrs. La Follette for two weeks' vacation at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Stephenson.

Sees Voters Abandoning Parties.

"Whatever outlet a so-called third party will find, it will not be in a presidential vote, but in election of representatives who find their constituencies agree with their thought and support their independent action in congress," the senator said.

"Perhaps in the distant future, and everything points that way now, there will be gradual disintegration of the present parties. The voters are thinking independently of party lines. They are growing to think more so every year. But the machines will continue, perhaps because no feasible substitute has been found for their function.

"Independent or progressive voting," Senator La Follette continued, "is a good indication the country is alive and is thinking. It will be viewed seriously only by those politicians who fear defeat."

No Third Party Plans.

He asserted the recent meeting of independents in Washington was not a move to establish a new party, but merely to bring together experts and representatives for formation of a tangible basis on which to work for legislation at the next session of congress.

"The country needs definite, well informed law making bodies," he said, "and we merely were laying the foundation to obtain the advice and experience of men who should know."

STATE EMPLOYMENT SHOWS INCREASE IN WORKERS AND WAGES

Manufacturing industries in Illinois during February showed an increase of .2 per cent in employment and 3.3 per cent in wages paid, according to the monthly review of the industrial situation, prepared by the Illinois department of labor.

Registration of the free employment service for March was considered encouraging. For the second week of March 2,225 registered with 911 orders for help. The first week of March showed a total registration of 2,800 with 900 orders for help. The second week period of last year showed a registration of 2,307 with 867 orders for help. During February there was a general decrease in the ratio of applicants to positions. For February there were 250.2 applications to 100 jobs, compared with 330.5 such applicants in January.

During February weekly earnings for factory workers in the state averaged $27.87 for men and $16.14 for women. The January average was $26.58 for men and $15.77 for women. Chicago industries showed a decrease of .8 per cent in employment, but increased pay rolls .3 per cent. The average for other cities in the state was 1.9 per cent increase in employment and 9.9 per cent increase in pay rolls.

MEN IN 25 AUTOS AMBUSH GUARDS IN LABOR FIGHT

Four Officers Wounded in Gun Battle.

St. Louis, Mo., March 17.—(AP)—Twenty-five automobile loads of men ambushed six special deputy sheriffs near a ferry landing today and engaged them in a gun battle, wounding four of the officers.

The officers were guarding nonunion iron and boiler workers who are erecting gasoline tanks at the eastern terminus of the Phillips pipe line reaching from the Texas panhandle to St. Louis. The attack occurred near the Mississippi river in St. Clair county, Illinois.

As they approached the ferry landing to meet a boatload of workers, 25 automobiles filled with men rushed out af a side road and began circling the cars of the deputies.

Jack Johnson, chief deputy, warned the men to stay off the road, whereupon the ambushers opened fire. Johnson said he estimated 400 shots were fired, mostly from shotguns in the hands of the attackers. The deputies, hiding behind their automobiles, returned the fire with revolvers.

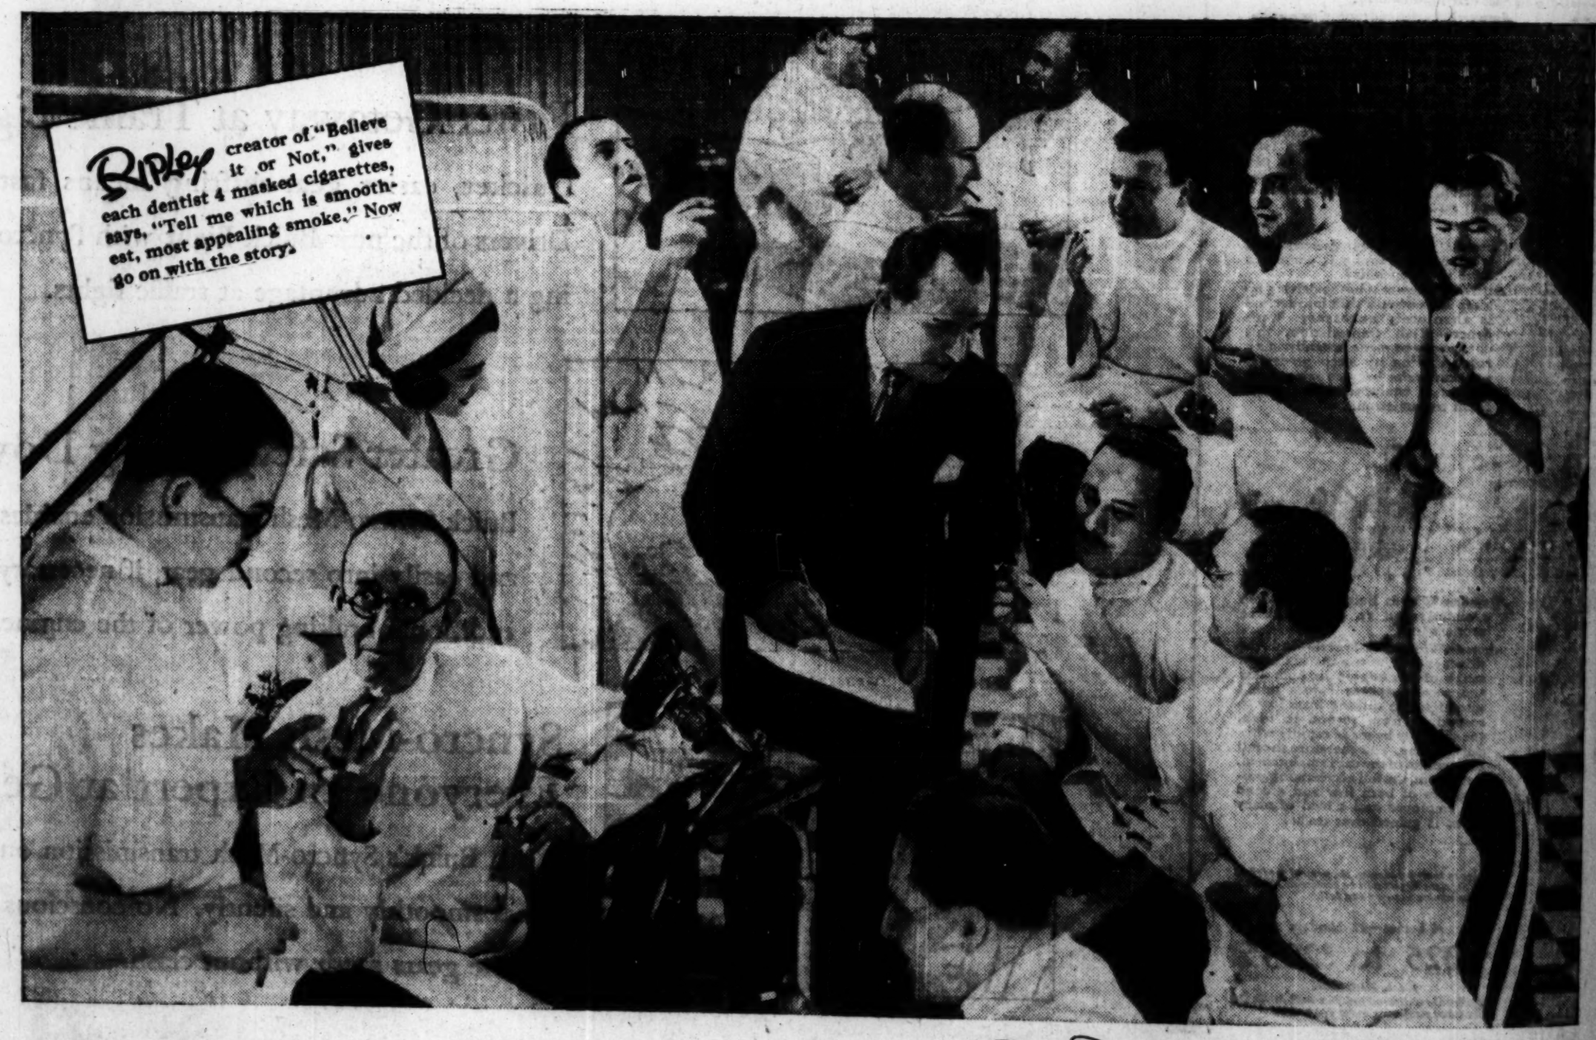
DENTISTS VOTE OLD GOLD FIRST FOR THROAT-EASE



Ripley creator of "Believe it or Not," gives each dentist 4 masked cigarettes, says, "Tell me which is smoothest, most appealing smoke." Now go on with the story.

"BELIEVE IT OR NOT, this jury of dentists decided that OLD GOLD'S filling was perfect! They examined, smelled and smoked O. Gs.' better and smoother tobaccos. And the three rival cigarette brands limped home a poor second, third and fourth. Dentists see a lot of throats. Know what harsh tobacco does to teeth and gums. Know honey-smoothness when they meet it. Know clean, sun-ripened, queen-leaf tobacco when they taste it . . . masked or unmasked. Ask your dentist about OLD GOLD for throat-ease."

CASEY JONES TELLS GAINS IN AIR SAFETY

Pioneer Pilot Addresses Manufacturers.

BY ROBERT WOOD.

Casey Jones, who was flying airplanes when Lindbergh was still in knee pants, spent an hour yesterday giving his views on the flying game to 500 business men gathered at a luncheon of the Illinois Manufacturers' association in the La Salle hotel.

CASEY JONES.

After reciting figures to show that flying has become a sane means of travel, Casey concluded that, while aeronautical engineers will soon develop a "fool-proof" airplane, they will never be able to build them "damn fool proof." The "smart-alecks" will always cause accidents, he said.

Bad Weather and Bad Piloting.

Ten million miles were flown on the scheduled air lines in America during the last six months of 1930 with the loss of only two lives, the speaker pointed out. Only a small number of accidents—20 per cent—can be traced to structural or motor failure in planes, he asserted. The blame for most air crashes he attributed to bad weather and bad piloting.

"Flying," he said, "is not a matter of comparative safety, but rather a matter of reasonable safety. Every time civilization increases its speed it also increases the hazards. The hazards of flying have dwindled with the perfection of planes and the increased knowledge of flying weather.

"These improvements, coupled with a reduction in air fares from 15 cents to 7 and 8 cents, the present rates, have increased patronage. A total of 400,000 passengers flew on American air lines last year, triple the number of 1929, and these lines also carried 2,000,000 pounds of mail and 300,000 pounds of express."

Casey—or Charles S. Jones, vice president of the Curtiss-Wright corporation of New York—is touring the country in the interests of aviation. He started flying in 1911, was a world war ace, and has won many air race prizes.

Launch New Lines Monday.

Century Air Lines yesterday announced that their long planned midwest airways system will be inaugurated next Monday with the christening of eight new Stinson tri-motored transport planes at the Municipal airport.

The new service will connect Chicago with St. Louis, Springfield, Detroit, and Cleveland, and according to officials of the company will eventually spread out to other centers in the middle west. After preliminary operation of three months the air lines expect to run planes "every hour on the hour" to the cities it will serve.

Claims New Record.

Record time in a flight from Los Angeles to Chicago over a circuitous route was claimed yesterday by Peter Beasley, president of the Detroit Aircraft corporation, and Pilot Vance Breese, who arrived at the Municipal airport in a new low winged Lockheed with retractable landing gear, a sister ship to the Lockheed now being built for Col. Lindbergh at Burbank, Cal.

Flying here by way of Salt Lake City, Great Falls, Mont.; Winnipeg, Canada; St. Paul, and Milwaukee, the plane spent only thirteen hours in the air, the pilot reported. The average speed was 211 miles an hour.

TRIBUTE TO ST. PATRICK

Mrs. Robert Montgomery pinning shamrock upon her husband, movie star, as he arrives in the city on his way to New York.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

On Way East

Robert Montgomery, handsome hero of the motion picture screen who is responsible for the fluttering of many a feminine fan, was more interested in finding a place to get a shamrock than in the attentions of a crowd of admirers yesterday. He and Mrs. Montgomery stopped between trains on their way from Hollywood to New York, which is the home of both. "Hollywood divorces are like Chicago shootings," the actor declared when asked about Hollywood's domestic upsets. "Their prevalence in ratio to other cities is no greater, but they are a trifle more spectacular."

Three Brothers Held for Death of Brother-in-Law

Equality, Ill., March 17.— (AP) — Three brothers, Tim, Joe, and Herbert Hopson, were held today for the death of Charles Colbert by verdict of a coroner's jury yesterday. Colbert was shot six times early Saturday morning, after a dance at a farm home near here. Colbert had quarreled with his estranged wife, Helen, a sister of Hopson's.

The Rev. P. J. Mahan New Head of Creighton College

The appointment was announced yesterday of the Rev. Patrick J. Mahan, for the last thirteen years regent of the Loyola university school of medicine, as president of Creighton university, Omaha. The news was made public by the Rev. Robert M. Kelley, S. J., president of Loyola university. Father Mahan will leave for Omaha today. He will assume the presidency of the Nebraska school tomorrow to succeed the Rev. William Agnew, S. J., who died Feb. 1. Father Mahan's successor as regent of Loyola medical school is the Rev. Terrence A. Ahern, S. J., for several years head of the Loyola biology department, but lately regent of the schools of medicine, dentistry, pharmacy, and nursing at Creighton.

HELPED HER DIGESTION MORE THAN ANYTHING ELSE

"Suffered over thirty years with acid indigestion. ACIDINE has helped me more than anything I have ever taken." says Mrs. Emma Green, of Detroit, Michigan.

Just another of thousands who are astonished at the way this new prescription, ACIDINE, succeeds when other known remedies fail. The reason is it is different from other medicines. ACIDINE contains Japtase, which, in laboratory tests, digested 800 times its own weight of certain heavy starchy foods. ACIDINE neutralizes burning acid, soothes irritated stomach and intestinal linings, helps end acidosis.

Eat, drink all you want. When sour stomach, gas, pain, heartburn, bad taste, heavy feeling, short breath, dizziness, belching, nervousness, colds, gassy headaches and sleeplessness trouble you, take ACIDINE. Results guaranteed. If not delighted, maker refunds money.

WALGREEN-ECONOMICAL DRUG STORES.

GIRL FLIES FROM WASHINGTON TO GOTHAM IN HOUR

Washington, D. C., March 17.—(AP)—Spurred by official word that she had broken the women's altitude record, Miss Ruth Nichols, society aviatrix, today added a 200 mile an hour record equaling flight between New York and Washington to her roster of accomplishments.

Late today she took off on a return flight to New York after making the trip between Jersey City airport and the Anacostia naval air station here in 1 hours and 5 minutes. This time varied only a few seconds from the unofficial record held by Capt. Frank Hawks. It will be checked by the war department.

Accept Altitude Record.

Announcement that she had obtained a height of 28,743 feet in an altitude flight over Jersey City on March 4 was made today by the National Aeronautic association.

It exceeded the previous record of 27,417 feet, established by Miss Elinor Smith more than a year ago, by considerably more than the 600 feet necessary to claim an altitude mark.

Shows Little Elation.

Miss Nichols showed little elation over the feat, but did express surprise over the altitude mark accorded her.

"My altimeter showed over 30,000 feet," she said. "However, I did notice today that there was sometimes a difference of about 1,000 feet between the unofficial readings and the official calibrations."

Since Miss Nichols made her altitude flight, Miss Frankie G. Renner ascended to a height unofficially estimated as nearly six miles. Her barographs are being calibrated here.

BRITISH AIRMAN SAVES GERMAN ACE IN DESERT

NAIROBI, British East Africa, March 17.—(AP)—When Ernst Udet flew a plane with a black Maltese cross on the wings he was fair game for British soldiers, but today the German ace owes his life to the airmen who were his enemies during the war.

Capt. Campbell Black of the Royal Flying corps, flying over the treacherous desert in the Nile-Sudd country, spotted Udet's derelict plane on the sand. At the risk of his own life he made a difficult landing alongside and found Udet has been forced down without gas, food, water or means of communication.

He shared his scanty rations of water and biscuit with the German, then took off to notify the British air base at Khartoum whence a relief expedition was sent out. The German was making sound pictures of animal life in Africa.

TAXATION AND REPRESENTATION.

The attorney general's report for the biennium shows the inheritance taxes assessed in the counties of the state. The total for the two years was $26,561,000. Cook county was assessed $19,555,675, Lake $1,723,872, and the other hundred counties made up the balance of roughly $5,200,000. This is merely one incident of taxation to be considered in relation to representation.

Property is even more exposed to legislation than persons are otherwise than in their possessions. An improperly composed or an autocratically controlled legislature need no longer be feared as one which would prohibit a citizen's religion, as of old, or press gang him for the army. It can interfere with him, as experience proved in prohibition, and it is not outside of calculation that it might try to stop his amusements, as in matters of Sunday observance. In hardly any particular can a body of citizens safely lose representative rights, but property is most susceptible to unbalanced political action.

The growth of franchise rights begins with the propertied class. A person's holdings were supposed to indicate his privilege in the formation and conduct of government. Progress in reform was away from the idea that a man with less than one hundred pounds a year could not even hunt partridges on his own land toward the rule of universal suffrage. Property conceded these rights grudgingly and timidly, but had to do so. Here in Illinois the mark has been overshot, and the insistence is that the greatest property interest in the state shall be in part disfranchised.

So long as the rural squires of Illinois refuse to obey the constitution and restore representation equitably to the people the great interests of the metropolitan section are exposed to a minority of the state seeking profit from them by discriminatory legislation. In principle it is indefensible and in practice it can be intolerable. The city from session to session asks the legislature to restore equitable representation. It is doing so now. The refusal to put the state back in true representative government not only deprives the city of its full place in the general assembly but is detrimental to the character of the representation sent from here to Springfield. Chicago has a number of little rotten boroughs fastened on it by the present districts in which thirty years' growth and shift of population has taken place. Pocket districts absorb representation rightly belonging to great new areas of homes. Chicago has not only a restricted delegation in the legislature, but its character is of a lower grade than it would be if new districts were formed for equitable representation.

AND NOW THE PETTICOAT.

Yard by yard the so-called modern woman is pushed backward into the nineties. An inch or so of skirt length, a flounce and fullness for her "feminity," a morning, afternoon and evening model each of a different length, a sport length and a business length, corsets and now the petticoat, one after another they come, and, though she says that each will be the last concession, the shrewd men who manage modern women sartorially add more and more and make her like it. She skids down the dismal route, older and heavier in appearance with each added yard, down towards the puffy nineties, but happy still in the belief that she is now more "feminine." What the makers of silk stockings, of fur coats and of other now less necessary articles may lose by the changes in her dress is gained no doubt by the makers of petticoats, corsets and of other goods once more required. The changes may have upset the garment trade, as the economist Dr. F. J. Tyson has said, but the women, it would seem, retain their happiness.

And so a decade goes. The messy thirties supplant the flaming twenties. Petticoats and depressions, long skirts and other hoodoos stalk the troubled earth, and women, older and heavier in effect if not in actuality, lose their one time sovereign influence over men. Woman eats less trying to look slender under the added yardage—which is not so good for farmers and provisioners—and she moves less no doubt because of weakness and malnutrition—which also adds to business stagnation—but there are corresponding economic compensations of course in added business for the doctors and morticians. It all works out in nature's great balance, and as the times move from the dynamic twenties towards a decade of conservatism and stagnation some will gain and some will lose.

Older and heavier: the youth of the twenties, "flaming," the world called them, are moving on towards middle age. The years slow down. And women's clothes, designed in the twenties for the faster tempo, the warm houses, the fur coats and silk stockings, the freedom and athletic life of American girls, now return to European models. The cold houses of Europe, the sedentary life of European women, the slow tempo and the sharp distinction between men's and women's lives, the avoirdupois of Europe, are all molded into the new styles. Petticoats, corsets, long skirts are upon us. The messy thirties have arrived.

RELATIVE RADICALS.

Gandhi had a new experience in Bombay when communists got loose in a great gathering of his admirers and followers, stormed the platform, reviled him, tore the congress party flags down, and tried to raise the banners of the Reds. The Gandhi Nationalists rallied and suppressed the disturbers after the disorder for a time had the upper hand.

To the Reds Gandhi is not a patriot, liberal, or liberator. They called him a tool of British imperialism and capitalism and hooted him as such. The radical gentlemen of the extreme left have no horizons and conciliatory adjustments are outside their philosophy. Thus Washington was a tyrant to the American Jacobins and Lincoln a palterer to the abolitionists. Ramsay MacDonald is jellyfish to Mr. Mosley and a mere bubble to Mr. Stalin. Mr. Hoover is a stubborn reactionary to Mr. Borah, Mr. Borah is a rhetorician to Mr. Norris, Mr. Norris is a sham to Mr. Norman Thomas, and Mr. Thomas is a starched shirt front to Comrade Zack Foster, who is regarded by Moscow as pitiful because he cannot show any results in the United States. An old school direct action anarchist would think the whole Moscow régime was worth only the powder to blow it up.

THE NEXT CONGRESS AND THE NAVY.

The pacifists are credited with having blocked the naval building appropriation in the session of congress just concluded and they are already laying plans to prevent the passage of a similar measure in the congress which will convene next December. This time the excuse is that there is to be a world disarmament conference in Geneva under the auspices of the league of nations in 1932 and the United States should do no building until after the results of the conference are known.

This is the merest subterfuge. The Geneva conference is expected to deal almost entirely, if not entirely, with land armaments. The United States can have nothing to gain by deferring its naval construction until after the Geneva meeting because ship quotas will not be altered at the conference.

When the next congress takes up the naval bill the issue will be clear: Do we intend to build up to our treaty limits? If not, then we may as well abandon even the theory of parity with Great Britain. At the naval conference in 1936 we shall be told that, as we have not built the ships we said we needed, there is no reason to suppose that we really needed the unbuilt ships in the first place. If we felt secure despite our inferiority in armament, we ought to continue to do so if the inferiority is made permanent. And that line of argument, absurd as it is, will be difficult to meet, particularly with a powerful pacifist lobby in this country to give aid and comfort in our rear.

PROHIBITION SHOOTS UP A MAIL TRUCK.

In the recent prohibition killing, in North Carolina, it was a United States mail truck which excited the suspicion of the enforcers and they were county officers, a sheriff's deputies. The mail truck driver killed a deputy, the other deputies killed him, the truck was full of bullet holes and three young women who were riding as passengers were in luck to escape from it with their lives. Local regulations or practices evidently permitted the mail contract man to use the truck as a bus.

It is not quite clear what started the shooting, but the county enforcers couldn't distinguish between a mail carrier and a suspected rum runner and the driver probably thought he was dealing with a gang of mail robbers. It was consistent with enforcement of the great experiment that the shooting should start first. The inquiries can be made at the coroner's inquest.

The quick trigger work so typical of federal and state prohibition has its natural and apparent causes. An inflamed mentality approves whatever is done as a promotion of virtue and the men available as the armed agents of this virtue will seldom be notable for prudence, probity or common sense. The average person wouldn't take the job. It is congenial only to men with an eye for profitable opportunities, with a mind addled by bigotry or with an instinct for prowling their neighbors' affairs. The combinations being scandalous, the consequences naturally are.

Editorial of the Day

[New York Times.]

After being long bombarded by articles challenging their very existence, a representative of the family doctors has come to their defense. Dr. Wingate M. Johnson, whose answer to the attack appears in the March Atlantic Monthly, is a general practitioner. He admits that the high cost of medical care for the middle class is a serious problem. But he does not believe it can or should be solved by any of the plans suggested by people who dispense advice to the profession. The modern family doctor should take the place of the old family doctor whose obituary is being written every few days. He need not be a general practitioner, but he should have had enough practice to be able to direct a patient to the proper specialist.

In the matter of fees Dr. Johnson thinks public sentiment is unjust. The cost of everything else has gone up, and it is unreasonable to expect the cost of medical care not to follow. By selecting the right sort of man for medical adviser, a family may be sure that he will do his best to merit the confidence reposed in him. His personal interest in the patient and the patient's family and his professional pride insure his zeal. Such a guardian of the family health is worth more to the family than the occasional emergency care of a specialist or the disinterested attention of a medical firm or a public clinic. He is worth more and he costs less.

Dr. Wingate's replies to specific criticisms are practical. He believes in specialists when they are genuinely suited to the narrow field they choose. He thinks it is important to keep abreast of medical progress, but he also thinks that the talk of the difficulty of keeping up with new discoveries, treatments and inventions is mostly nonsense. A good family doctor is not confused or baffled by new steps in medical science. On the contrary, as Dr. Crookshank wrote recently in the Forum, "Real science simplifies and does not confuse; it synthesizes and leads back to first principles, so that men of intelligence and judgment can with ease keep themselves abreast of the best opinion."

SPEED ITSELF!

"You probably don't remember me," began the self-made man proudly, "but twenty years ago when I was a poor humble boy, you gave me a message to deliver."

"Yes, yes," cried the busy man, "where's the answer?"—Moustique, Charleroi.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

THESE HERE NOW IDES OF MARCH!

No wonder they picked out the Ides of March as the time to bump off Julius Cæsar. The middle of March was probably as dull in ancient Rome as it is in this year of disgrace 1931, and Brutus and Cassius and their friends were probably bored to tears and just had to do something for a little excitement. Probably Cæsar didn't mind very much. No doubt the Ides of March weighed on him just as heavily as it did on everybody else, but there being no high buildings to jump off of in those days he merely yawned and decided he would go down to the Forum, get decently stabbed, and have it over with.

They're not calm and quiet these days even in jail. Down at Joliet they've been rioting around, and yesterday even the band got the March feeling and started a general free for all fight on their own account. There's something in this Ides of March thing after all. We doubt if even the people that go down to Miami at this time are perfectly happy; it's the middle of March there like it is everywhere else, and even though they dine on a porterhouse steak that cost forty or fifty dollars, they probably growl because it's too well done or not done enough, or because the bootlegger didn't get around early enough with the makings for the cocktails.

It's no use trying to be restful and contented and everything these days. If anybody smiles everybody around him wants to hit him with an ax. The only thing to do is to stick it out until we get past these Ides of March. And then we ought to have the month abolished. If we didn't have March we wouldn't have the Ides. Write to your congressman today.

TO A YOUNG GIRL.

As winds carry
Each curled leaf
Time will rid you
Of this grief

Now so poignant,
So intense,
So important
And immense.

Time can cover
Pain within
As if it had Never been,

Leaving only
On your face
Gentleness to
Take its place.

FERRY ADAMS.

THERE SEEMS TO BE just one thing left for the British government to do to keep the crowds from tagging around after Gandhi. Send Charlie Chaplin to India. Gandhi will be left sitting on a lonely hilltop giving a perfect imitation of Old Man Mumbling to Himself.

NEVADA HAS PASSED its new law requiring only six weeks' residence to get a divorce. This licks Arkansas, which has just made a law reducing the time of residence for a divorce decree to three months. But, wait! Arkansas can't reduce the time limit right away, but it will probably throw in free round trip tickets, a brass band to meet all applicants for divorce at the train, free movies, hot dog and auto rides, and no charge for weddings immediately following the divorce.

ALL OF Hizzoner the Mayor's staff have tendered their resignations. We read the announcement with calmness and fortitude. But had the Rocky mountain burro resigned—ah, then poignant anguish. We really would hate to see the Rocky mountain burro step down and out.

OR, MAYBE, THEY SEE US COMING.

We have finally come to the fixed belief that all this stuff about farms and country places being offered cheap for sale on account of the w. k. depression is the hooey. We've been trying to buy one. We read the newspaper ads and it looks as though you could buy something outside of town for a dollar and sixty-five cents, including 64 hens, 7 roosters, 24 pigs, 2 wagons, 40 acres of rich wheat land, 1 barn, 1 garage, 3 plows, 2 harvesters, 1 self-binder, 1 milking stool, 5 automobiles, 1 cook stove, 1 mortgage, 5 milch cows, 4 horses, 1 good will, 1 baby crib, 3 beds, 4 carpets, and 4 silos. But when we ask about it the price is three million dollars. Compared with what we've got.

TIME.

Time is a thief who plunders by day,

And we dream along unaware of the theft

He robs us of innocence, jewel of youth,
And leaves us, like Adam, afraid of truth;

He despoils us of strength, then grins at our plight
As we vainly turn back in doddering flight;

He rifles our hearts of love and of faith
Till of hope there remains but the veriest wraith.

We cannot escape that vortex of sand
Which whirls through the glass in sinuous strand,

But poised on the brink, as we contemplate death,
We know at the last Time has robbed us of breath!

GEORGE JEAN NATHAN on the witness stand in New York testified that there were twenty first class dramatic critics in America. Wonder who Mr. Nathan would testify the twentieth one was?

THE USE OF COUGHING.

"ABOUT seventy-five patients gathered in the room, the doors were closed, and the concert began. For an hour and a half there was no sound but the music. Near the end of the program I heard a slight cough. Only one cough in an hour and a half in a room containing seventy-five lungers! Would there be so few in a movie in the city?"

This quotation is taken from a book, "We Take to Bed," written by Marshall McClintock. The author, his wife, and baby became infected with tuberculosis and went to Saranac for the cure. The book tells of their experiences, gives information about consumption, and tells a behind the scenes story of life in a sanitarium and in a resort city near which a sanitarium is located. In this instance the sanitarium is Trudeau and the resort town is Saranac.

The quotation refers to a musical program given in Trudeau. The "lungers" are patients there. The quotation is given to call attention to the uselessness of most coughing. If the patients in a sanitarium seldom need to cough the people attending lectures, theatricals, and movies cannot justify themselves in the practice. Probably not one cough in ten thousand serves any useful purpose. Probably more than 99 per cent of the coughs could be restrained. And every cough in a crowd endangers those near by. A hard cough can project the bacteria disease ten feet at least. Whatever the management does to make people cough less promotes business by increasing safety, comfort, and pleasure.

There is an art in the suppression of a cough. Mrs. McClintock had advanced consumption and she needed to cough sometimes to clear her bronchial tubes. The author quotes his wife as follows: "We discussed the best ways to raise. Helene insisted she had learned the trick to perfection. She could raise sometimes without coughing. 'I just feel something way down there in the bottom of my throat and now I can get it up without all that hacking and clearing and hard work. I just sort of wiggle my throat muscles some way and it works itself up into my mouth and I spit it out.'"

WOMAN'S WIDER BEAM.

M. M. writes: Why do all middle aged women grow large around the hips? Is it inevitable or can it be prevented by exercise and diet? I have always been very slender and underweight but find myself gaining a little and my hip measurement is somewhat larger. I walk a great deal and do all my housework. Please tell us some means of keeping our youthful figures.

REPLY.

Most, but not all, women thicken up as they cross the hilltop. Those that do not wish they could. The cause rests principally with the thyroids and the gonads. However, some of the tendency can be charged to loss of relation between food intake and work. The location of adipose is determined partly by physical causes, inactivity, and freedom from pressure.

Increase of work and decrease of food intake is about as far as the average woman is justified in going in the control of breadth of beam.

BAD BREATH AND HAIR.

William T. writes:

1. What causes bad breath and how is it cured?
2. I use a great deal of water on my hair when I comb it. Will this cause the hair to rot and fall out?
3. Does liquid vaseline harm the hair?
4. What causes the hair to fall out?

REPLY.

1. Among the causes are bad tonsils, teeth or nose condition and intestinal fermentation. Of these the last is most frequently the cause. The cure depends on the cause.
2. It will not cause your hair to rot or fall out. Washing the scalp is necessary for cleanliness and health of skin. If it removes too much grease that can be remedied.
3. No.
4. Among the causes are dirty scalp, diseased scalp, pressure of the hat, inheritance, constitutional disease.

EXERCISE AS DEVELOPERS.

H. B. S. writes:

Please print an exercise that will develop the

1. Shoulders.
2. Chest.
3. Abdominal muscles.

REPLY.

1. Wrestling, boxing, rowing, swimming, pitching hay, blacksmithing, hod carrying.
2. Developing the shoulders and broadening the chest go together.
3. Bending, lifting weights, wrestling, rowing, spading, plowing.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

TO CLEAR TITLE.

Forest Park, Ill., March 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My father and mother owned several pieces of real estate in joint tenancy. My mother died. In the event that my father would want to sell a part of this real estate (1), what would he have to do to give clear title? 2. Would he be compelled to pay inheritance tax? A. B. C.

1. Show a death certificate.
2. Yes, if the one-half that he received by survivorship exceeds $20,000.00.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

1931 FORTUNE TELLERS.

Chicago, March 3.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Do astrologers and psychic interpreters have a license to give readings?

2. Is that an honorable and legitimate work?

3. Don't card readers (those who tell fortunes by cards), palmists, or graphologists have licenses to open an office and make that their work? 4. A friend insists that all such people are fakes and can practice just until the police or authorities chase them away. I do not believe that.

5. I insist that astrology and psychic interpretation (using a crystal for an aid in concentration) is not a fake but an art and gift, absolutely legal and legitimate. MRS. M. E.

1. No. A city ordinance prohibits giving such readings for pay.
2. The writer does not so regard it.
3. No. The rule is the same.
4. Your friend is substantially right.
5. We have seen no convincing demonstration.

FIRST MORTGAGE.

Chicago, March 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Some time ago I purchased a first mortgage from a bank. I was given the notes, deed, and insurance papers, but no abstract or anything to prove my ownership in said mortgage. 2. Would it be necessary to have it transferred in my name and have it recorded? 3. In case of failure of the bank would the mortgage be considered an asset of the bank? J. H. H.

1. Ordinarily, a first mortgage holder should have a title guaranty policy or Torrens certificate if he does not receive an abstract.
2. No.
3. Not on the facts that you state.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 18, 1915.

WASHINGTON. — Six diplomatic notes between the state department and Great Britain, France, and Germany on the questions raised by the modes of naval warfare adopted were made public today. The net result of the correspondence is to leave the United States exactly where it was at the start, without any prospect of securing relief from the pressure to which its interests are subjected by the ruthless policies of the belligerents.

LONDON. — The German cruiser Karlsruhe, which has been sinking enemy ships since the war began, has been sunk, according to a story from a Copenhagen newspaper. The story is that the crew were having tea one evening when a sudden explosion split the cruiser in two. German submarines are continuing their raids on British shipping and in the last four days three steamers have been sunk.

LONDON.—Statements issued by the war office give details of the terrific battles of Neuve Chapelle and St. Eloi which resulted in the defeat of the German plan to smash the British line in northern France. The battles lasted for five days, from March 10 to 14, with enormous sacrifices by both sides. The British losses are estimated at about two-thirds of those suffered by the Germans, which are estimated between 17,000 and 18,000.

CHICAGO.—Opera will be given in Chicago next year with stars of international reputation. This announcement was made in a statement signed by Harold F. McCormick and issued by Charles G. Dawes, both of whom were conspicuous in the Chicago Grand Opera company recently thrown into bankruptcy.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 18, 1901.

LONDON.—The gravity of the dispatches from Tientsin is such that the marquis of Lansdowne, the foreign minister, and Lord Salisbury were in frequent communication. A Tientsin telegram says the Russians and the British are occupying long trenches only 45 yards apart. These are filled with troops, but the English outnumber the Russians twenty to one. Unless the St. Petersburg government takes a conciliatory view of the dispute the Russians will attempt to drive out the British.

CHICAGO.—Three thousand enthusiastic Irish-Americans honored the memory of the good St. Patrick by giving one of the most brilliant and imposing parades since the observance of the saint's day began in Chicago.

INDIANAPOLIS.—In the center of a hollow square composed of fully 15,000 of his fellow citizens, the remains of former President Benjamin Harrison were interred in the family lot at Crown Hill cemetery. Close by the grave were the members of his family, President McKinley, and other visitors of distinction and many friends of Gen. Harrison. Brief services were held at the Harrison home before the remains were taken to the First Presbyterian church, where the principal service was held.

CHICAGO.—Attorney George Hunt, former attorney general of Illinois, and for years prominent in Illinois politics and at the bar, died at his home in Riverside at the age of 59. He prosecuted the cases of the Chicago anarchists through the Illinois and United States Supreme courts. He was a civil war veteran and participated in the battles of Shiloh, Corinth, Fort Donelson, Fort Henry, and Altoona Pass.

CHICAGO.—Wu Ting Fang, Chinese minister to the United States, gentleman and Chinaman—he glories in the latter distinction—will arrive in Chicago this morning. He is coming as the guest of the University of Chicago and will deliver the convocation address at Dr. Harper's institute of learning.

CHICAGO.—J. Frank Aldridge, former Chicago congressman, met Miss Matilda Agan, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. David H. Agan of New York City, at the inauguration ball in Washington on March 4. After an ardent eight day courtship he proposed marriage and was accepted and the wedding will take place in May or June.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 18, 1881.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Attorney General MacVeagh decided against the appointment of A. M. Jones as United States marshal at Chicago. Senator Logan then waited upon President Garfield, whereupon the latter sent for the papers in the case and will pass upon the matter himself. It is thought Jones will be appointed. Secretary of War Robert Lincoln has appointed Charles S. Sweet of Chicago as his private secretary.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The appointment of the Hon. James A. Wildman as postmaster at Indianapolis was sent to the senate by President Garfield and it will be promptly confirmed as soon as the senate organizes.

LONDON.—The policeman on duty at the Mansion house observed fire on the ground near the rear wall of the lord mayor's official residence, and on investigating found a wooden box with a fuse connected to which some lighted paper had been recently applied. He extinguished the fire and took the box to the police station, where it was found to contain 40 pounds of gunpowder. The discovery created a sensation, for just now London and all England, for that matter, are ready to believe anything, no matter how absurd, about Fenian plots.

SANTA FE, N. M.—The Indians made a raid on a wagon train near Puerto de Chocolate, N. M., and killed thirty men and burned the wagons.

PRESIDENTIAL TIMBER.

Chicago, March 15.—I was very much pleased with the article by Mr. Henning. I have followed Calvin Coolidge since he was governor of Massachusetts and during all these years I cannot recall any actions on his part that could be looked at in a double light. To my mind, when he made a statement he did it after very careful consideration, and no one could read between the lines unless he did not want the truth. Why annoy him now that he has given seven years of his life to help those who do not appear to be able to help themselves? What inducement could tempt him to once more take up worry when he now is free to think and say what suits him?

The G. O. P. has only three candidates for President—Watson, who has been a standing candidate for over twenty years; Fess of Ohio, who remains seated but has springs in his chair, and Moses of New Hampshire, while not just out in the limelight, can be seen behind a tree looking out.

Roosevelt left a big stick in the White House when he went out. Had Hoover found and used it on some of those now fighting him, the people would have indorsed him.

Does any one think Roosevelt would have ever recognized Norris after he voted against him, or any of the others who opposed his plans?

C. S. HAMMOND.

THE WIDTH OF SUBWAY CARS.

Chicago, March 13.—Plans now published for the new subway to be built under State street show that this line is to be connected to the existing elevated road on both the north and south sides. This, we understand, is but the beginning of a much larger underground system. What about the width of the cars?

New York foolishly built its first subway with cars as narrow as its elevated cars, and as narrow as our elevated cars, and found their inadequacy necessitated changing to a wider car with the later subway lines. This was particularly true for those lines later destined to be interurban [to Rockaway and Long Beach] which led into the city. We must contemplate some such arrangements in the future. Cars to be boarded in the loop, and possibly under Michigan avenue, will go to the west and north suburbs, and standardization to regular Pullman width is a prime necessity. For that reason there should be simultaneous changes in the elevated lines, no matter how difficult the problem now is. I do not believe it is insurmountable.

NEWS FROM IRELAND.

Waukegan, Ill., March 11.—It is rather a peculiar coincidence that the only time the veracity of your foreign correspondents is questioned is when some favorable bulletin reaches you from Dublin or London concerning Ireland. Your correspondent, J. M., says he made an exhaustive tour of Ireland last year and found conditions bad in Dublin, Cork and Belfast. If his trip consisted, as it invariably does, of a hurried 7 or 14 days spent in Ireland, then all I can say is that he is no authority on Ireland's financial or economic condition and I would much prefer a TRIBUNE correspondent's word who is always on the spot. No paper could have a more reliable and trustworthy foreign representative than John Steele or Hugh Curran, and their dispatches can be relied on for accuracy and completeness in every detail. R. M. O'HANRAHAN.

ELEVATED GUARDS.

Chicago, March 13.—For some time the Chicago Rapid Transit company has been operating a four car train with two men, whereas three men are supposed to man a train of this kind. I have been led to believe that there is a city ordinance requiring a guard to be stationed at the entrance of each car.

MASTERS' LINCOLN.

Wilmette, Ill., March 14.—There appears upon your book page this morning a review by Oliver R. Barrett of Mr. Masters' new book on Lincoln. It seems only fair to point out its weaknesses as a competent report of a book about an interesting man.

Mr. Barrett either does not know how to "cut" quotations, or the typesetter made a mistake. From the context it appears to be Mr. Barrett's ignorance, for he says, "The following examples selected at random will suffice." He says "examples," and then runs three together as if they were one. It is true that he puts semicolons between them, but the last two obviously depend upon each other, although the indication seems to be that they are separate quotations. It is almost needless to point out that one may take any book and, by selecting half a sentence here, a phrase there, a clause some place else, and running them all together as one connected expression, may make the author say almost anything.

Mr. Barrett does not agree with Mr. Masters, which is his privilege. But his only method of refutation of Mr. Masters' points is to disparage Mr. Masters' previous works, which have, as far as I can see, little or nothing to do with the book he was reviewing.

"A book which challenges attention only by an overload of abuse and error is provocative of an inquiry into the reason for its writing, yet such inquiry at best is only a deduction." So says Mr. Barrett, yet Masters states in the book what caused him to write it. Can it be that your reviewer did not read it before reviewing it?

The interpretation that Masters puts upon the known facts is a matter which your reviewer could safely take exception to. But when he says those facts are errors he only makes himself ridiculous. Surely if this Mr. Barrett wishes to uphold a certain picture of Lincoln it is singular that he does not cite even one specific error in fact that Masters has made, although he claims the book is full of "errors"!

ADVICE TO BROADCASTERS.

Chicago, March 14.—Diversification apparently is an all important factor in arranging radio programs which are network features. Nevertheless, on chain broadcasts of some events, their importance seems to warrant their occupying the time of almost every large station in the country. This, to me, is the most foolish thing that the management of the chains do. The pope's address was received in the Chicago area by eight or ten stations while the population that they served could have been just as easily reached by from one to three of the largest of these stations. In less populated areas, where radio stations are few and far between, it, of course, is sensible to employ a hookup of stations that will satisfactorily serve the people therein, but in a city like Chicago, where stations are so congested, it seems ridiculous to use them all when none is serving any section which could not be reached by one of the more powerful ones in the same area. Regardless of the importance of the occasion, there are some people who are not interested in it, and instead of serving this minority also, the chains use all their equipment available to serve the majority that is interested.

DRY REPEALER MOVED TOWARD VOTE IN SENATE

Second Reading Set for Tomorrow.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 17.—[Special.]—In the wake of protests that the wet and dry question has been made a political football long enough, announcement was made in the senate tonight by Senator Victor P. Michel [Rep., Peoria] that the bill to repeal the Illinois search and seizure act would be reported out of the license committee, of which he is chairman, tomorrow afternoon. Senator Michel rebuked senators who suggested further procrastination, and served notice that the repealer would be brought up on second reading Thursday morning. He proposes to have Wednesday, March 25, set for a vote on the bill as a special measure.

Tonight the drys were scurrying around trying to peddle their idea of tacking on an amendment for a referendum in 1932 on the measure on which a public policy referendum went two to one wet last November. Amendments will be in order when the bill comes up Thursday, and tonight word has been sent out to all absentees to be in their seats that day.

Liberals Are Anxious.

The liberals expressed a fear that the drys might catch them napping, due to the chronic passion of the senators for ducking out for the early trains on Thursday. A disposition has been manifested by some of the senate leaders to hold up the vote until after the mayoralty election in Chicago, for no obvious reason.

"This is urgent," cried Senator Michel. "Why make a football of it any longer? Let's set the date for the vote quickly, then have fifty-one senators here."

"We'll keep enough here," said Lieut. Gov. Sterling. "Let them know it's going to a vote, and they'll be on hand."

Tonight it developed that the professional drys are not only seeking a referendum, but they propose one which would require the repealer to be adopted by a majority of all votes cast at the election instead of a majority on the proposal alone. This is the majority required of a constitutional amendment, but it has not been applied to statutory measures.

Minorities Crop Up Again.

Further analysis of the November referendum on the wet and dry question made the influence of minorities loom up larger than ever.

Of the 102 counties, 55 voted dry. Most of these counties are in receding areas, where population is moving out. Of these counties 39 have less population than in 1920. Forty-one of them have less inhabitants than thirty years ago, in 1900.

The population of the counties which voted against repeal is 1,311,-784, which is only 16 per cent of the state.

Further consideration of the power exerted by a minority of the people will be taken up in the house tomorrow in the debate over the resolution for a joint commission to draw up a reapportionment of the legislative districts on a "fair and just basis."

Not a tap has been done on redistricting Illinois for thirty years. What the shifting and growth of population in three decades has done to representative government on the theory of "equality of population" may be seen from the following:

In the legislature a minority of 29 per cent of the population [2,182,103] has 26 senatorial districts and elects a majority of both houses. The majority, 71 per cent of the people [5,448,551], has 25 senatorial districts and elected a minority of both houses.

Congressional Lineup.

On the congressional side a minority—in five Chicago pocket boroughs and eight small downstate districts [927,432 voters]—has 13 district congressmen. The majority—in the remaining 12 districts [2,084,776 voters]—has 12 district congressmen.

In the Supreme court lineup a majority—in the Seventh district, with 57 per cent of the population—elects one judge to the Supreme court. The minority, in the remaining 6 districts, 43 per cent of the population, elects 6 justices to the high tribunal of the judiciary, one of the three coördinate branches of government.

The Schnackenberg resolution on reapportionment, which comes up tomorrow morning in the house, may produce one of the best debates of the week.

$15,000,000 DECLINE HERE IN INCOME TAX COLLECTIONS

Income tax collections for the first Illinois district were running more than $15,000,000 behind those for the same period last year when the latest tabulation of Robert E. Neely, acting collector of internal revenue, was announced yesterday.

A total of $31,624,448 had been collected and deposited with the federal reserve bank since Jan. 1, as compared with $47,016,729 collected from Jan. 1 to March 17 last year. The total of returns tabulated since Jan. 1 numbered 166,980, against 193,200 for the same period last year.

Many returns are still in the mails, and there will be the usual increase due to extensions in time and delinquent payments, but the final first quarter collections are expected to be many millions short of the total for last year, which was more than $57,000,000.

EMMERSON CASH MEASURE SAVED BY DEMOCRATS

Would Legalize State Tax Warrants.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 17.—[Special.]—Democratic support was given to an Emmerson revenue relief bill in the house of representatives today just in time to save it from delay in committee. The bill went to second reading, the Democrats unanimously in favor of it, while a handful of the members on the majority side voted "no." Minority Leader M. L. Igoe [Dem., Chicago] tipped the scale to effect this favorable action.

Homer J. Tice, an Emmerson leader and chairman of the appropriations committee, presented the bill. It would allow the state to guard against the approaching money shortage for state pay rolls on April 15, caused by the delay in collection of Cook county taxes. The plan is to issue tax anticipation warrants when revenue funds run low. This is the first time the state has been driven to such an expedient.

Speedy Action Requisite.

Tice asked that the bill be placed on second reading without reference to a committee. In asking immediate action he explained that it was desired to test its legality as quickly as possible. Several Republican members objected.

"The state has $600,000 available for a fool artillery range at Camp Grant," said Representative Leroy M. Green [Rep., Rockford]. "To spend it there would be a waste. I can't understand this expenditure in the face of the professed economy on the part of the administration."

Several others opposed the advancement of the bill, and when Speaker Shanahan called for a viva voce vote Minority Leader Igoe asked for the floor.

Makes Plea for Bill.

"In fairness to the administration, and understand that I'm no admirer of it," Igoe began, "we should understand that this is a bill to give the state the right to do what municipalities may now do—issue tax anticipation warrants. They have bills to meet and no money with which to pay them. The state institutions must continue to function. The poor and destitute must be taken care of and for that reason I think the bill should be advanced."

A rising vote was then called for and the Democratic side and most of the Republicans across the aisle rose in a body to approve advancement. The vote was 106 for and 11 against—the opposition coming from the majority side.

Among the bills passed by the house was the poor relief measure sponsored by the board of Cook county commissioners. It would allow county boards in counties of more than 500,000 inhabitants to issue bonds without a referendum for the relief of the poor up to $2,000,000, provided the county has already paid $500,000 out of its general resources for the same purpose during the year of issue.

Bills coming into the house this morning included one sponsored by the Chicago city hall machine to aid the taxpayers. Taxes for 1929 would be paid in twenty installments over as many years, one-twentieth being paid on May 1, 1932, and one-twentieth on each following May 1 up to 1951.

A bill spreading the payments over ten years is being prepared by A. J. Cermak, Democratic mayoralty candidate, and is expected in the house within the next week or so.

Gentlemen:
You will doubtless recollect how dubious of success we were when we first considered the use of two-color advertising. It's different now. Our initial advertisement pulled so well that we ran a second which produced even more satisfactorily than the experimental copy. Our present confidence, born as it is of successful experience, must need express itself in further appropriations for this type of advertising.
We found that color commands an immediate audience and that its contrast to the rest of the paper makes its influence both spontaneous and sustained. Not only does it dominate a section but it dominates an entire issue.
In common with other advertisers of staple commodities, such as tires, we have been satisfied with advertising results over a protracted period. Tribune two-color advertising produces immediate increase in sales. As a result, we feel justified in believing that no well-balanced advertising campaign can exclude color advertising.
Yours very truly,

HERE is a letter from one of the world's largest merchandising organizations—Sears, Roebuck & Company, with which is affiliated Becker, Ryan & Company. Read about their experience with Chicago Tribune run-of-paper two-color advertising.

"Our initial advertisement pulled so well that we ran a second, which produced even more satisfactorily than the experimental copy," writes N. W. Jeran, president of Becker, Ryan & Company and general manager of the Chicago retail district of Sears, Roebuck & Company.

"We found that color commands an immediate audience and that its contrast to the rest of the paper makes its influence both spontaneous and sustained. Not only does it dominate a section, but it dominates an entire issue.

"In common with other advertisers of staple commodities, such as tires, we have been satisfied with advertising results over a protracted period.

The day demands shock tactics. Run-of-paper two-color advertising in the Chicago Tribune commands attention in more than 795,000 homes on week-days and more than a million on Sundays. It's available on 24 hours' notice and costs but little more than black-and-white.

WOMEN'S 8 HOUR BILL IS APPROVED BY HOUSE GROUP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 17.—[Special.]—The women's 8 hour workday bill was reported out of the house committee on industrial affairs tonight by a vote of 26 to 8, with a recommendation that it pass, after a hearing in which the Illinois Manufacturers' association had presented its arguments against the bill, declaring it unwarranted at this time.

The chief speech in opposition to the measure, which is one of the five main bills in the legislative program of organized labor, was made by Theodore R. Gerlach, president of the Manufacturers' association.

"This measure is not needed," said Mr. Gerlach. "A recent survey showed that 35 per cent of the women employed in Illinois industry work 8 hours a day.

Must Work Overtime.

"Thirty per cent work between 8 and 9 hours; 27 per cent, 9 hours, and only 7.2 per cent more than 9 hours.

"Eighty-two per cent of the industries of the state are obliged to engage in overtime work occasionally. In the meat packing industry about half the women are on a fifty-hour weekly basis, with a longer week during rush periods.

"Candy factories cannot operate on a forty-eight hour week when working to meet the Christmas and Easter trade. We don's want to have our candy factories move to Indiana or Michigan, do we, especially as we already have lost industries to those states?"

Fears Plants Will Quit State.

"The electrical equipment factories of Illinois have to work fifty and fifty-four hours a week to meet rushes. In metals, two-thirds of the women have a longer week than forty-eight hours. In some millinery establishments women work sixty hours a week during rush times and they are glad to do it to make up for lost time during other seasons.

"Farming machinery plants employ women on the lighter tasks. Do we want to drive them to other states because they have a fifty-hour week?

"Boots and shoes are an important industry in Illinois, especially since they have been forced out of Massachusetts. Downstate they average fifty hours and in rush seasons fifty-four. Missouri would be glad to get them on that basis.

"Printers sometimes have to operate on a sixty hour schedule to meet rush orders and as I am in the printing business I'd love to see a few of these rush orders now.

"Would's it be much better to let Illinois employers and employés work out hours of employment themselves and so avoid inevitable injury to industry, to employés and to our state.

"Owing to the interdependence of men and women factory workers it is not feasible to work men for a greater number of hours than women. It would be necessary to eliminate all overtime work for all employés, or to replace women with men employés. This would work a severe hardship upon the employer and the employé.

CORONER ABSOLVES 4 DRY RAIDERS FOR KILLING MAIL DRIVER

Wilmington, N. C., March 17.—(AP)—Although all survivors have been cleared of blame by a coroner's jury, further investigation tonight appeared likely as a sequel to the gun battle here early Sunday which cost the lives of two men.

The coroner's jury announced its findings this afternoon, laying the deaths to a "a tragedy of errors" for which it found no one responsible.

Lepo Roberts, 28, of Dudley, a contract mail truck driver, was found to have been killed by Deputy A. B. Crews after he had slain Deputy W. P. Starling and while he still was firing at other officers, who had built a barricade across the highway to trap an expected liquor truck. Roberts, fired as he reached the barricade, apparently believing he was being halted by highwaymen. The gun battle ensued.

Coincident with announcement of the coroner's verdict, Assistant Attorney General Frank Nash wired a Wilmington newspaper that a coroner, conducting an inquest, was sitting as a court and must open the proceedings to the public. This announcement was received here as a possible basis for forcing reopening of the inquest.

In Goldsboro, Ludlow Roberts, brother of the slain mail driver, announced he would demand a grand jury investigation.

The coroner's jury reached its verdict after 14 hours of examining witnesses in closed session and six hours of deliberation.

Amended Illinois Law Requires Record.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 17.—[Special.]—Sale of machine guns to any persons save peace and military officers was banned by the Illinois senate late today in the passage of Senator Adelbert H. Roberts' bill. A similar measure passed the legislature two years ago but was vetoed—presumably because it had been amended in the house to prohibit even police from using the weapons.

The Roberts bill went through the house without a dissenting vote. It would require manufacturers to keep a record of all machine guns handled or purchased and specifies that they shall not keep guns in stock except for delivery to persons who have a permit to buy them. Officers would be allowed to enter any building or dwelling and seize any machine gun possessed in violation of the law.

Two new concealed weapon bills were introduced during the day. Senator Ritchie V. Graham [Dem., Chicago] put in a bill approved by the Chicago Crime commission and State's Attorney Swanson, prohibiting anyone from carrying a gun less than three feet long on his person or in any conveyance; an exception is made for all constituted authorities. In the house, Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg [Rep., Chicago] presented a bill, also approved by the Crime commission, which would make a person guilty of a misdemeanor if he were found carrying a weapon from which the manufacturer's number or identification mark had been removed.

While the senate was enacting the machine gun measure State's Attorney Swanson was across the corridor appearing before the house civil service committee considering Representative Anna Wilmarth Ickes' bill to place all Cook county employés under the civil service act.

Mr. Swanson made objections to the bill, pointing out that it would make it difficult for him to chose his legal assistants and undercover investigators from a civil service list.

Arrest Fight Promoter Accused of Attacking Girl

Victor Gironda, 26 years old, 2622 Wentworth avenue, a fight promoter, was arrested last night in his office in the Crilly building, 35 South Dearborn street, on the complaint of Miss Maud Ver Wey, 20 years old, 287 East 149th street, Harvey, who charged him with rape. She told police she was attacked on March 2 when she went to Gironda's office to seek a job.

Claims U. S. Gives Buses Favors

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 17.—[Special.]—Coördination of the transportation systems of this country and fair competition between the railroads and common carrier motor vehicles operating for a profit on the highways, can not be brought about so long as the federal government permits the latter to indulge in rebates and to make unjust discriminations in the matter of rates, service and practices, Alfred P. Thom, general counsel of the Association of Railway Executives, told the interstate commerce commission today.

Urges U. S. End Such Practices.

Mr. Thom urged the abolition, through proper federal regulation, of such practices by common carrier buses and common carrier and contract trucks. These practices, he said, the government; years ago, had definitely condemned on the part of the railroads.

Mr. Thom appeared as a final witness in hearings that began four months ago on the question of coordination of motor transportation.

"If motor vehicles operating for profit on the highways are to be allowed to indulge in rebates and to make unjust discriminations," he said, "the alternative is obvious: Relieve the railroads of the restrictions which the government refuses to put on their competitors.

Asks Fair Deal for Railroads.

"Give them the power of flexibility as to terms they can offer shippers which is possessed by their competitors.

"The railroads do not ask that motor vehicle competition be removed or destroyed. All they ask is that the terms of competition be equal and fair."

One Farmer in 61 Missouri Counties Pays Income Tax

STATE TO PUT BRICK SURFACE ON OLD ROADS

Will Repair Concrete Laid 11 Years Ago.

BY HAL FOUST.

The state is advertising for bids to resurface 69.5 miles of concrete roads with brick. The present pavements, while all over eleven years old, are still not entirely paid for, since they were financed with twenty year bond issues.

The cost is expected to approximate $35,000 a mile. This is the reckoning, although not an official estimate, of State Highway Engineer Sheets. Much of the expense will be due to the fact that the roads are to be widened to twenty feet at the same time they are resurfaced. The old pavements are 15, 16, and 18 feet wide.

Report Some Criticism.

There are reports of a whispering campaign against the state administration for its decision to resurface these roads with brick. The critics contend that at little more cost the pavements could be widened to forty feet with new concrete slabs for the outer lanes which bear the weight of most of the traffic.

Route 22—St. Charles to Elgin, 8.12 miles.

Waukegan road—Waukegan to Lake Bluff.

Other roads on the brick resurfacing program are as follows:

Routes 2 and 7—East from La Salle, 1.07 miles.

Route 4 — Mitchell to Staunton, 18.33 miles; and small stretches just north and south of Springfield.

Route 9—Bartonville to Orchard Mines, 3.01 miles.

Route 88—North of Peoria Heights, 1.4 miles.

"These pavements," said Chief Engineer Sheets, "are badly cracked. They need a surface that will distribute the impact and retard progressive destruction. The old concrete forms a foundation that will not settle any more.

Correct Structural Defects.

"In addition to giving a new riding surface, these projects will correct a structural defect. The old pavements were built before we learned to thicken the edges, where there is the greatest strain.

"In widening the pavements to twenty feet, the design calls for a sixteen inch thick concrete slab that will lap under and over the old slab on both sides. To get a smooth surface the design calls for a mastic sand cushion between the old concrete and the brick."

Thousand-mile jumps don't mean a thing to Chesterfield. It's the same fresh, good-tasting cigarette whether you light up in the north woods or in Hawaii! For what you taste in Chesterfield is milder, better tobaccos—nothing else—blended and "cross-blended" to bring out a flavor and fragrance you'll never find in any cigarette but Chesterfield.

Greater mildness . . . better taste!

FOR NINETEEN years, our Research Department has kept intimate touch with every new development of Science that could be applied to the manufacture of cigarettes. During this period there has been no development of tested value or importance to the smoker which we have not incorporated into the making of Chesterfield cigarettes.

ECONOMISTS SEE OPPORTUNITY FOR CAPABLE FARMER

Stress Need of Efficient Management.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Life on the farms of the middle west, as some 3,000,000 families are living it was subjected to the clinical scrutiny of a group of agrarian economists in a survey completed yesterday in an effort to learn their opinions on farm problems.

Their diagnosis, as disclosed, renewed the promise of returns for those energetic, capable farmers who continue to show profits for the year's work. At the same time, their indigent neighbors were being doomed to permanent servitude if not banishment from a tenancy on the soil. A premium is placed on the proper management of capital and labor, in the opinion of the experts.

Tells of Farm Opportunity.

"The most important thing to be done in America right now," declared K. L. Hatch of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture, "is to insure to the willing worker a steady job. The one place where this is afforded with more certainty than anywhere else is in the case of the farmer operating his own farm.

"With a roof over his head, with plenty to eat and a good place to live, the farm right now looks mighty attractive. These five forces are at work to increase this attractiveness: power, transportation, leisure, beauty and a steady job."

"Much of the difference between the earnings of the most profitable and the least profitable farms," asserted Dean H. W. Mumford of the Illinois College of Agriculture, "is accounted for in these factors: crop yields, efficiency of live stock, cost of power and machinery, amount of live stock, cost of labor and miscellaneous expense. There is little difference between the most and least profitable farms in the proportions of tillable land in the crops which ordinary are more or less profitable."

Dairyman Works Every Day.

The dairy farmer, it was pointed out, puts in 365 days a year at his job, his herd requiring an average of about 14 hours a day in the areas around city markets. By ordinance, his herd must be tested for butterfat production and for freedom from disease. His barns must be whitewashed regularly, his utensils sterilized at each milking, and his milkhouse must be removed from the stable, with provision for immediate cooling of the milk.

Years are spent in breeding and feeding the herd to a point of increased efficiency, while odd hours are spent in growing clover, corn and other feedstuffs, or in filling silos for winter feed reserves.

The farmer producing meat animals finds his labor more seasonal, particularly in such areas as western Illinois and parts of Iowa, where young stock is shipped in from the range country, fattened in a few weeks, and sent on to slaughter. Such efforts in recent years are said to be largely unprofitable, according to C. L. Black, farm management expert at the Iowa State college, and must be supplemented by production of crops or the breeding of young stock.

Farmers in some areas, such as the southwestern part of Iowa, he points out, rely upon production of corn, hay and small grains, thus working only during the growing season.

Jesse Heft of Marble Rock, Iowa, produces on 80 acres a crop of corn at a cost of 16 cents a bushel, with his land worth $100 an acre, each of which last year yielded 41 bushels. He spent 35 days to obtain this crop—plowing, discing, harrowing, planting, cultivating and harvesting with a two row mechanical picker. His cost per acre, according to the National Association of Farm Equipment Manufacturers, was $7.10, as compared with the government's estimated average on corn belt farms of $13.90.

Alvin Dennler, a corn grower of Le Mars, Ia., obtained 48 bushels per acre from 56 acres of land worth $150 an acre at a cost of 15 cents a bushel. He spent 25.2 days in producing it, using a tractor and other modern machinery.

Wheat Farmer Cuts Hours.

The wheat farmer, economists find, is reducing his working hours to the minimum, and is relying upon increased efficiency to offset world-wide declines in prices. Earl Johnson of Elk Point, S. D., raised 135 acres of wheat at a cost of 31.3 cents a bushel, exclusive of land and tax costs. On land worth $75 an acre he obtained a yield of 24 bushels an acre, requiring 30 days of work to plow, harrow, drill the seed and harvest with a combined harvester-thresher.

Johnston's operating and overhead costs were $5.49 an acre, as compared with the government's average estimated cost of $12.76 an acre on spring wheat belt farms for similar yields. He uses his tractor only 70 days a year on the entire farm.

The federal department of agriculture sets the average cost of growing potatoes for 260 farmers of New York and Pennsylvania at $102 an acre. The truck farmers of this area, as well as those in Cook county, find the winter months leisurely, but labor 14 to 18 hours daily during the growing and marketing season.

W. E. Grimes, economist at the Kansas State Agricultural college, declares that with the use of a combined harvester-thresher, tractor and other labor saving equipment, a Kansas wheat farm today needs to harvest 1,040 acres of small grain each year to return about $5,000 to the owner. A combine harvests about 45 acres a day. In addition, Mr. Grimes says, this farm should also support 50 cows, 7 hogs, 100 chickens, and 10 horses.

COL. ZACK T. MILLER, 101 RANCH OWNER, IS GRANTED DIVORCE

COL. ZACH T. MILLER.

Harrisonburg, La., March 17.—(AP)—Col. Zack T. Miller, famous showman and owner of the 101 ranch at Ponca City, Okla., has been granted an oral decree of divorce in the District court here.

The divorce action was brought by Col. Miller and was sustained when counsel for the defendant, Mrs. Margaret Miller, stated in court that they were not prepared to proceed with the case. The court then announced judgmeent for Miller.

Col. Miller alleged infidelity in his petition.

Mrs. Miller's attorney entered a general denial of the infidelity charge in her answer to the suit.

STATE BOARD ORDERS OPENING OF 103D STREET

$932,000 Viaduct to Cross Nickel Plate Tracks.

The first step in the contemplated $1,000,000 Lake Calumet district improvement program was made yesterday when the Illinois commerce commission handed down an order for the opening of East 103d street and its extension by a viaduct over the tracks of the Nickel Plate and the Chicago and Western Indiana railroads. Cost of the structure, estimated at $932,165, is to be apportioned between the railroads and the city.

Of the total cost the city will pay 39.4 per cent and the railroads 60.6 per cent, these figures not including pavement on the viaduct which the city will pay. The pavement brings the city's share to 43.8 per cent of the total cost. The allociation is: City, $409,047; Nickel Plate railroad, $394,018; Chicago and Western Indiana railroad, $64,500, and the Belt Railway company, $64,500.

Opening of the street through construction of the viaduct follows numerous hearings before the commerce commission on the petition filed by the city. The improvement involves removal of the railroad yards near Stony Island avenue to a point east of Lake Calumet and closing of an unimproved portion of 110th street by the city. This improvement opens the way for the opening of 87th, 95th, and other streets north of 103d street by the use of subways.

Starting of construction now hinges on the passage by the city council of an ordinance providing for the vacating of portions of 110th street west from the Nickel Plate tracks to a point near Lake Calumet. In addition settlement is to be made between the city and the railroads as to legal rights in 103d street. The commission's order provides that all litigants shall, within 60 days, notify the commission whether the terms of the order are accepted and will be obeyed.

MOVIE COWBOYS FLEE IN TERROR AS TEAM OF PONIES RUN AWAY

Hollywood, Cal., March 17.—[Special.]—Hollywood motion picture cowboys, the kind who line the streets wearing chaps, spurs, and ten gallon hots, fled in terror today when a real runaway team of ponies dragging a careening buckboard behind them galloped toward a busy intersection.

A scared dog, tied to the buckboard with a rope, panted and yelped in the rear of the clattering vehicle, frightening the two ponies. The buckboard overturned just before reaching the intersection and its driver, a 78 year old farmer, was thrown out and injured.

Pedestrians stopped the ponies. The movie cowboys had all fled.

PUSH BILLS FOR STATE BUILDING ROADS IN CITIES

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., March 17.—[Special.]—Two administration road bills to give to the state the right to construct highways in cities, towns and villages were reported out of the house roads and bridges committee this afternoon with a recommendation that they pass.

Both bills were introduced by Representative David Hunter [Rep., Rockford], chairman of the committee, and have been the storm center in two or three hearings. They represent the administration's answer to a bill which would split the 3 cent gas tax three ways, giving the cities 1 cent with which to build their own roads.

No fireworks attended the vote upon the bills this afternoon and little counter debate. The Illinois Municipal league, sponsor of the 1-1-1 proposal, had representatives at previous meetings but the vote today was almost unanimous. By the measures the state can build roads in municipalities and maintain them, using a portion of the gas tax collections for that purpose.

The state now receives 2 cents of the tax and the counties 1 cent. A hot fight is expected on the floor of the house, some Cook county members favoring the plan of deciding upon their own roads and building them to suit themselves.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

Charles Collins' News and Reviews of the Theater

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 18, 1931.  19

[Today's Serial Fiction on Page 22.]

WITH about twenty books being given to the public today—with this as their official birthday—it is no easy task to select the one whose name is most likely to be of moment either today or in that dim mirage of future greatness.

H. M. TOMLINSON.

That's a misleading lure, indeed, that picture of the future glowing with the books of today. It may happen, twice in three hundred and sixty-five days—oftener it is only once—that some book like some person is born into the world to fill its allotted place in history—or to make it. Mostly books are casual and amusing, or unpleasant, or merely indifferent companions with which to pass the allotted hour until there are no tomorrows or no yesterdays for us.

Of the twenty-odd which today offers us many readers will be interested most in "Out of Soundings," by H. M. Tomlinson. That will be because Mr. Tomlinson has become, increasingly since the publication of his first book, a commanding figure in English literature. There is a gentleness and a solace in what he writes. No matter how passionate or exciting the subject matter, the manner of presentation has a quietness that is a delight in a world that otherwise has all of the calm and comfort of a galumphing horse on a merry-go-round.

"Out of Soundings" is a group of essays, comparable (in manner) to "Old Junk" and "Waiting for Daylight" and "Tidemarks." In matter it is different from Mr. Tomlinson's incomparable pictures of far places, for it chronicles little of the wild spots of the earth, devotes itself often to books and the thoughts which they engender.

Myself, I find a greater joy in Mr. Tomlinson's adventures among the uninhabited islands of the Malay Archipelago than I do in his adventures among books that other people have written. To me he is greater as a creator of a mood, an atmosphere, than as a critic of life. He has a vast serenity of spirit which his contact with wide seas and far, untrammeled places has created in him. He is, therefore, per se, a philosopher. But it is when his serenity is turned upon the places which gave it birth rather than when it is turned upon man and his relation to his machine-made world that I find him the superb chronicler.

"Out of Soundings" is concerned with man, rarely with places. And yet so far it is less impressive than "Old Junk," for instance, or "The Sea and the Jungle." The essays are beautifully written, but they lack a certain compelling inner beauty.

One of them, "A Footnote to War Books," which is a very good analysis of war literature—with especial mention of a few of the books which the author feels are outstandingly important pictures of the world war—reminded me of a visit which Mr. Tomlinson made to this country in 1927 and of a article he wrote for the book page of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE on Feb. 11, 1928. He arrived, half hiding behind a pipe and a timid knock on the door of my office. He was shy (I have found a great many of the nicest people ARE shy). He was just enough deaf to shut out the roar of chatter. He gave me the feeling that in many cases a partial deafness could be a blessing, could give its victim a serenity of spirit. Any conversation that really interested him made him, as well as you, forget any barrier between you.

I realized that intensely while we were having tea. A friend of mine, a soldier who like the hero of C. E. Montague's "Disenchanted," saw war without its enchantment, happened to drop in. Instanter there was a union of spirit between those two men. They talked for two hours. I might have been a figure painted on a backdrop. The war was a living thing to them. Books about it were judged by reality, not, as I who had not seen the war was forced to judge them, by their emotional or literary effect. Mr. Tomlinson had long been considering doing a book about the war. He said he felt he MUST write such a book, but he didn't know when he could ever do it.

I always have felt that afternoon's intense discussion helped clarify his intentions, for in January of 1930 "All Our Yesterdays" appeared. The last half of that novel is one of the superb literary records of the war.

The first essay in "Out of Soundings" is a reprint of "A Brown Owl" which was published separately a few years ago in a special limited, autographed, de luxe edition.

Mr. Tomlinson's son, Charles, now settled in New York as a partner of young Walter Crysler in Cheshire House, which will publish de luxe editions, has made the illustrations for "Out of Soundings."

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning!

The movie fan who was not so lucky as to see him behind the footlights—or in the silent version of the play made some years ago—as Hajj, the beggar of Bagdad, shouldn't miss the opportunity of looking at and listening to him in the talking version of "Kismet."

Though it is nineteen years since the veteran star first appeared in the play by Edward Knoblock, his infinite variety has not staled. He still is—with a relish!—the imperious, rascally, fiendishly ingenious fellow whose blarneying devotion to Allah is rewarded in a manner that indicates the divinity as not averse to being in cahoots with the most original worshiper.

The story's action occurs in Bagdad and all in the cycle of twenty-four hours. During this time the beggar sheds his rags for royal raiment; becomes involved in a monstrous intrigue that sweeps him into the caliph's castle; slays two of his enemies with glee and gusto; is sentenced to death and has his sentence reduced to banishment; sees his beloved daughter wed to none less than the caliph himself—and ends up on the steps of the mosque from where his adventures had started.

"Kismet," the talker, is a gorgeously accoutered affair. It boasts an able supporting cast and plenty of delectable harem beauties. I won't say it would be so much without Mr. Skinner, but, you see, it HAS Mr. Skinner!

"Ah, charming!" exclaims the visitor as his host draws back a sheet revealing a recently warm cadaver. "The late Mr. Mullins, I presume?"

"It is!" is the proud reply of the ministerial appearing companion, "And as Mr. Mullins is now, so become all deserters of 'The Lambs'!"

I can tell you, without letting you too much into secrets, that "The Lambs" are a London gang of diamond thieves. The "Lion"? Ah, my dears, the MILDEST appearing young man—and a lord! Through a lady's error—and desire—he finds himself among the "Lambs"—and supposedly one of them, with results the picture shall show you.

This movie has a little bit of everything, blended with considerable expertness by a director with comedy sense. While in no way remarkable, it is a pleasingly merry and exciting program melodrama.

See you tomorrow.

Judge Mary Bartelme Will Preside Today at Welfare Convention

Judge Mary Bartelme of the Juvenile court will preside at a luncheon of the midwestern regional conference of the Child Welfare League of America here on Saturday. The conference will be held both Friday and Saturday at the Hotel Knickerbocker. The league is a federation of 140 child caring agencies in thirty-six states and four provinces of Canada.

At the opening session presided over by Harry Hill, chief probation officer of the Juvenile court, Henry P. Chandler, chairman of the governor's committee on child welfare legislation, will report on the findings and recommendations of the committee, and the proposed bills which have been introduced in the legislature of benefit to children. That afternoon C. C. Carstens, New York City, executive director of the league who headed the section on the handicapped child in President Hoover's White House conference, will speak.

ANCIENT BLACKSMITH TOOLS ARE FOUND BY NORMAN SCIENTIST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROUEN, March 17.—A complete set of tools used by some prehistoric blacksmith has just been dug up at the "neolithic station" of Fort Harrounard, in Normandy.

The discoverer, the Rev. Father André Phillipe, archeologist of the Norman Society of Prehistoric Studies, has been excavating there for 10 years. During that time he has discovered 468 relics of the bronze age, 139 of the stone age, and eight belonging to a more recent epoch, that of the Gauls.

That this prehistoric blacksmith was well equipped to practice his trade is revealed by the number and quality of the instruments found, which include hammers, files, and other implements much like those used by the modern smith.

Friends Giving New Millions for the U. of C.

President Robert Maynard Hutchins of the University of Chicago yesterday announced that gifts and pledges to the university made during last fall and winter total more than $2,000,000. He spoke at the 163d convocation of the university. He conferred degrees on 321 students.

John D. Rockefeller Jr. has pledged whatever sum is necessary up to $2,215,000 toward the construction and furnishings of International house, now being erected on the Midway at Dorchester avenue, as a home and club center for the city's foreign students.

An appropriation of $96,700 for expenses incurred in connection with the university's reorganization and another appropriation of $25,000 for the completion of the university survey now in progress were made by the general education board of New York, a Rockefeller institution.

For purposes as yet undesignated, $25,000 was received from Mr. Edward F. Swift and $10,000 was given by Mrs. J. M. Hopkins. A large benefaction was also made by Mr. Charles H. Swift. From Mrs. Minna Schmidt and from Mr. Clarence W. Sills were received gifts of $5,000 each, respectively, for the department of home economics and for the university's radio programs.

Funds for scholarships and fellowships to be given were as follows: $10,000 from Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Logan to be added to their existing fund; $3,000 from the Dearborn Seminary Alumnae association to be added to the Grover Memorial fund; $3,000 from the Carnegie corporation for library fellowships; $3,000 from Miss Esther Zumdahl, $1,500 from the Edward Hazen Foundation for divinity scholarships, $1,000 from the Chicago joint board of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America for the Sydney Hillman fellowship in economics and industrial relations, and $1,000 from the Esoteric Alumnae association for the Davida Eaton scholarships.

Gifts of $15,000 from the Carnegie corporation for mental research, $15,000 from the William Wrigley company for medical research, and $7,600 from the Payne fund for research in psychology.

Approximately three-fifths of the total number of degrees conferred were for graduate work. The degrees were as follows: Bachelor of philosophy, arts or science, 138; bachelor of laws, 1; master of arts or science, 40; doctor of laws, 13; doctor of jurisprudence, 1; doctor of philosophy, 22; doctor of medicine in the Rush Medical college, 28; doctor of medicine in the Ogden School of Science, 1; four year certificates in the Rush Medical college, 61, and one year certificate in the Ogden School of Science, 1.

THE STAGE

EASTER week will add five new plays to the Chicago theatrical catalogue. Two of them are recent entries—Oh, Promise Me" for the Selwyn and "Apron Strings" for the Playhouse. Because of the congestion of premières these openings may be calendered for the Saturday before Easter, but decisions on this point are being deferred. In the meantime first nighters should begin to groom themselves for a spirited opening of the spring season.

"Oh, Promise Me" is a farce by Howard Lindsay and Bertrand Robinson which has met with favor on Broadway. It will have eighteen weeks in New York to its credit when its run there ends on March 28. Its cast includes Edward H. Robins, Miss Sydney Shields, Donald Meek, Frazier Coulter, Matthew Crowley, and various others. Its theme is the breach of promise "racket."

"Apron Strings" is a domestic comedy that sounds as if it ought to be a likely successor to "Jonesy" at the Playhouse. Its cast is headed by the veteran comedian Jefferson De Angelis, who is now having a pleasant afterglow of popularity. Others in the roster are Maidel Turner, Frank Monroe, and a certain Dainty Mae.

If you heard any ominous rumblings beyond the eastern horizon yesterday it was the reverberation of a general "panning" given to the Theater Guild's latest production, "Miracle at Verdun," by the New York dramatic critics. But Al Jolson's return to the stage in the musical show called "The Wonder Bar," a Broadway event of last night, appears to be have been received with a chorus of cheers.

"Elizabeth the Queen," by Maxwell Anderson, will begin the Theater Guild's spring season at the Illinois theater Monday evening, April 6. The principal rôles will be acted by Lynne Fontanne, Alfred Lunt, Morris Carnovsky, Percy Waram, Arthur Hughes, Edward Fielding, Whitford Kane, Dorothy Patten and others. Queen Elizabeth appears to be having an international vogue as a stage heroine this season. Clemence Dane has written a play about her for England, H. R. Lenormand has done likewise for France; and Reinhardt has found a manuscript that he thinks the Germans will appreciate.

Sheridan Gibney, author of "When Father Smiles," to be staged at the Cort theater next Sunday night with De Wolf Hopper in the leading rôle, is, for the moment, Jed Harris' favorite playwright. A comedy of his invention called "The Wiser They Are" is listed among the Easter Monday premières for New York, under Mr. Harris' auspices. The cast includes Ruth Gordon, Osgood Perkins, G. Albert Smith, Julia Hoyt, Charlotte Wynters, Geoffrey Bryant, Edouardo Ciannelli, and Ben Lackland.

George Nash, a star of other days and a fine character actor, will have Lionel Barrymore's old rôle in the impending revival in New York of Du Maurier's "Peter Ibbetson." Dennis King, of the operettas, will represent the tradition of John Barrymore.

Detroit Woman's Plans to Repeat Washington Home on French Site

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, March 17.—[Special.]—Charles H. Burke, assistant high commissioner from America, arrived today on the Leviathan to supervise the completion of the American exhibit and buildings at the French Colonial exposition which will be opened at Vincennes next May.

The American building, which is a reproduction of Washington's home at Mount Vernon, has been finished as far as the exterior is concerned. Burke will direct the preparation of the interior. He was accompanied by Miss Frances Wolfe, interior decorator from Detroit. She has spent some time at Mount Vernon making notes, sketches and diagrams so the place here will be decorated inside precisely as it is at Mount Vernon.

Replicas of the furnishings have been made and the greatest care has been taken to make the display faithful.

Miss Edith Levy, secretary to the American commissioner, also was in the party arriving today.

American Academy, Rome, Announces Its Scholarships

New York, March 17.—(AP)—Award of fellowships in classical studies at the American academy in Rome was announced today to Frank E. Brown of Carlton college, now a graduate student at Yale; Alfred Gelstharp Jr. of Amherst and Princeton, and Agnes Kirsopp Lake, candidate for a master of arts degree at Bryn Mawr. The fellowships carry a stipend of $1,750 a year for a term of two years. The award was made by a jury of nine professors headed by Prof. John C. Rolfe of the University of Pennsylvania.

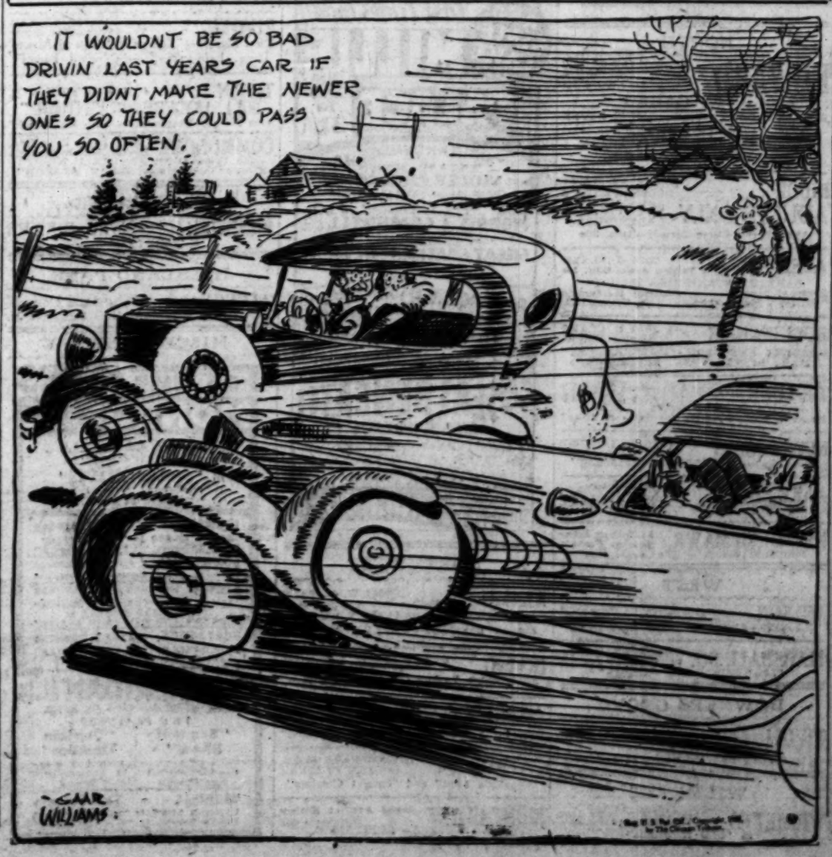
English Girl Is Chosen Queen Shenandoah VIII.

Winchester, Va., March 17.—(AP)—Miss Patricia D. Morton of Winchester, England, will reign as Queen Shenandoah VIII. at the annual apple blossom festival of the Shenandoah valley here this spring.

Selection of the English girl to rule over the picturesque pageant was announced today by Nelson F. Richards, festival director, who said the fete probably would be held about the first of May.

WHOTTA LIFE! WHOTTA LIFE!



Hutchins Calls Erin Cradle of British Culture

He's Speaker at St. Patrick Celebration.

Ireland was pictured as the cradle of culture of the Anglo-Saxon world by Robert Maynard Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, in an address last night at the thirtieth annual banquet of the Irish Fellowship club of Chicago that was one of the numerous celebrations which yesterday portrayed the city's observance of St. Patrick's day.

Dr. Hutchins traced the history of the development of literature and art. He asserted that Ireland not only had saved culture and Christianity for the western world, but also civilization itself.

"The early scholars of the European continent, imbued with the learning of ancient Greece and Rome, as they scattered across Europe, were driven out by the barbarian hordes. Many of them sought shelter and safety in the peace and quiet of the Irish isle. They established schools and monastaries and attracted other scholars from the other empire. The birth of English literature is traced directly to the influence of the old Irish monks. They entered England after the English church fell into decay, restored religion and taught the Saxons how to write. The earliest English manuscripts were written in the script of these old Irish monks.

Senator James Hamilton Lewis, who also was to have addressed the Fellowship club, sent his regrets and best wishes. His message explained he was detained in Washington by official business.

Michael L. Igoe, minority leader in the state house of representatives and president of the Fellowship club, presided. Former Gov. Edward F. Dunne spoke briefly. Other public figures present were Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court; Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court; State Treasurer Edward J. Barrett, Sheriff William E. Meyering, Michael J. Faherty, Howard Savage, Joseph P. Savage, and Robert E. Crowe.

Other Irish groups gathered in various parts of the city to commemorate the day of their patron saint, several thousand attending the annual ball of the Ancient Order of Hibernians at the Ashland Boulevard auditorium. The twelfth annual dance of the Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic attracted other crowds to the 131st Infantry armory.

In speaking before the Chicago Rotary club at noon yesterday Chief Justice McGoorty suggested that Chicago might well invoke the spirit of the Irish saint which rid Ireland of the snakes and likewise rid Chicago of its crime and lawlessness.

Irish Soldiers in Green Parade for Patron Saint.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, March 17.—Fourteen years ago today—in 1917—I watched the St. Patrick's day military parade in Dublin. A handful of British troops clad in British khaki marched through the almost deserted streets. Little groups of spectators with whom I mixed spat and cursed as the foreign soldiers marched by, and the troops looked sullen and unfriendly.

It was the year after the Easter week of 1916 when the first uprising for Irish freedom occurred, and Dublin's citizens felt much as the Germans must have felt when their cities were occupied by the allies after the great war.

Today I stood in the reviewing stand and as guest of the Irish government watched the Irish troops, clad in Irish green, march through close packed crowds of cheering Dubliners, saluting Desmond Fitzgerald, Irish minister of finance, who 14 years ago was a prisoner in an English jail.

Overhead soared Irish airplanes, and in front of the stand floated the orange, white and green tri-color of the Irish Free State. In the parade today were the troops of the Dublin area, about 2,000 of all arms. For smartness, soldierly bearing and physique they are equal if not superior to any troops in the world. In fact, I am told that their physical standards are higher than any other army, and after watching today's parade there seems to be no reason to doubt it.

First came the cavalry, beautifully mounted, riding in perfect formation. Then battalion after battalion of infantry, followed by the officers' training corps made up of students of the national university and Trinity college who, although they were only organized a year ago, marched like veterans. After them came guns, tanks, and armored cars, all polished and painted, while interspersed in the procession were military bands which, under the training of a famous German bandmaster, claim to have all there is to have in military music.

The parade was preceded by an open air military mass celebrated by the archbishop of Dublin at Collins barracks, and thereafter the troops marched through the city.

Under the Free State laws, Ireland is dry on St. Patrick's day.

It's 155 Years Since British Troops Gave Up Boston

Boston, Mass., March 17.—(AP)—Boston, celebrating today the 155th anniversary of its evacuation by the British in the revolution, paid belated tribute to a famous native son, Gen. Henry Knox.

"Maj. Gen. Henry Knox, born in Boston July 25, 1750; chief of artillery, continental army; founder of Military academy at West Point; first secretary of war, 1789; commanded the expedition which brought greatly needed cannon from Ticonderoga, thereby compelling the British to evacuate Boston, March 17, 1776. This memorial tablet placed by the city of Boston, March 17, 1931. The James Michael Curley, mayor."

Philandering Wife Perhaps Needs a Little Work to Do

BY DORIS BLAKE.

A friend was talking about a group of which she happens to be a part. She, the friend, is different, though, because she finds her own legal mate sufficient to all her needs. But the others are matrons in the early thirties or thereabout, whose public attitude toward their mates is one of impatient boredom and toward other men, one of hopeful adventure.

These women are comfortably enough circumstanced, thanks to the husbands that bore them, so that their work at home is completely relieved of irksome duties. They have nurses for their children and maids for the general work.

It's a poor dance evening showing that doesn't bring down to these matrons one male scalp. The scalp may be one of the other women's husbands. Or it may be a gentleman on the loose, so to speak, a bachelor or a divorced man. More often the pickings among the unattached are limited and so it is some other woman's mate who is looked to to suply adventure. All friends, you understand. Just a jolly little circle. Which perhaps it is, except for a couple of mouthy little scandals that have already cropped up, and a few more in the making.

Now, nobody expects the matron on pleasure bent to stick to her husband's side during an entire evening. Neither does one expect her publicly to parade an intense wifely devotion to him. But, on the other hand, it's no feather in a wife's cap, either, to act as if she only tolerated this boring creature she brought along with her. It's not good vamp art. And after all, one good bird in the hand, though boring, is worth the proverbial ten just hovering around—and also looking for excitement.

But that wasn't what friend and I discussed about the situation. It was of the stored up energy for flirtation and adventure these women have. With very little outlet for it in their home duties, what with servants disposing of that satisfacorily enough, and plenty of time on hand for personal decoration, including the waves, facials, and manicures, we just wondered, my friend and I, if what women need to curb their thirst for adventure, isn't a little more actual physical work to do. And if, with a bit more work and responsibility, they wouldn't be able to give a little more appreciation, public as well as private, to the man they are married to. It's just a thought. Maybe an old fashioned idea. BUT——

BEAUTY ANSWERS

V. M.: DEVELOPMENT OF THE bust is accomplished by exercises which require movements of the arms and shoulders. You may continue the massage but the exercises are essential. If you wish such exercises send along a stamped, addressed envelope.

C. K.: IT WOULD BE NECESSARY to use a dye to change the color of your hair to black. Once you start to use the dye you must have it applied regularly. I would not advise such a change.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Future Too Uncertain.

"Dear Miss Blake: Is it right for a girl of 19 to wait for a boy of the same age who is only beginning his college career? EXETER."

The future is too uncertain for any girl to give up all other chances, under such conditions.

Toothbrush Has Life History of Forty-six Years

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

I was surprised to read somewhere, recently, that the American manufactured toothbrush made its debut in 1885. I had an idea that teeth brushing, as a good old American industry, dated much farther back than that. Also, I read that the original makes of brushes for the teeth were made with little or no consideration for the size and shape of the mouth. The important point was not comfort as we have it in brushes today.

Neither did the earlier brushes have the resiliency those of today have, nor the well spaced bristle tufts. BUT, what was even more surprising to read was that the percentage of people in this country today who brush their teeth is between twenty-five and forty per cent.

One thing sure, though, is that no mean percentage like a twenty-five or forty will be registered against the nation in ten years from today, maybe five, maybe less. For the toothbrush propaganda of the current moment is too active to let many citizens escape. Certainly this is true as applied to the younger citizens. Brushing their teeth is just as much a duty as washing their hands and faces. And in this one feature alone the future young Miss Americas will meet many, many beauty rivals.

When teaching the young it is just as well to teach them that the possession of two toothbrushes is better than one, that the life of a toothbrush is about three months, and that the two brushes should be used alternately, one being given a chance at complete sterilization and drying while the other is in progress.

The oldsters, of course, will imbibe this for themselves as they train the young. Another thing that is being preached, but which could have a wider audience, is the necessity of brushing the gums as well as the teeth. That way lies an excellent precaution against difficulties such as pyorrhea and gum base infections, into which gums fall when circulation is not stirred up in the tissue.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

CHILD'S DRESS.

This small frock is easily made and easily laundered—surely two good points. The pin tucks at the front and back of the dress provide ample fullness to the hem of this one piece frock. Patch pockets will be certain to please, and are decorative as well as useful. Bloomers accompany this frock. Cotton broadcloth, wool challis, gingham and pique are sturdy fabrics to select from.

The pattern, 2780, comes in sizes 2, 4 and 6 years. Size 4 requires 2¾ yards of 35 inch material with ¼ yard of 32 inch contrasting.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Scarf Included a Stranger.

Recently as I was leaving the theater the lobby was packed. I, as usual, took a corner of my neck scarf in each hand and flung it in a loop over my head. It also passed over a young girl's head and about her shoulders—a sort of "two in one" outfit. One look from her boy friend amid the giggles of the crowd and I made tracks! And how! L. D.

Doctor's THREE RULES
Big Help to Bowels

WHAT a joy to have the bowels move like clockwork, every day! It's easy, if you mind these simple rules of a famous old doctor:

1. Drink a big tumblerful of water before breakfast, and several times a day.
2. Get plenty of outdoor exercise without unduly fatiguing yourself.
3. Try for a bowel movement at exactly the same hour daily.

Everyone's bowels need help at times, but the thing to use is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. You'll get a thorough cleaning-out, and it won't leave your insides weak and watery. This family doctor's prescription is just fresh laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other mild ingredients that could not hurt even a child. But how it wakes up those lazy bowels! How good you feel with your system rid of all that poisonous waste matter.

Clean up that coated tongue, sweeten that bad breath, and get rid of those bilious headaches. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will soon free the bowels from waste. You'll eat better and sleep better, and feel better all over. Generous bottles at all druggists.

Society News Situation Calm; Travel Is Rule

BY THALIA

FAR be it from us to admit that things are dull and news is hard to find . . . BUT! Well, maybe things are a little stationary at the present.

Some of the travelers are back and the return tide is just about to set in for the spring weeks. Mr. and Mrs. William E. Clow Jr. are just back from Phoenix and a visit of several weeks with their daughter, Francise, who is studying at Tucson.

They will be at home now until May, when Miss Francise comes home because it gets too hot down there for school to keep, and then she and Mrs. Clow may go east.

Mrs. Frederic McLaughlin, who has been visiting at Palm Beach for the past weeks, is expected to return on Friday or Saturday.

Alicia Patterson and Libby Chase in Cambodia.

Messages from Elizabeth Chase and Alicia Patterson have, perforce, been few, brief, and far between during the months of their adventurous travels, but they'll soon be home to tell exciting first-hand stories of the experiences they've had, that could only be briefly recounted in cables.

They're now in Cambodia, which is under French control. They plan to go through China and sail from Yokohama to land in San Francisco about May 1.

The date for Janet Chase's wedding to Frederick Hauck is not being set until Libby's arrival here in time for the ceremony is assured, but it's to be early in May. Miss Patterson's younger sister, Josephine, is arriving next Monday to spend her spring holiday with her mother, Mrs. J. M. Patterson.

The Junior league has its troubles! Every once in a while it hears of individuals or organizations who use the name of the league to enhance the claims of their particular projects. Margaret Sinclair, the executive secretary, writes: "We have a great deal of difficulty with girls who use our name in other charities than those in which we are interested . . . the fact that the name cannot be used without our permission is a very important one."

Judith D. Miller Wins Fame in Art Theater.

Did you know—that Judith Drew Miller, daughter of the John S. Millers, is distinguishing herself among the students at the Chicago Art theater as a comedienne, and is to make her stage debut on Friday, playing a part in "Suppressed Desires," and later will appear in "The Cherry Orchard" . . . that Alice Gerstenberg is to present two of her one-acts, "Their Husbands" and "Ever Young," at the meeting and luncheon of the Friends of American Writers next Wednesday at Field's, and that Helen Walton is to be an honored guest?

Occupants of places at the speaker's table for the dinner the Association of Arts and Industries is to give tomorrow evening at the Blackstone for Richard J. Neutra will be Col. William Nelson Peloure, the president; Howard Cheney, Judge Michael F. Girten, who is the Austrian consul general; Dr. Hugo Simon [German consul general], Theodore R. Gerlach, H. J. Lucas, Alfonso Iannelli, and Henry K. Holsman.

Mrs. James W. Morrison, who attended the Institute of Pacific Relations in Japan a year ago last fall, is to speak on "Japanese Impressions" next Monday in the rooms of the Japan America society at the Palmer house.

Some Departures, Arrivals, Including New N. U. Student.

Noting—that Dr. and Mrs. Robert Metz have gone to Washington, D. C., from Lenox, Mass., where they have been since leaving Chicago in January . . . the departure this evening of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Corley of the Belden-Stratford hotel for a month in Palm Beach . . . the arrival of Mrs. John Gray Seiler, the former Helen Shimmin, from Louisville, for a visit with her mother, Mrs. Robert P. Shimmin of 1320 North State street . . . the announcement by Dean and Mrs. James Armstrong of Evanston of the birth of a son, Donald Leigh, who should turn out to be a great student because his dad is dean of men at Northwestern and his mother was a Phi Beta and one of the three students in the history of Northwestern who maintained a straight "A" average throughout her college course.

There were about 600 at the spring meeting and style show held by the Junior Friends of Art at the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel yesterday afternoon. A musical program was followed by the fashion parade and a tea.

The manequins and their costumes included Miss Emily Pope in a green sports ensemble, carrying one of the new plaid purses; Suzanne Bradley in a henna sports suit with brown hat and accessories; Ann Small in a brown and beige afternoon dress, and also a bridesmaid's costume of beige and brown; Lura Schreiner in a formal gown of beige lace; Frances Wood in dinner pajamas of printed chiffon; Sarah Wood in a travel outfit of black on white; Frances Weary in a white and coral evening frock; Virginia Woodland in a black crêpe afternoon dress with daisy embroidery; Betty Lixon in a printed chiffon evening dress; Helen Powell in a black and white street ensemble, and Frances Bosworth in a black and white suit.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, March 17.—Mr. and Mrs. Walter Damrosch gave a dinner party last night and had as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Thomas K. Finletter and Mr. and Mrs. David Mannes.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. House have returned from California, where they spent two months.

Mr. and Mrs. John Vernon Bouvier returned from Havana today.

Dr. and Mrs. Otto Klep returned on the Veendam from a cruise to Bermuda.

Mrs. Harry Hempstead of 375 Park avenue entertained at a luncheon today at the Park Lane.

[Lorey Photo.]

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Weber of Clarion, Ia., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Isabel, to Robert Henry Ford Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Ford of 9136 Damen avenue, Chicago. Miss Weber is a senior at Wellesley college and a member of Tau Zeta Epsilon. Mr. Ford attended Norwich university at Northfield, Vt.

There's Variety in Art Work at Arts Club

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

THERE is at the Arts club this week and next a confusion of exhibits which is much more than tantalizing. The academic and the bizarre rub shoulders so closely that there is scarcely room for an expression of opinion to squeeze between.

Paintings by Georges Rouault and sculpture by Henri Matisse are on one side of the fence and on the other is the group of paintings by various artists ranging from the delicate feline whimsies of Foujita to the sturdily traditional historical portraiture of Sir William Beechey.

Georges Rouault apparently goes out of his way to avoid all semblance of craftsmanship. He smudges in his picture with an elaborate use of black and blue, thick, blurry edges and a composition which breaks apart at a look. Futility hangs its thin arms in a noose about the context of these dismal apparitions. They tantalize one by the mere weight of color which oppresses each and every subject. Matisse is irritating, too, with his little sculpture which is a revolt in miniature from practiced modeling. Here are figures thta are recadent, slovenly, and often unpleasant. They are out of drawing, out of line, out of proportion. They stress certain parts of the body to the neglect of others and the emphasis is overly brutal. Matisse is bitter in his assurance that woman has nothing of importance above the neck.

From these you turn with relief to the calm and definite, almost scholarly, painting of Hondecoster and Beechey. Redon, too, with his flowers and Bonnard with his "Wild Poppies" give the lie to the modernist assumption that beauty and delicacy are dead. It is clever of the Arts club to give back with one hand what they have taken with the other, or tried to take with the other, a belief in painting as painting. Such men as Rouault can not go far while Renoir and Orpen hold a setadying hand on the reins.

The Bauhaus, Dessau, German, experiment, is thinly illustrated, but sufficiently to make clear why its continuance was doomed. Heart as well as brain must go into partnership for life to blossom.

These exhibits will continue to March 28.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., March 17.—[Special.]—Mrs. E. E. Gann, sister of the Vice President, was the guest of honor at luncheon given today at the Shoreham by the Misses Howry, daughters of the late Judge Charles B. Howry of the District of Columbia bench. They have leased their home in Georgetown.

Mrs. Wilbur J. Carr, wife of the assistant secretary of state, entertained at luncheon today in honor of Mrs. Eugene Merrill of New York, who is visiting her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Merrill. Mr. Merrill is chief of the foreign service buildings bureau of the state department.

Mrs. Marshall Field, Mrs. William Fitch Kelley, and Mrs. Rushmore Patterson are among those who have taken boxes for the Metropolitan Opera season, beginning April 14, at the Fox theater here.

ENGAGEMENT

Cambridge, Mass., March 17.—(AP)—Miss Fanchia Forbes-Robertson Hale, 21 years old, Wellesley actress and grandniece of Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson, famous actor, and Stanislaus P. Franchot, 21, Harvard senior, filed marriage intentions here today. The bride-to-be was born in England, the daughter of Swinburne Hale and Beatrice Forbes-Robertson, both of prominent British families. Franchot's family were formerly of Niagara Falls, N. Y.

Lent Day by Day

REAL POWER OF PRAYER

BY THE REV. C. L. GLENN.
Rector, Christ Church, Cambridge, Mass.; Episcopal Student Pastor, Harvard University.

Text: "We know that we have the petitions which we have asked of Him."

There are too many evidences of answered prayer for us not to be convinced of it. Prayer is a thing which has received hard treatment in our day. We are partly persuaded that so-called natural law does not change and that God will not alter the laws of the universe for our sakes. Some psychologists tell us that prayer is only auto-suggestion, a form of talking to ourselves. Lastly, the sheer rush of modern life has rendered it physically difficult for most of us to find time to pray.

I believe we are getting beyond this stage of assault upon prayer in many quarters today. No one is bold enough to assert what the immutable laws of nature are. The miracles of healing, of change in character, of money raising, of simple change in the physical character of life are too many to give us any great confidence in what can or cannot be done. Prayer changes things.

The theory that explains away prayer as auto-suggestions simply won't do, if only on the grounds that it is not possible for us to believe that so many of the greatest souls in the world have been self-deluded in this fact of their lives.

Far the most serious bar to prayer is simply lack of time. We cannot understand Ghandi at the Indian congress leaving at a critical point in the debate because his time for prayer had come. Yet the great doers have been great prayers. They have made time to be with God.

PRAYER.

O, Lord, who hast taught us that in returning and rest we shall be saved, in quietness and confidence shall be our strength, grant us the will to find quiet spaces in our day for Three.

'My Golf Sir? Won't You Try Filet of Sole?"

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 17.—Do you go to formal dinner parties and wring the head waiter cordially by the hand? Do you nod politely to the man who later brings your soup. Do you inquire about his golf handicap these days in the mistaken notion that you have met him somewhere and don't want to appear rude?

Can you tell a waiter from a banker by the shade of his tie or the cut of his coat? Many people in London can't. Waiters here are very sour about it. The guests pester them. Waiters complain they can talk as well as any class of the species, even barbers. They maintain their dress is better than that of most men they serve. But there are conventions.

The guests intrude. The hauteur of the man standing with his arms folded doesn't mean social ease or elegance, necessarily. If you try to shake hands with him you'll find a towel in his hand when he unfolds them and a frigid answer, "Sir!"

It's a nuisance to the waiters and a cause of great confusion to the man whose station makes him a social, if not a political, superior.

It amounts to a matter of dress. Waiters say they wear boiled shirts every night, and therefore appear with greater sang-froid imprisoned in starch and high collars than their betters. Further, their coats are cut better, their manners more polished.

WEDDINGS

The marriage of Miss Frances Swanson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alick Swanson of 4322 North Irving avenue, to Winslow Rushell of Boston, Mass., is to take place at 3:30 o'clock on Saturday afternoon at the Ravenswood Methodist church. A reception at the Webster hotel will follow the ceremony.

West Brookfield, Mass., March 17.—(AP)—The marriage of Grace Temple Roosevelt and Baron Emanuel D'Astier de la Vigerie of Paris March 5 in Paris was announced by the bride's mother, Mrs. Chauncey L. Olmstead of this town today.

British Minister of Labor Spends Birthday at Work

LONDON, March 17.—(AP)—Margaret Bondfield, woman minister of labor in the Macdonald cabinet, celebrated her 58th birthday today by doing twelve hours of work in her office. It was just an ordinary day for Miss Bondfield. She is known as one of the hardest working members of the cabinet, and when a broken ankle enforced partial idleness upon her a year or so ago she declared that nothing in her public career had so irked her.

Hoover Made Member of De Molay Legion of Honor

Washington, D. C., March 17.—(AP)—President Hoover yesterday was invested with the De Molay Legion of Honor by Frank S. Land, founder and grand scribe of the order. The presentation was witnessed by members of the organization's grand council now meeting here.

Wisconsin Show April 17.

The Haresfoot club of the University of Wisconsin is to present its 33d annual production entitled, "It's a Gay Life," at the Eighth Street theater on April 17. Vernon S. Hamel of Oshkosh, Wis., is to play the part of the leading lady, and David Willock of Chicago plays one of the comic rôles.

DANDRUFF
A Sure Way to End It

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid Arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

Kotex really fits . . . and it offers you lasting sanitary protection

Kotex absorbs laterally, which makes it soft, not only at first, but during hours of use.

TO get the utmost from sanitary protection, it should offer you mental comfort as well as physical. Kotex does. It provides real peace of mind. It is shaped to fit inconspicuously, so that you may wear the filmiest of gowns without a thought of self-consciousness. Not only that, but Kotex absorbs scientifically.

Lateral absorption

As you probably know, Kotex absorbs by test five times more than the finest of surgical cotton, and the way it absorbs is important—"lateral absorption"—a process which makes the pad effective, not in just one area, but over the entire surface.

The long, delicate fibers of Cellucotton (not cotton) absorbent wadding, of which Kotex is made, serve to carry moisture swiftly away from one area, leaving the protective surface delicate and comfortable for hours. Its layer construction permits perfect adjustment.

Kotex may be worn on either side with equal protection. There is no chance of getting it wrongly adjusted, no possibility of embarrassment.

Because of the delicate fibers which make up its filler, and because of the scientific way in which it absorbs, Kotex is soft, not only at first, but all through use. It is treated to deodorize. And it is disposable, you know, quickly, easily. Specify Kotex when you are buying sanitary protection.

IN HOSPITALS . . .
1 The Kotex absorbent is the identical material used by surgeons in 85% of the country's leading hospitals.
2 Kotex is soft . . . . Not merely an apparent softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, lasting softness.
3 Can be worn on either side with equal comfort. No embarrassment.
4 Disposable, instantly, completely.
Regular Kotex—45c for 12

THE SIXTH JOURNEY

BY ALICE GRANT ROSMAN

SYNOPSIS.

John Falconer, a successful architect, returning home to England from Cape Town, meets Hilary Revel, author of travel books, on shipboard. During the journey home their acquaintance grows into a friendship neither wishes to end.

John tells Hilary of his daughter, Judith, born of a café singer while he was a soldier. His wife, John says, had magnanimously adopted the child. Hilary suspects such magnanimity. John's sister Gertrude became Judith's legal guardian when his wife died.

Hilary had taken her war-invalided brother Hugh away from home ten years ago to give her younger sister Christine and brother Stephen a better chance. Now that Hugh was dead, Hilary was returning home. Hilary is not met when the boat docks, and John takes her to her door. Hilary's stepfather, the only sympathetic member of her family, tells her that Hugh left her his possessions in trust, to be settled on her at her marriage or to buy her an annuity at the age of 40 if still single.

The next day after their return John takes Hilary to luncheon. He tells her he loves her and asks her to marry him and Hilary accepts.

Judith leads a lonely life in her aunt's home. She has a private teacher, Miss Mead, while her cousins are away at school. Her cousin Prue is her only friend in her aunt's house. Her father she knows as Uncle John. She senses she is different in some way from other children. When Aunt Gertrude hears of her brother's engagement she sends Judith to the country. Then she invites Hilary and John to dinner. John is uneasy about Judith not being in school. He thinks it unfair to drag Hilary continually into the question of the child, and Hilary feels that he has had enough interference in caring for Judith. John writes Gertrude for the truth. She replies that she cannot, as a decent citizen, send a waif of dubious parentage among other children.

Judith, at the farm of her former nurse Tracy's brother, is badly treated by the old servant. She has had no mail since her arrival.

INSTALLMENT XXI.

AN INTERCEPTED LETTER.

There might have been a letter. Miss Mead had promised faithfully to write and that was ten days ago. She would never forget. Had Aunt Gertrude sent her away after all? Judy stopped in dismay at this thought, but even then she would have written to tell all about it, and she had promised to ask Prue to write. That was another thing. This morning Judy had been quite sure there was a letter, she had almost seen it in the postman's hand, but when she ran downstairs it was not there. Suppose Tracy had taken it!

At this dreadful thought Judy's whole world was shaken and she saw herself cut off, alone, for her father might come home, and how could she know?

He had become very real to her during the last ten days, this father whose name was Harris, like her own, though the picture of what he would be like when he came was not very clear in her mind. The young man who had shut up his garage and gone to New Zealand seven years ago had become rather vague in her changing destinies to the little girl he had fathered kindly enough. She could remember her mother much better, but her mother had died and could not come back. Reason told Judith that fathers who haven't died don't just go away like that and never return to the children they have left behind them. She had even asked Miss Mead about this in a confidential moment, and Miss Mead had said it was unheard of as far as she knew. They might have to go away on business, or to make their fortunes, but they did come back. Judy's dreams thereafter included the fortune he had gone to make, for surely that explained everything.

The problem of her letter which perhaps Tracy was keeping was serious, however, and Judith did not knew how to meet it . . . unless she wrote to Prue. This was an inspiration, and although difficult to accomplish, she saw it must be done. She had her half crown tied in a handkerchief tucked under her vest and pinned there, beside the wrist watch Prue had given her.

The gate posts of the creamhouse bore two beasts with curling tails and proud expressions.

Tracy had been unpleasant about the watch and Judy was so much afraid it would be taken from her that always now she wore it hidden like this. It was not much use to tell her the time any more, but somehow in moments of stress it was a comfort to feel it ticking above her heart.

Judy put up her hand and felt her treasures safe. The half crown would buy paper and envelopes and a stamp to write to Prue. She would have to run to the village and buy them secretly and write her letter in the twilight after she had gone to bed. Much cheered, Judy grasped her jar of cream and walked on towards the lovely green of the wood. Every morning it was her task to deliver cream at the big house on the other side of the village fronting the road that went to London.

"At the kitchen door, mind you, with Miss Tracy's compliments, and none of your airs."

Judith did not mind going to the kitchen door. It didn't matter. When Tracy spoke like that so clearly hoping she would mind, her pride rose like a protecting shield and she felt strong. Indeed, this errand was quite the best part of her day, for she could go through the wood, which was the one beautiful thing in her new life.

Here on the rise the tall trees stood like spires in the still air, the buttercups spreading a cloth of gold at their feet. Judy could never bear to tread upon this dazzling carpet, but clasping her burden to her breast climbed along the lower rail of the fence for a dozen yards and then jumped clear. Her way lay straight ahead and as she walked the trees, like marching armies, walked beside her, the morning air just faintly stirring their banners of green.

At this hour there was no one in the woods, but it did not enter her head to be afraid. The solitude was kind to her like a friend and all her troubles melted away. Sometimes a bird sang, and once a rabbit fled before her and then sat still, ears pointed, watching her with an air of surprise. Judy laughed at him, but the sound was so small and thin—an elfin laugh—that he did not believe in it and returned to the breakfast she had interrupted.

Judith was always sorry when she saw the sky appear and knew that she must climb out of the wood, but the cream had grown heavy in her hand and it would be good to be rid of it. Then there would be all the fun of coming back.

The gate posts of the cream house bore two beasts with curling tails and proud expressions. They held their heads high and looked down noses which the years, a little unkindly, had worn away. Each held a shield before him, below which you could just read in the faded stone, "Jy reste," but this would soon remain literally true of the beasts alone, for a white "For Sale" notice hung over the wall. New owners perhaps would paint the quarterings and have the legend picked out again, no longer a proud promise of constancy but a mocking echo of a world of change.

Judith thought it meant "I rest here," and liked it, for the long drive and shrubbery seemed to promise a very perfect place to rest. She was sorry she had to turn off to the kitchen entrance before you really saw the house, and this morning, defying Tracy's orders, she walked on a little way, treading softly and ready to turn and fly at the first sound. She had just come into view of a long grey wing of the house, with a daisied lawn at its door, when she heard footsteps and ran for her life. Pausing at last behind the kindly shelter of a rhododendron bush, she waited to draw breath. The footsteps went by, there was a shout of young laughter, and a boy's voice saying, "O, mother, you are an ass."

Judy went on to the kitchen entrance with the strangest feeling she could ever remember flooding her heart, excitement, wonder, pain, as though she were glad and yet wanted to cry, "Mother, you are an ass." Things she did not know she had ever heard were in the boy's words and called wistfully to her out of the past, the happy carelessness of love and understanding in a world where people were neither angry nor afraid. Cecil would never have spoken them, nor Midge, though she was her mother's pet, but Judy liked them. They were so kind, as if the boy had said, "Mother, you are a queen."

Usually as she reached the kitchen door a maid came out calling "Cream-O!" to somebody inside. Today, however, Judith had to knock and a large voice answered, "Just you wait, whoever you are, till I look to my oven." A warm, delicious smell of spicy cakes just baked came flowing out to the little girl.

"Always behind, those girls," said the cook, appearing jovially at last, "as late at their own funerals. But never you mind, dearie, you brought the cream nice and punctual, which is something to be thankful for. Now just you wait and I'll give you a cake for your trouble."

"O no, thank you," faltered Judy shyly.

At sound of her voice the cook stared, and then seeing, since she had eyes in her head, that this was no village child, smiled with a mysterious air and said:

"Let me see now if there might be a message to take back."

She hurried away and presently reappeared with a little parcel wrapped in white paper, which she pushed into Judy's hand.

"There, I've done them up quite neat as though for a picnic, and you try them just to please me as you go through the wood. Lor', you should just see Master Clive the way he comes 'round the kitchen after my cakes."

Judith, smiling her thanks, went off happily. This was a nice house, she liked it and suddenly she knew she did feel hungry. Breakfast time at the farm was already many hours away, and it was not like breakfast at home. Tracy's thick porridge made her feel so dreadfully full inside and so very empty afterwards.

Bright Sayings of the Children

The other day I asked my wife what time it was.

Hearing this, my little boy, Miles, aged 6, shouted, "Papa, I know what time it is. The big hand's on the nine, but the little one isn't in a hurry to get there." A. H.

Ann Hoover Finds Birthday Full of Gifts

Asheville, N. C., March 17.—(AP)—Peggy Ann Hoover, the first little girl of the land, today was one of the happiest.

For the President's granddaughter it was that all-important sixth birthday and then she saw her daddy, Herbert Hoover Jr., for the first time in six months.

Accompanied by presents galore from her Washington friends, Peggy Ann arrived in Asheville this morning after an overnight trip from the White House to receive her parents' embraces and more gifts.

Although there was no formal birthday party, there was no doubt that Peggy Ann was the guest of honor for the day at Blue Briar cottage, where her father has been convalescing for the last five months from an illness.

The two children found joy in exploration of their new surroundings and romping on the cottage's huge lawn.

Their father did not meet the train, but their mother did. An automobile ready to take them to Blue Briar, was kept waiting while Peggy Ann supervised the unloading of the train's baggage car.

She had sufficient reason. Most of the baggage was presents she had received in Washington. On top of the pile of presents, heaped high in the tonneau of an automobile for removal to Blue Briar, was a box labeled "collapsible doll house."

Mrs. Hoover Sr. is expected to join her son and daughter-in-law here while the President is on his Porto Rican cruise.

Here Are Books Boys of Twelve Will Appreciate

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

A "Mothers' and Fathers' Litany" signed by Mrs. Bevans will be sent by her on receipt of a 2 cent stamp.

It seems to grow harder and harder to find time to review thoroughly the many new books for children of all ages that come pouring in from the publishers. We've taken care of the books for younger children in our booklet, "The Youngest Bookshelf." Also, I gave in this column a list for adolescent boys and girls, some weeks ago. This leaves a literary gap for the 10's, 11's, 12's.

The other day a young boy of 12 whom I know quite [!] intimately said to me, "I'll tell you some books that are swell that I've read since school began."

"All right," I said. "Wait till I get a pencil."

So, here's the list. It will probably be of more interest to boys than girls, though many girls enjoys boys' books. I did when I was a little girl.

The comments on the books that are in quotation marks were made by the aforesaid 12 year old:

"'Morgan on the Main' is a swell book about buccaneers. Good for kids that can remember it's only a story, because it has some torture and slashing in it—but not much."

"Morgan on the Main" is by C. M. Bennett and is published by Dutton. Morgan, you probably know from the recent newspaper articles, was a real person of long ago, a historical buccaneer.

"'Giles of the Mayflower' is a good story for boys about 11 or 12, or younger. It's about a pilgrim boy who helped the colonies to be friends with the Indians. He has some adventures with an Indian friend."

"Giles of the Mayflower" is one of the many Ralph Henery Barbour books published by Appleton.

Tomorrow the rest of the list will follow.

Short Coats Favored by Paris Stylists

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. — [Special.] — Spring wraps are growing shorter for all times of day. Women are growing tired of long coats, which are older and bulkier than short ones, and they will take joyfully to the brief jackets the couturiers are announcing.

Worth tells me he is going to show short jackets to accompany tailored skirts, tailored frocks, afternoon gowns and evening gowns, in his new collection.

The Renée suit, sketched today, will prove ideal for the first spring days. It's of wool crêpe in a vivid lacquer red. It has a frock and jacket instead of the regulation waist, skirt and coat.

The jacket is so short as to be almost a bolero. It's trimmed with curved tucks and has a band of beaver running all round its edge and its crêpe, tying outside the fur, is a cunning touch.

The skirt of the frock has godets in either side of the front to give it fullness. Bands of the crêpe give the effect of a hip yoke and there's an interesting pointed top panel in the back of the skirt, as you see by the small figure at the left.

The bodice is really a short slip-on bolero, trimmed with folds and incrustations of the red crêpe. The front of it appears on the small figure at the right and the back at the left.

Food Talk.

A burnt sugar cake is the same thing as a caramel cake, because burnt sugar means caramelized sugar. I have discovered, however, through our requests for recipes that some cooks consider a caramel cake to be one that is made with brown sugar or a plain cake covered with a brown sugar fudge icing. True, the brown sugar gives a caramel color, but the flavor is not the same.

The idea seems to be that the use of brown sugar saves much time and that it is too much trouble to caramelize sugar, which leads me to wonder if the old, laborious method of caramelizing sugar is still used. The old method was to put the sugar in a cold skillet, place it on the fire, and stir vigorously until the sugar acquired a brown color and became liquid. This did take long, sometimes 15 or 20 minutes, and it was a disagreeably warm job. A much easier and quicker way is first to heat the skillet hot enough to melt the sugar as it is sifted in. If the sugar goes into liquid almost instantly the skillet is hot enough. Should the skillet be too hot, the sugar will take fire and will need to be cooled a little. Shake the skillet all the time the sugar is being sifted in. By the time it is all in it should be completely caramelized. Do not continue the heating after this point or the caramel will become too brown and have a burnt taste. Add water the instant the desired color is obtained to prevent further caramelization.

As soon as water is poured on caramel it becomes hard and candy-like. To dissolve the caramel many cooks boil this mixture at a rapid rate and by the time the caramel is melted the sirup is too thick for the purpose for which it is intended. A better way is to heat the caramel and water slowly. Then the caramel dissolves without the evaporation of much water.

We are including a caramel cake recipe today that should please the old fashioned cook. Soda is the principal leavening agent, and it is made with real caramelized sugar. It is a cake that is not too sweet, yet it has a distinctly caramel flavor. The texture is fine and moist.

CARAMEL CAKE.

½ cup cold water.
¾ cup fat, half butter.
2 eggs.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
1 cup sweet milk.
2½ cups cake flour, sifted before measuring.
1 teaspoon baking powder.
1 scant teaspoon soda.

Caramelize ¾ cup sugar in a steel spider to a delicate brown, add water, shake well until all sugar is dissolved and set aside to cool. Cream the shortening and sugar thoroughly, add the egg yolks, that have been beaten until thick and lemon colored; add the milk and mix the flour, sifted three times with baking powder and soda. Then add caramelized sugar liquid, which should measure ⅔ cup, and lastly the beaten egg whites and flavoring. Bake in layers in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 30 minutes. Cool. Cover with caramel icing.

CARAMEL ICING.

1½ cups sugar.
4 tablespoons butter.

Caramelize the sugar. Add the shortening and sweet milk and boil to the soft ball stage (237 degrees F.), stirring occasionally. Cool, then beat until sufficiently thick to spread on cake.

Meta Given will answer in this department questions that are of general interest from readers. Personal replies will be made by mail where a stamped self-addressed envelope is inclosed.

More Opera Singers Return Today After Post-Season Touring

Two special trains of Chicago Civic opera singers will return to Chicago today after a tour of America. They were preceded by a vanguard of a carload opera singers who arrived yesterday on the North Coast Limited.

Among them was Alexander Kipnis, who yesterday obtained his final naturalization papers and expressed his delight at becoming an American.

"Now that I am an American citizen, I am going back to visit my native Russia," he said. "Next summer I intend to make a trip to visit a brother and two sisters there. I was afraid to go before I was an American citizen. I might have been detained."

Kipnis and Frida Leider, who also arrived yesterday, will leave for South America this week to sing opera until next October, when they will return to Chicago. Ada Salvi, Spanish coloratura, Maria Olszewska, and a dozen other singers were in the party arriving yesterday.

✣ Another Sick Headache! ✣ Poisons from Here are Usually the Cause ✣ Add Yeast to Your Diet ✣

HOW WRETCHED headaches make you feel! Why not act to correct their cause? It is really very simple.

RIGHT HERE—in intestines become sluggish and clogged through neglect—is where poisons form that cause most headaches, physicians say. You must keep this vital region active, healthy and clean.

© 1931, Standard Brands Incorporated

"Here's where those HEADACHES come from!"

THAT dull throbbing . . . throbbing! . . . You'd give worlds not to have those awful sick headaches, wouldn't you? Then why not strike at the underlying trouble that doctors say usually causes them?

For headaches, you know, are invariably a sign of disorder somewhere else. And generally—as any physician will confirm—the trouble is simply that old, unpleasant evil to which women are particularly subject—Intestinal Fatigue!

In Intestinal Fatigue, food material that has escaped digestion accumulates and stagnates in your intestinal tract. Poisons form. Your blood is polluted. You feel the effects in bad digestion, bad breath, bad skin—in loss of appetite and pep. And—in a majority of cases—you suffer from headaches and "nerves."

Any doctor will tell you a headache is one of the first symptoms of INTESTINAL FATIGUE! Read how to overcome this trouble

Now don't make the mistake of trying to cure Intestinal Fatigue with cathartics and pills. Such measures, at best, are only temporary. At worst, they are weakening, habit-forming, crude—and often they actually aggravate your trouble.

For more than three-quarters of a century, now, medical science has known of a remarkable method for correcting internal sluggishness without the use of drugs. Leading physicians in great medical centers throughout the world endorse it. Today it is available to you!

Eaten regularly, like any other food, Fleischmann's Yeast literally "tones up" your whole digestive and intestinal tract. It softens the clogging body wastes, stimulates natural secretions and fosters the normal intestinal action that keeps your system internally clean.

Thus, depressing poisons are cleared away. The cause of most headaches, colds, etc., is removed. Appetite picks up. You tire less quickly—feel more energetic and alert!

But these rewards come only to those who act! So go to your grocer, or to a restaurant or soda fountain and get a supply of Fleischmann's Yeast. Eat it regularly, three cakes a day—before meals, or between meals and at bedtime—plain or in a third of a glass of water (hot or cold) or any way you like.

Keep it up, too! Be patient. Give yeast time. Remember, you are not taking a drug. You are eating a food for the sake of correcting a trouble that has been developing for years.

And be sure you get Fleischmann's Yeast. Every cake is rich in three indispensable vitamins that ordinary foods often lack—vitamins B, G and D. Won't you try it?

Fleischmann's Yeast is fresh yeast... the only kind that benefits you fully.

Eat 3 cakes a day!

Remember, it's important to ask your grocer for Fleischmann's fresh Yeast (with the yellow label) . . . the only yeast that contains the Sunshine Vitamin D! Every cake is "irradiated" to give it this added element so important for sun-starved indoor workers. It is rich in Vitamins B and G, too.

'HE WAS CHOKING ME AND I FIRED,' PLEA OF BEAUTY

Husband Killer Bares Her Story in Cell.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NICE, March 17.—Crumpled with grief over the tragic act which she says she committed in a moment of terror and frenzy, Mrs. Charlotte Nash Nixon-Nirdlinger, slayer of her wealthy middle aged husband, Fred Nixon-Nirdlinger of Philadelphia, today was interviewed in her jail cell here.

Dressed in simple black, the 26 year old former St. Louis beauty queen was not recognizable as the smiling, gay looking mother portrayed in pictures. Behind the iron grill she looked like a stricken child, but spoke with self-control. Her chief concern in her conversation was for her children, although she expressed delight at seeing an American after a week of solitary confinement in a prison baked by the rays of the Riviera sun.

"Shot Him to Save Myself."

"I shot my husband because he was trying to strangle me," she said, repeating her confession to the police. "That is, I reached for the pistol because he was trying to strangle me. After that I do not know what happened. It was just a terrible nightmare. I can't remember anything except staggering into the caretaker's apartment downstairs."

"Living in dread of your husband, as you say you did, how could you love your husband and go on living with him?" she was asked.

"I endured it for my children," she answered. "I could not bring myself to break up my home for their sake. My greatest sorrow is for them now, and next to that is the disgrace the tragedy has brought to my family. I can't sleep for thinking about that."

When informed that, according to cable dispatches from America, her mother was planning to come to France, Charlotte nearly broke down.

Begs to See Children.

Asked if she wanted to see her children, she replied:

"I cannot go on living unless I do. I have begged and begged my lawyers to let me see my children for only a few minutes. They have promised to try to bring my baby Charlotte here this week. She is so young she wouldn't realize that her mother is in jail."

Morgan Farrell, a Paris lawyer, held a long conference with Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger today. It is believed that at the request of her family he will assist the French lawyers attempting to secure her freedom—on bail, at least. The beauty will tell her story of the tragedy to Magistrate Vachier tomorrow. Her plea will be self-defense.

Will Get Widow's Dowry.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 17.—[Special.]—None of the 26 insurance policies, totaling $342,000, carried by Fred G. Nixon-Nirdlinger, name as beneficiary his wife, who killed him in their apartment in Nice, France, last Wednesday, it was learned today. Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger will receive at least one-third of the estate, the minimum amount to which she is entitled by law.

Mrs. Laura McKenna Nixon-Nirdlinger, the theater man's second wife, receives $70,000 outright in insurance money, an income for life from a trust fund of $100,000, and 45 per cent of the residuary estate.

DEFENSE CLOSES IN BATTLE OVER LONGLEY ESTATE

Lawyers for Claimant to Argue Today.

Attorney James G. Condon, chief counsel for Mrs. Caroline Longley in her court battle to disprove the claim of George Adair Longley that he is the son of Albert W. Longley, late hat manufacturer, yesterday completed his case before Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg. Attorneys for the claimant, who contend he should be given a share in the manufacturer's $1,000,000 estate, are expected to make their final arguments today, after which the judge will take the case under advisement.

The suit to break the will, which left the entire estate to Mrs. Longley, third wife of the manufacturer, has been on trial for eight weeks. Attorney Condon, who several weeks ago introduced the Mendelian law of heredity in an effort to prove that the brown eyed George Longley could not be the son of the manufacturer and his first wife, both of whom had blue eyes, yesterday urged the judge not to place too much weight on the theory.

Condon said he believed the scientific theory to be true, but pointed out that its application as the sole determining factor in a lawsuit was difficult. He added that its importance had probably been overemphasized and expressed regret that it had been brought into the case.

SPEED TRIAL OF U. S. COUPLE IN $35,000 SWINDLE

ROME, March 17.—(AP)—With police expecting further arrests in an alleged international swindling plot, plans were proceeding tonight for an early trial of Charles L. Spencer of Albany, N. Y., and his wife on charges of defrauding a British army colonel of $35,000 by the sale of fictitious stock.

Spencer is under arrest, but his wife, who still faces the charges, was permitted to leave the jail because of a heart ailment and return to the extensive villa overlooking Rome, where they have lived for several years. Their daughter is at school in Milan.

A third person arrested with Spencer, Leo L. Davidson, a native of Kansas City, Mo., committed suicide yesterday in his cell by making a noose of his underclothing. Police tonight had not been able to locate any relatives of his.

STATE OFFICIAL'S KIN SENTENCED FOR CONTEMPT

James Hadley, nephew of Charles W. Hadley, chairman of the Illinois commerce commission, is under a 30 day sentence for contempt of court in Wheaton, it was learned yesterday when the announcement was made that an appeal would be taken to the Second District Appellate court at Ottawa. He was charged with jury tampering in a case in the court of Circuit Judge Winn G. Knoch of Du Page county.

The case in question was that of Gertrude Natoli and Mrs. Mary Dolan, both of Villa Park, who were arrested on Dec. 18, charged with stealing a dress from a store in Wheaton. The trial was begun on March 3, and Charles McNichols of West Chicago, a juror, reported to Sheriff John Hesterman that Hadley had approached him, saying: "You'd better find those women not guilty or you'll have to move from West Chicago."

Hadley had furnished $1,500 bond for the women. He is now free on $1,000 bond.

Istanbul, Queen City of the East, Slowly "Dying"

ISTANBUL, Turkey, March 17.—(AP)—Istanbul, the queen city of the east, is dying, figures published today by the international straits commission indicate. The city's electoral committee states that the population now is 580,000, compared with 699,889 in 1927. Chiefly due to increased soviet trade, navigation through the Bosphorus and the Dardanelles increased 40 per cent in 1930, compared with 1929. Russia's naval force in the Black sea now comprises 54 units, including 21 hydroairplanes.

TREASURY ASKED FOR HALF BILLION FOR BONUS LOANS

Vets' Bureau Expects Heavy Demand.

Washington, D. C., March 17.—(AP)—Veterans Administrator Hines has called upon the treasury to provide $500,000,000 by April 11 for loans to world war veterans on their compensation certificates. This exceeded by $200,000,000 previous estimates for that period.

In making the request, Mr. Hines estimated that 75 per cent of the veterans would apply for loans totaling approximately $1,000,000,000.

Up to last Saturday 1,372,006 applications had been received and 282,874 checks issued totaling $104,035,366, an average of $367.

The request found the treasury $200,000,000 short of the amount asked by Hines. It yesterday sold $300,000,000 1½ per cent treasury certificates to raise money for the loans.

LEND $5,000,000 HERE.

A total of $5,000,000 has been paid out in bonus loan checks in the Illinois district in the last two weeks, according to William A. Weldon, chief disbursement officer of the veterans' bureau at the Hines Memorial hospital. He reported yesterday that approximately 75,000 applications have been received by the bureau so far.

Of this number, approximately 18,000 have been answered by the bureau, at the rate of 2,000 a day. Although the number of applicants is gradually decreasing, Mr. Weldon expected it will be three or four weeks before all will be sent checks.

Mr. Weldon estimated that between $20,000,000 and $25,000,000 will have been distributed among the veterans when all applications are filled.

GREECE DRAFTS STRIKING BAKERS INTO THE ARMY

ATHENS, Greece, March 17.—(AP)—When the bakers of Athens struck today they were joining the army—but they didn't know it. Those who walked out in protest against the tariff commission's reduction in the price of bread were replaced at the kneading board and oven by soldier bakers, so the city had plenty of bread.

Now the civilian bakers are to be called for military service under the mobilization law and their army duty will be performed right at their own mixing bowls and kilns.

The mobilization law permits the drafting of any branch of industry into military service to meet an emergency, and the government took advantage of its provisions today to end the strike.

Mrs. Grace Woodhull Bell Funeral Rites to Be Today

Funeral services for Mrs. Grace Woodhull Bell, sister of Ross Woodhull, sanitary district trustee, will be held at 2 p. m. today at the chapel at 8944 Commercial avenue. Burial will be at Valparaiso, Ind. Mrs. Bell, who was 61 years old and prominent in musical circles in Hammond, where she lived, died in the West Suburban hospital on Sunday. She is survived by her husband, Herbert R. Bell, and a daughter, Mrs. Donald Blanke of New York.

KILLED BY AUTO GAS.

Joseph L. Adas, 24 years old, was found asphyxiated in the garage in the rear of his home at 6019 South Fairfield avenue yesterday. The motor of his car was running. His wife died a short time ago.

JAS. H. COATES, INSURANCE MAN, KILLED BY TRAIN

James H. Coates, 55 years old, 326 Hawthorne lane, Glencoe, a retired insurance broker, was killed yesterday when he was struck by a southbound Chicago and North Western railway train at the Park avenue crossing in Glencoe. Mr. Coates retired from active business two years ago and had been in poor health during the last few months.

A note directing that a friend be notified in case of his death was found in Mr. Coates' pocket. Relatives and business associates declared the death was accidental. They said Mr. Coats had no reason for taking his own life.

Members of the firm of Clark, Gielow & Dudley, with whom Mr. Coates had been associated and who had handled his prorata on insurance premiums since his retirement, said Mr. Coates was in comfortable financial circumstances, having an ample income. Despite his ill health he had been in good spirits, they said.

POLICE FIND 180 BOMBS IN RAID ON HOME IN HAVANA

HAVANA, March 17.—(AP)—Secret service agents today raided the largest bomb factory they have discovered since their search for the perpetrators of a recent series of bombings began.

In a house in the exclusive Vedado section they found 180 powerful bombs and enough material to make 1,000 more. The owner of the house, an explosives expert, was not found.

Police said they were led to his house by information obtained from one of the bombing suspects now in custody.

Feel Like a New Person In Just a Little While

People have found out that new-fangled ideas and notions don't break up colds. So millions have turned back to first principles and use what they know breaks one up in a jiffy. Even a "little" cold is too dangerous to trifle with.

The thing to do is to get Hill's Cascara Quinine at any drug store. Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all.

Soon you'll start to feel like a new person. Things will loosen up, your head will clear; aching go—you'll be back on the job with a wallop.

Get Hill's now. It is a scientific formula made to do one thing well: to knock a cold—not to cure a thousand ailments. Get your money back if it doesn't work with twice the speed of anything else you've ever tried.

NORTH CENTRAL SEEKS PEACE WITH BIG 10 SCHOOLS

AIMS OF TWO GROUPS SAME, SAYS OFFICIAL

Puts Tourneys to High School Vote.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Rumors of a break between the Western conference and the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools were spiked yesterday by H. M. Gage, president of Coe college and chairman of the association's commission on institutions of higher education.

"I see no possibility of a breach between our organizations," Mr. Gage said during an intermission in the association's annual meeting, which is being held at the Stevens hotel. "From the very start the North Central and the Big Ten have worked hand in hand. Our aims and their aims are identical."

"I fully understand Maj. John L. Griffith's ideas on the conduct of sport and he fully understands mine. The first football team I ever coached played its opening game against one trained by the major, and we've been the best of friends ever since. I know his problems and he knows ours. There is no chance for a serious misunderstanding.

Big Ten Plans Coöperate.

"Consider the makeup of the North Central board of review. Right in this room we have a dean from the University of Chicago, another from Michigan, and another from Ohio State. The North Central's every move has been with the support and coöperation of the Big Ten."

Mr. Gage, who is a member of the athletic committee of the association and of the board of review, which has the final word on a school's standing, was asked if any ill feeling existed between the North Central and the University of Chicago, due to the abolition of the national interscholastic basketball tournament.

"We made no attempt to force the university to abandon the meet," Mr. Gage replied. "There is a public misunderstanding as to just what the situation was. Here's what really happened: It was argued before the college commission that such tournaments were harmful to high school students, but no definite resolution was adopted. The entire matter was referred to a committee which even yet has not submitted a report. But while this committee was studying the situation the university took the initiative and abolished the meet. There was no coercion involved.

High Schools to Decide.

"Now the association has decided to leave the matter entirely up to the high schools. If they want tournaments they can have them. It's their business. Ballots have been sent out to every prep school in the association and 75 per cent of them have replied. With the results of this questionnaire as data we will consider the matter at tomorrow's meeting."

Mr. Gage was next asked about friction with Northwestern, as it had been reported that the association representatives had been stopped in an attempt to investigate athletic conditions at the Evanston school.

"We never investigate any institution against its will," was Mr. Gage's opinion. "In many cases they ask our help and we are glad to give it. Our men visited Ohio State by request. In the case of Northwestern we received a very courteous letter asking that the investigation be temporarily suspended until the authorities of the school could discuss the situation with the other members of the Big Ten and clarify the relationship which exists between that organization and ours."

Opposed to Paid Athletes.

"Would you like to see a round table discussion between representatives of the North Central and of the Big Ten?" he was asked.

"I think it would be a good thing, but even that would be largely a get together of the same men we have at our regular meetings, such as Dean Bascher from the University of Chicago and Dean Effinger from Michigan.

"Here are the North Central's ideas on high school and college sport. You'll see that they are the same as those of the Big Ten. Our aim is to have school boys play school boys. That's what the public likes to see rather than contests between paid athletes. Whenever we can help the Big Ten preserve that order of things we do so and whenever they can help us they do so."

Content of Questionnaire.

The questionnaire to which Mr. Gage had referred was sent to 2,329 high schools and 1,751 replies were received. The questions and answers follow:

Shall the association extend its presents policies to include interscholastic athletics. Yes, 1,276; no, 384.

Shall the association limit the number of contests any school team engages in to one contest per week during the season? Yes, 1,182; no, 385.

Shall secondary schools be allowed to participate in national tournaments? No, 1,123; yes, 522.

Shall high schools participate in invitational tournaments not authorized by the athletic association. No, 1,304; yes, 376.

Two Goals in Third Period Turn Tide.

It's a tough job to lick a bunch of Irishmen any day of the year and on St. Patrick's night it's near impossible. But the Duluth Hornets managed to do it. They met the Shamrocks on the Stadium ice in the presence of 5,000 spectators and whipped them, 2 to 1.

It seems that an angry Hornet can battle even harder than a fighting Irishman, for the Duluth players were forced to put on a fast rally in the closing period which netted two goals, and that was enough to wipe out the lone tally which the Shamrocks hung up in the first frame. That single Shamrock score was made by a young fellow whose Gaelic ancestry might be questioned, for Gordie Brydson is his name.

Hornets Come from Behind.

The first of the Duluth points was made by Merrill, who took a pass from Forslund seven minutes after the start of the third period and slammed the puck into the net. And almost immediately Laurie Scott put the game on ice by taking the rubber disc from Cully Wilson and flipping it into the Shamrock goal.

A few spectacular spills pepped up the spectators in the first two or three minutes of the game. Then Bob Davis charged through the Shamrock defense and forced Mike Karakas to fall on the puck to avert a score.

Several swift sallies up and down the ice were climaxed after five minutes of play when Gordie Brydson, right wing of the Shamrocks, snared the puck near the blue line, skated in swiftly, and scored.

Spend Time in Penalty Box.

Shortly after the start of the second period, Pudge MacKenzie went down the ice, skating rings around the Hornets who tried to head him off. He got within a yard of the Duluth goal before letting fly, but Vern Taylor caught the puck on the tip of his skate.

Then the Hornets made three rushes in quick succession with Bob Davis, Gus Forslund, and Jack Lewick leading the assault. Peewee Wiseman of the Shamrocks was sent to the penalty box for rough tactics, and a few minutes later his teammate, Bouncer Taylor, followed him.

Hornets Start to Sting.

Then it was the Hornet's turn. They rushed the puck into Shamrock territory, and Merrill, standing in front of the goal, took a pass from Forslund and shot it in to tie the score.

Three minutes later the Duluth boys launched another onslaught. Wilson streaked across the ice and flipped the puck to Laurie Scott. Scott took it at full speed and slammed it into the net.

CHICAGO CAPTAIN

FRED CASERIO.

Caserio Picked to Lead Golden Gloves Squad

BY FRENCH LANE.

Fred Caserio, slashing middleweight champion, yesterday was made captain of Chicago's Golden Gloves team while the Chicago warriors were putting in hard training licks for their battle with New York in Madison Square Garden on March 30.

The business of serving as a captain will be no new task for Caserio, for he was the captain of Kid Howard's gymnasium team which captured the team trophy in the Chicago Golden Gloves tournament. His most difficult job will be to get the soldiers in the ranks of his company up in time for breakfast. Several of the Chicago boys proved to be sound sleepers yesterday morning.

As reports trickled in from New York's Golden Gloves final it appeared that Caserio will have one of the toughest boys on the New York team to beat in Andy Melia, the pipefitter from the Bronx.

The Captain Doesn't Worry.

"Ed Steeve whipped that guy Melia last year," Caserio said yesterday. "Just wait until you see what I do to him in Madison Square Garden."

Benny Yanger, Johnny Behr and Jabber Young, coaches of the Chicago team, let the 24 warriors do some leather swinging yesterday and members of the Illinois Athletic club who looked on at the drill watched several thrilling two round battles.

Leo Rodak, flyweight champion, and Max Maker of Milwaukee, bantamweight, were paired in one of the early encounters. In the first round Maker knocked Rodak down. Soon after the second round started Rodak's right connected with Maker's chin and down the Milwaukee boy went. They were going to it at such a lively pace the coaches had to almost get into the ring and grab them by the necks to make them slow down.

Adam Smith, Rockford heavyweight, and Tony Sutton, light heavyweight from Peoria, clashed in another encounter. Adam, wearing a heavy gymnasium outfit in order to get rid of part of his prominent midsection, probably never saw so many gloves as Sutton tossed at him, but was as lively as ever at the finish.

Boys Near Weight.

George Keenan, welterweight champion, stepped into the ring against Burkhart of Michigan City. This was another punching affair but went the limit without a knockdown. They tore after each other as if a championship was at stake.

Weight melted away from some of the Chicago warriors like a snowdrift disappears beneath a July sun. Tony Muscarello, tough featherweight from the Belle Plaine Athletic club, was seven pounds over the 126 pound mark when yesterday's drill started. Last night he was only two pounds overweight and the coaches warned him to take it easy.

Jimmy Eliopoulos, square shouldered Greek lad who fights in the flyweight class, tipped the beam at 126 as he began his day's work. Last night he weighed only 115, which is just three pounds above the flyweight mark.

Chicago scouts who were at the ringside in Madison Square Garden when the New York championships were decided will be back in the Chicago team's training camp today.

BOXER'S CRY OF 'DOPED' USUALLY IS AN ILLUSION

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 17.—Often have I heard and read of the doping of this or that pugilist by fiends in more or less human form who had wagered the other way, but what I would like to know, strictly as information and not for any practical application, I assure the authorities, is what sort of dope these despicable characters employ and how they administer same.

I hope despicable is not too strong a word. It is really quite unjust to dope any prize fighter or any racing horse or dog, and all respectable opinion will deplore the practice, if it is a practice. I feel very fearless in calling such persons despicable.

Chloral Too Aristocratic.

Chloral I have heard of in covering inquests on unfortunate persons discovered too late in apartments of the kind described as sumptuous, but this drug seems inapplicable to the mild sabotage under discussion. It is rather aristocratic, and it has a high score in the coroner's office, which ought to eliminate it from the plans of any party who desires only to make his victim hold still for a tap on the chin. Then, also, wouldn't it have a medicine taste, and, furthermore, how is a party to know whether the subject ought to have only a small noggin or perhaps as much as a quart?

A delicate, high strung athlete might go into a swoon from a couple of drops on his tongue, let us suppose, but a tough old walrus of the Chuck Wiggins type might knock off a quart and experience nothing more than a gentle stimulation. Knowing nothing about chloral but something about Mr. Wiggins, I would put him down as a two bottle chloral man.

That Insidious Mickey Finn.

With the insidious Mickey Finn I have hearsay acquaintance, from which I infer that the subject doesn't know that Mick is among him until he suddenly goes to the floor, usually in a saloon, moaning "oo-oo-oo" and flopping among the sandwich rinds, the cigaret butts, and the highball spillings, feeling as though he had swallowed an a la carte order of steel filings and four-prong fish hooks.

Once in a refreshment parlor in Florida the lady proprietor criticised her bartender's recipe for a certain kind of nut sundae, the Martini, to be explicit, contending that the little onion should not be dropped into the glass until the nut sundae had been poured, whereas he claimed to be an artist with a diploma from the old Waldorf in New York and maintained that nobody but a barefoot barbarian would do it that way. This lady quite forgot herself for a moment, calling her bartender a number of interesting names. But he remembered his Waldorf breeding, and when she whoaed up slightly to make the turn and run back over her vocabulary, he bent a polite gaze of his gray eyes upon her and inquired gently:

"Would madame like me to make her a very special Martini nut sundae from an old secret recipe of my family?"

Madame would, and a moment later, while madame stood there smacking her lips in delicate judgment, the bartender left the place by the rear exit, pulling on his coat over his white jacket with the remark that he was going for a walk. It must have been a very long walk, for he never came back, and three minutes later madame sat down on the floor with a faint wail in abrupt contrast to her sturdy roar of so brief a spell ago.

"Mickey!" she wailed, "Mickey Finn?"

Diamond Dan O'Rourke, who used to conduct a saloon on the Bowery where the street moochers checked their crutches and other tools and soaped their eyelids for that tearful and careworn appearance before set-

Catholic Cage Teams Open Drive for U. S. Title Tonight

The interest of high school basketball fans from New York to Oklahoma will be centered on Loyola university gymnasium tonight, when the eighth annual national Catholic interscholastic tournament begins.

There will be boys from Shawnee, Okla., matching their skill against boys from Cumberland, Md. Youngsters from Athol Springs, N. Y., will be out to beat youngsters from Nashville, Tenn., and Hutchinson, Kas., and Huntington, W. Va.

There will be Chicago teams in the running, too, and these local boys have the reputation of always being up there near the top at the finish. In fact, last year De La Salle of Chicago was right at the top, and is expected to put up a stubborn fight in defense of its title in this season's meet. St. Mel, the champion of the Catholic league, also will make a formidable bid, together with De Paul academy.

De Paul, runner-up for the north section title in the Chicago Catholic league, last night defeated St. Ignatius, south division second place winners, 25 to 19, at De La Salle's gym, for the right to participate in the tournament in place of the Virginia entry which withdrew.

Hoosiers Meet Pittsburgh.

At 7 o'clock tonight the first whistle will blow and Catholic High school of Washington, Ind., will take the floor against St. Mary of the Mount from Pittsburgh. De La Salle of Chicago will make its appearance in the next game against Central of Wheeling, W. Va., and the evening's entertainment will be concluded with the match between Spaulding of Peoria and De La Salle of Minneapolis.

First round games will continue tomorrow morning, afternoon, and evening, with the last pair of the 32 entries going into action at 10 o'clock on Friday morning.

St. Mel's first game will be played tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock, and another game of special interest to Chicago fans will be tomorrow night's meeting between De La Salle of Joliet and Columbia academy of Dubuque.

Decide Title Sunday.

The champions will be decided on Sunday night. First round pairings follow:

TONIGHT.

8 p. m.—De La Salle, Chicago, vs. Central, Wheeling, W. Va.

TOMORROW.

END INQUIRY ON IOWA OUSTER FROM BIG TEN

Des Moines, Ia., March 17.—(AP)—Odds and ends of testimony on the University of Iowa's ouster from the Big Ten conference in 1929 were cleaned up today by the legislative investigating committee. E. H. Lauer, athletic director, is the only important witness to be heard on that phase of the inquiry into the school's administration.

Dr. H. L. Beye, member of the athletic board, told the committee he thought it was unfair to saddle all the blame of the university's suspension on Paul E. Belting, former athletic director, but he described it as an inevitable reaction.

Brief questioning of Oran Pape, former Iowa back field star, centered around his being declared ineligible for playing professional football and his notes for tuition. Pape admitted playing professional football at Galena, Ill., in 1926.

PIERRE CHARLES WINS DECISION OVER PANTALEO

Minneapolis, Minn., March 17.—(AP)—Unable to deliver a punch to upset his lighter rival, Pierre Charles, Belgian heavyweight champion, took a ten round decision from Paul Pantaleo of Chicago in the feature event of a 38 round card here tonight.

Charles set out with a two fisted attack but was only successful in one instance in putting Pantaleo on the canvas. The Belgian sent Paul to the mat in the fourth round with a straight left but the Windy City lad was up immediately.

Ray Trambie Knocks Out Joe Feldman in 4th Round

M'Carnes Is Named N. U. Cage Captain

Robert McCarnes of Logansport, Ind., was elected captain of the Northwestern university basketbal team for next year at a dinner given the basketball team at the North Shore hotel in Evanston last night.

McCarnes, who will be a senior next year, was one of the outstanding centers in the Big Ten during the past season and was one of the important cogs in the Wildcats' drive for the championship. He placed seventh in the conference scoring column for the season just closed.

Eight major letters and ten minor letters were awarded to member of the 1930-'31 team. The major awards went to Capt. Bert Riel, Watseka, Ill.; Joe Reiff, Chicago; Robert McCarnes, Logansport, Ind.; Frank Marshall, Bus Smith, Elmer Johnson, and Saul Farber, all of Chicago, and John Whelan, Dubuque, Ia.

Minor letters were granted to Marvin Moonshower, Rochester, Ind.; Phil Seghi, La Salle, Ill.; Dallas Marvil, Laurel, Del.; Robert Haila, Centralia, Ill.; William Foster, Monticello, Ill.; Paul Cummins, Cedar Rapids, Ia.; Robert Pendleton, Prairie du Chien, Wis.; Bob Lockhart, Martinsville, Ind.; Max Bauman, and Conrad Lippert, Chicago.

The team will be the guests of the Northwestern University Club of Chicago at a luncheon given Friday noon at the La Salle hotel. Letter winners will be awarded gold basketballs emblematic of the conference championship at that time.

Dr. Gunning, Old Time Baseball Player, Dies

Fall River, Wis., March 17.—(AP)—Dr. Thomas F. Gunning, a practicing physician here for many years and an old time big league ball player, died today. He was born in 1863 at Newmarket, N. H. He played with the Springfield, Ill., baseball club in 1883 and in 1887 played his first big league game as catcher for the Boston Nationals. The following year he played with the Philadelphia Nationals and 1889 with the Athletics.

SOX TOY WITH TEXAS U. NINE, THEN WIN, 9-4

Reynolds Shows Admirers He's Real Hitter.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Austin, Tex., March 17.—The White Sox came down south with the idea of getting some needed exercise. While thus engaged they whipped the University of Texas boys, 9 to 4, in one of those everyday college affairs which was featured by the tardiness of the 125 pound bass drummer of the varsity band. He staggered in with his barrel-like implement in the fourth inning and thereafter there was music to amuse the 2,000 patrons.

There was only one fleeting moment in which the competitive idea was noticeable. This was in the fourth inning, when the Longhorns displayed a sudden liking for the offerings of young Johnny Intlekofer, whom Manager Donie Bush started on the mound. Three of the nattily clad collegians scored during this uprising, thereby giving them a 3 to 2 lead. However, a homer by Mel Simons with two on promptly jolted the Texans out of their dream, and from then on it was just a romp for the Chicago faction.

Shows 'Em He Can Hit.

It was in this section of the country that Carl Reynolds, now the Sox's outstanding performer, got his start, and more than a few of his admirers were on hand to see how he looks as a finished product. To convince them that his batting mark of .359 last season was no fake, the dapper Carl peeled off three singles and a double. Three of his hits figured in the production of runs. Next in line as a hitter of prominence was Smead Jolley with two singles and a double.

The homer to right by which Simons put the Sox in front in the fifth was his sole contribution. He also was a bit shy in the outfield, particularly in the fourth, when he danced around in one spot long enough to let a fly ball sail over his head for a triple. It was this tap that drove in two of the three runs scored off Intlekofer in the fourth. Even after making allowance for this slip in the defense, Intlekofer's workout wasn't up to what was expected after Manager Bush's flattering appraisal.

Four Runs Sink Texans.

After Simons' homer had driven in Radcliff and Reynolds in the fifth the Sox came through with four runs in the seventh. This took all the ambition out of the Texans. Reynolds started it with his double and scored when the second sacker let Simons' grounder seep through. Then Jolley singled and Sleepy Peeples was removed in favor of a Spanish pitcher named De La Fuente. Appling cracked the newcomer for a triple to left center, scoring Simons and Jolley. An infield out let Appling register.

The Sox moved over to Grenham, Tex., tonight and tomorrow will try their skill against the Montreal team in training there. Manager Bush plans to let his ace workman, Ted Lyons, start the affair.

Sweetland and May Go Route With Six Hits

Hartnett Smashes Out 4th Homer.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 17.—Manager Rogers Hornsby this afternoon gave Les Sweetland and Jakie May a chance to show their left handedness to the Los Angeles Angels in preparation for the series which opens Friday with the distinguished left hand hitters, the Pittsburgh Pirates. The score of the demonstration was: Cubs, 9; Angels, 4.

Mr. Sweetland, former Philly, held the Coast leaguers to one run and two singles in five innings. Mr. May, former Red, allowed three runs and four hits, three of the four coming in the eighth. The other one was an infield scratch in the ninth. Both gentlemen exercised the left-handers' prerogative of indulging in spasms of wildness. Les forced in a run with a walk in the fourth and Jakie did likewise in the sixth after a two base error by Wilson and walks to Dittmar and Stainback.

Regulars Score Six Runs.

In view of the current batting mood of the Cub regulars there seems to reason to think the Angels should win another game this spring, a thing that is distressing the proud Los Angeles populace no end.

This afternoon the Regulars bore down in the first two innings off their former teammate, Mal Moss, and made six runs. They were content to spend the rest of the afternoon watching the lefties work at pitching. The Goofs being back in town after their week-end travels, there were the usual mid-week substitutions. It was the first time, however, that English and Jurges have worked together at third and short, respectively. The move was viewed with more than casual interest, because it is the belief in the Cub camp that Woody will be at third and Bill at short when the Cubs push off in the pennant race on April 14.

End Cub-Angel Series.

Apropos of the fading of the Angels as red hot competition for the Cubs, President Bill Veeck announced before the game that there will be no Cub-Angel series in Los Angeles next year, a decision which seems advisable for all parties concerned, but especially desirous to the boys who count the dough taken in here in the regular Pacific Coast league season. It had been rumored that the Cubs' spring routine would be altered, but Mr. Veeck's announcement was the first confirmation of any of the reports and was said to be the result of the general demand of the exhibition fans for all big league shows in the spring, a policy which most of the Cubs have favored for several seasons.

The Cub prexy said that after the Cubs have conducted their routine conditioning program on Catalina island next spring they will come to Los Angeles and take over Wrigley field as their temporary home park, there to be host to major league clubs exclusively. Games with the Pittsburgh Pirates, Cleveland Indians, and Detroit Tigers have been booked, Mr. Veeck said. The Angels will go to Catalina when the Cubs come here.

To Play Round Robin.

A round robin National-American league schedule among the four teams is to be conducted here and in San Francisco, providing the American league suspends the rule against exhibition games between American league teams.

Getting back to the day's business, the Cubs made four runs in the first inning on singles by Jurges and Hornsby, a double by Stevie and Gabby Hartnett's third homer in two successive games and his fourth in four games. In the second inning they added a pair on a walk to Grimm, a single by Sweetland, a sacrifice by Cuyler, a walk to Hornsby, and a single by Wilson. The seventh Cub run was produced in the third on a single by Cuyler and a triple by Jurges and their last run was the result of a walk to Hartnett and a double by Belt in the fifth, after which Moss retired.

Ballou pitched the last four innings and held the assorted regulars and substitutes to three hits and no runs.

New York, March 17.—(AP)—Ray V. Fessenden, Madison, Wis., went into a triple tie with Edgar T. Appleby, New York, and Percy N. Collins, Chicago, for first place in the national amateur 18.2 balk line billiard championship tonight by defeating H. T. Galey of Tulsa, Okla., 50 to 137, in 28 innings.

BLACKHAWKS TOP QUAKERS, 4 TO 0, IN ROUGH GAME

Gottselig Leads Victory Attack.

The home side was outclassed from start to finish, but it was Chuck Gardiner's clever goal keeping that enabled him to score another shutout.

Wentworth scored in the first session, Ripley in the second, and in the closing round, Cook and Gottselig put the disc past Cude. Only three penalties were called.

Hawks Start Fast.

The Quakers took the offensive and carried the play into Chicago territory only to lose the puck. Milks lifted a fast shot from the side near the blue line which Gardiner caught in time. Ingram and Romnes did some fast back checking, but the Quakers continued to press until they missed a good chance on a three man rush. Abel carried down ice but just as he was about to shoot Lowery spilled him. Shields made a great rush after splitting the defense but Gardiner made a nice stop.

Coulson drew the first penalty of the game for high sticking and when he was gone there was a scrimmage in front of the Quaker net which culminated with Adams pushing Cude and the puck into the net but the whistle blew and it did not count. Soon after, Wentworth got the disc from Cook and caught Cude napping with a long shot from the blue line. The time was 12:48. As soon as Coulson returned the Quakers tried to get the equalizer, Milks breaking through on a pass from Jarvis, but Gardiner came out to make another great save. Lowery got loose around the defense and as he was about to shoot at an open net Graham upset him and the Quakers lost a good chance.

Ripley Scores Goal.

The Blackhawks changed their style of play and carried the attack to the Quakers. Coulson was sent off for board checking, but other penalties were overlooked. After wild rushes by both teams the Hawks got their second goal when Ripley broke loose.

Gottselig received an assist and the time was 7:01. The Chicago boys, with their lead, refused to relent in their attack and carried the puck right into the Quakers' defense. Jenkins got through, but Cude made a nice stop of his shot. The Quakers pressed around the Chicago goal for more than a minute and Lowery, Kilrea, and Howe each missed a good chance by hurrying the shot. During a wild rush by Jarvis he was checked hard and slid into the goal. The cords were cut by his skate and the game was held up while repairs were made to the goal net. Play continued to be rough, but Coulson's penalty was the only infraction in this period.

Abel Gets Cut.

The Quakers tried to penetrate the Chicago defense in an effort to chalk up a goal, but they were weak with their shots. Lowry gave the Hawks some trouble by some clever stick handlings and was out in the open until Gardiner came out to break it up. In the meantime the Hawks were driving into the Quakers and holding them at bay.

During a mixup near the cage, Cook got hold of the disc and lifted a high shot over Cude's prostrate form at 9:28. Abel was cut and went to the dressing room for first aid.

Shields made another beautiful solo that brought him past the defense, but Gardiner again contributed a great stop and then another when Lowery got loose.

At 16:53 Gottselig got possession of the puck and from the blue line whacked a shot through Cude for his second point of the evening. The Quakers were still trying to avoid a shutout at the bell.

Erie Bowler Takes Lead in A. B. C. Meet Singles

Buffalo, N. Y., March 17.—(AP)—Walter Clack of Erie, Pa., celebrated St. Patrick's day by soaring to the lead in the singles event of the American Bowling congress tourney late today with a total of 712. Clack scored games of 243, 267, and 202, to total 712, topping Charley Daw, Milwaukee, by one pin. The score has been high enough to win 22 of the past 30 national pin events.

Deaf Hear Again Through New Aid

Earpiece No Bigger Than Dime Wins Enthusiastic Following Ten-Day Free Trial Offer

After twenty-five years devoted exclusively to the manufacture of scientific hearing-aids, the Dictograph Products Co., Inc., Dept. 146B, 180 North Michigan Blvd., Chicago, Ill., has just perfected a new model Acousticon that represents the greatest advance yet made in the recreation of hearing for the deaf. This latest Acousticon is featured by a tiny earpiece no bigger than a dime. Through this device, sounds are clearly and distinctly transmitted to subnormal ears with wonderful benefit to hearing and health alike. The makers offer an absolutely free trial for 10 days to any person who may be interested, and a letter will bring one of these remarkable aids to your home for a thorough and convincing test. Send them your name and address today! (Advt.)

Hanson Signs to Meet Leach at Coliseum

A third ten round bout was arranged yesterday for the middleweight tournament beginning at the Coliseum next Tuesday. The bout will bring together Gary Leach of Gary and Haakon Hanson of Norway. There will be three other ten rounders on the program. Promoter George Ferguson and Matchmaker Jim Mullen expect to sign principals for the fourth bout today. The tournament is being conducted to pick a successor to Mickey Walker.

Leach and Hanson will meet in the first bout of the evening. Tait Littman, Milwaukee, and Willie Oster, Boston slugger, will clash in the second, while Harvey Heffner of Denver and My Sullivan of St. Paul will mix in the third.

40 Wire for Chance.

Forty other middleweights have wired for chances to fight in the fourth bout. Weight for the preliminaries is 166 pounds or under, 160 pounds for the semi-finals and 158 pounds for the finals.

Freddie Polo, New Jersey boxer who knocked out Rene DeVos in the fifth round recently, Pete Susky, Pittsburgh warrior, and Joe Sharkey, Michigan, are among others who will fight before the tourney is completed. One or two of them may fight in the fourth card next Tuesday.

N. B. A. Sanctions Tourney.

The National Boxing association will recognize the winner of the tourney as the middleweight champion. A gold belt will be awarded the new champion.

POLO CHAMPIONS TO GO EAST FOR U. S. TOURNAMENT

Captains of the three polo teams which won the midwest championship in the elimination tournament at the 124th field artillery armory last Sunday night yesterday completed plans for their participation in the United States indoor polo tournament which will open at New York on March 31.

Capt. Frank Bering of the Chicago Riding club, which won the class B title by defeating the Sixth Corps area, will lead the squad against the victors of the New Jersey circuit on April 4. The 124th field artillery trio, of which Lieut. R. G. Hunter is captain, will meet the class C winners of a tournament now being conducted in Boston. They will play on April 2. Maj. A. R. Harris will take the Fort Sheridan team, class D victors, to meet Boston on March 31.

Former Wisconsin Stars Beat Loyola U. Grads

A quintet composed of former Wisconsin players last night defeated a squad of ex-Loyola stars, 32 to 28, at Loyola gym. Johnny Paul led the Badger grads, scoring five baskets. The victors held a 17 to 10 lead at the half.

KOLA KWARIANI HAS BIG CHANCE AGAINST LONDOS

Five Matches Tonight at Coliseum.

Kola Kwariani will have his big chance tonight. He will enter the Coliseum ring for a heavyweight wrestling championship match with Jim Londos. If he wins he will carry back to Russia a diamond studded belt emblematic of the championship now held by Londos.

But it is not the championship alone to which Kwariani aspires—he wants to beat Londos. For several months the wrestling genius of Londos has carried him victorious through matches with some of the foremost grapplers of the world. This is the first time Londos has defended his crown against the Russian.

Kwariana Heavier Than Londos.

Every physical advantage rests with Kwariana. He is younger than his Grecian rival; he outweighs him by 15 pounds, and he is four inches taller.

Londos will play a waiting game, a system that has won for him in almost all of his recent matches. Jim usually discourages his opponents by slipping out of tough holds and then begins striking out on the offensive. The match is two falls out of three.

Four other matches will be offered by Promoter Doc Krone. In the semi-windup Rudy Dusek of Omaha meets Mike Romano, veteran Italian headlock king. Dusek is making his first start here. Karl Pojello is paired with Marshall Blackstock of Georgia in another supporting match.

Brunovicz vs. Bauer.

Frank Brunovicz, seeking his seventh win here this winter, will match holds with Hans Bauer, squatty German, with the Polish star ruling a slight favorite. Jack Smith, Chicago, former amateur star, makes his professional debut against Rudy Iaditsi, a Hungarian.

Out of town delegations from several Indiana and Illinois towns and cities will attend. Tonight's card:

Rudy Dusek, Omaha, vs. Mike Romano, Italy.
Hans Bauer, Germany, vs. Frank Brunovicz, New York.
Karl Pojello, Chicago, vs. Marshall Blackstock, Georgia.
Rudy Laditsi, Hungary, vs. Jack Smith, Chicago.
(Last four matches 30-minute time limit, all heavyweights).

GRIFFITH PICKS BOXERS TO TRAIN FOR LOUGHRAN

Three fast, clever boxers, a light heavyweight, a middleweight, and a welterweight were added to the Tuffy Griffith stable yesterday to replace the sluggers who trained the west side contender for the King Levinsky fight.

While drilling for Levinsky, Griffith head Willie Oster and several other fellows who are short on boxing ability, but long on the wild, heavy fisted swings. But for his Tommy Loughran bout, which is scheduled for the Chicago Stadium on March 27, Griffith has selected Edgar Norman, George Kerwin, and Ray Tramblie, all expert boxers, to emulate the one time light heavyweight champion.

Tuffy did his first boxing yesterday since the Levinsky fight, stepping a round each against his new spar boys. Kerwin and Tramblie are expected to be particularly beneficial to Tuffy. Both are exceptionally adept with their left hands. This is Loughran's forte, too. In his bout with Levinsky, Ernie Schaaf and Max Baer, Loughran jabbed his way to decisive victories with this left, employing his right only for short jolting uppercuts to the heart.

Nate Lewis to Be Honored at Banquet on March 31

Nate Lewis, director and matchmaker of the Chicago Stadium, will be guest of honor at a dinner March 31 at the Sherman hotel. Ald. Dorsey R. Crowe is chairman of the banquet committee, which also includes Sidney Hertz, president of the Chicago Stadium.

A Boxer May Yell 'Doped!' but Try to Get Him Into a Stupor

ting out on their daily rounds, once told me that the Mickey Finn was named for its inventor, a peace loving man who used it to subdue unruly patrons without recourse to violence. A tasteless powder in a flagon of something soon reduced the most thunderous temper to whimpering misery and contrition, and the name of Mickey Finn, like that of George M. Pullman, is perpetuated through his works.

But while this potion is easily administered the patient's discomfort is so abrupt and violent that resort to such would entail its own betrayal. There is no misreading the agonies of the victim of the Mickey Finn.

Last summer, after Sammy Mandell had been walloped about and knocked unconscious by Al Singer in the first round of their fight for the lightweight championship, Sammy reported that he thought he had been drugged somehow by persons unknown. Entering the ring he felt suddenly numbed and absent and left his corner with the feeling of a man just slipping away on an operating table.

But this chief second, Mr. Frank [Windows] Bagley, has contrary views. Mr. Bagley was conscious of a faint reflection on his own sterling character when the Mandell party, as an afterthought, mentioned this theory of foul play and he desires to present some interesting expert views to the contrary.

Says It Can't Be Done.

"Now, my idea about doping prize fighters," Mr. Bagley states, peering solemnly through the amber panes of his large windshields, "my idea about doping prize fighters is that it can't be done. You can't jab a needle into a fighter's hide and keep it a secret from the fighter, so I think the hypodermic is out. A crooked second might tell a boy the stuff would make a tiger of him and persuade him to take it, but if it had the opposite effect the fighter would be certain to let out a yell to the papers and the fight commission and the whole world would know it in a day. Mandell never said he was needled, though.

"If the dope is going to do its work at the right time it must be given just before the fighter leaves the dressing room for the ring, when everybody around him is keeping a close eye on him. Otherwise the effects might wear off, or, for all I know about medicine, the effects might increase. In one case the patient would recover in time to put up his fight; in the other he would pass out stiff before you could get him down the aisle to his corner, and there'd be no fight.

Always Takes Precautions.

"You will see fight handlers sticking fancy marks on their water bottles so that nobody can switch bottles on them. Whenever I am starting for the ring I tie a towel over the top of the bucket so that nobody can drop anything in as I go down the aisle. But these are just precautions. Nothing would happen in a million times.

"I always felt," said Mr. Bagley ruefully, "that Mandell was putting me in the middle when he said I was the one who filled his water bottle that night. In the first place I had heard just enough talk about that fight to make sure I wasn't the one who filled the bottle. A friend of Sammy's from Chicago filled it. And, furthermore, even if this friend had filled it to the neck with cyanide, it couldn't have done Sammy any harm because anybody who knows anything about fighters would get very suspicious if an old time second with my experience let a fighter swallow any water just before a fight. Plain water splashing around inside a boy in a fight would be almost as bad as dope, anyway. A few belts in the body would make him seasick and he'd be through in no time.

Weight Hurt Mandell.

"Mandell didn't even rinse his mouth before he went down to the ring, and if you will look up his weight for his fights since then you will understand why he was so weak. He is a welterweight now and he was a welterweight then, and when he trained down to 135 pounds he trained his fight away, and he knew what he was doing. He knew he couldn't make 135 pounds, strong, any more.

"Fight handlers aren't doctors. Aside from liniment, collodion and adrenalin what do we know about drugs?"

So this is Mr. Bagley's say about the matter, repairing any harm his reputation may have suffered, which was negligible considering that within a month he was back in the same ring minding the bucket and the bottles for Jimmy McLarnin while he knocked out the fighter who had knocked out Mandell.

Still I would like to know, strictly for my own erudition, what sort of dope can be used against a fighter and how to give it without detection. There is only one other thing I do not know all about. I never could understand why a spitball jumps every which way, either.

CENTRAL A. A. U. WRESTLERS OPEN MEET TOMORROW

One hundred and twenty-five amateur wrestlers will go to the mat tomorrow evening at the Illinois Athletic club in the opening round of the three night tournament to decide the Central A. A. U. champions.

Entries have been received from Illinois, Wisconsin, and Minnesota. The entire teams of both the Universities of Wisconsin and Chicago are entered, as well as many local clubs. The Swedish-American and Danish-American clubs have the largest club entry.

The bouts are open to the public on all three nights.

Crane Routs Harrison in Prep Battle

City League Finalists

LIGHTWEIGHT—Englewood.

NORTH-WEST WINNERS.
HEAVYWEIGHT—Three teams tied.
LIGHTWEIGHT—Marshall.

Crane Tech went into a tie with Lake View and Roosevelt in the north and west sections heavyweight basketball semi-finals by defeating Harrison, which qualified for the state tournament finals, 41 to 15, at Austin gymnasium yesterday.

Crane took a lead of 22 to 0 at the end of the first quarter. Capt. Odron, Kral, and Bazant each contributed a free throw for Harrison' only points in the second period, and Crane led at the half, 21 to 3. Bob Gruenig starred for Crane, collecting seven baskets and six free throws.

It will be Marshall against Englewood for the lightweight title. Marshall triumphed over Tuley, 29 to 22, in the second game of the series in the west and north divisions playoff. Three teams had been tied in the semi-finals, but Roosevelt was elliminated by Tuley.

Baskets by Feingold and Rosenthal gave Marshall a 6 to 0 advantage in the first period, and the victors led at the half, 10 to 5. Silver, Lakin, and Saltzman were Tuley's stars. Lineups:

K. OF C. TEAMS PLAY OFF THREE TIES TONIGHT

First and third places in the South division and third place in the West section of the Knights of Columbus basketball league will be decided tonight when the teams which finished the preliminary round in a deadlock clash at White City. Setters vs. Carroll for third place in the West division will open the card. Dowling and Englewood, two of the three teams tied for third place in the South section, will clash in the second game, with Perez and Loyola-Hyde Park winding up the evening in a battle for the divisional title.

Dog Lovers Await Chicago Bench Show March 27

BY BOB BECKER.

Hundreds of dogs from all over the United States are being "pointed" to march into the First Regiment armory the morning of March 27, as on that day the thirtieth annual dog show of the Chicago Kennel club will open. More than forty breeds will be on exhibition at this show, which is one of the classics of the show circuit.

Advance entries for this 1931 event indicate that it will have an especial appeal for sportsmen who own or are otherwise interested in the sporting breeds because an unusually large number of sporting entries have already been received. English setters will probably lead in number of entries, with Irish setters next, cocker spaniels third, and springer spaniels fourth.

* *

Alexander Stewart, president of the Chicago Kennel club, attributes the large sporting dog entry to the fact that there is a steadily increasing interest in these breeds. Every year sees a larger number of hunters in the field and as the hunting army grows so interest in the dogs which help the gunners is intensified.

Another factor in the situation is the fact that people in general are beginning to appreciate the fine qualities of the hunting breeds aside from their hunting ability. If the entry list for the Chicago show continues to grow during the next week or ten days at the same rate which has prevailed during the last few weeks, sporting dogs as a class will doubtless outnumber all other breeds competing.

* *

That cocker spaniels will be represented in fairly large numbers at the show is no surprise because this breed has steadily risen in favor among dog fans in recent years. As soon as the American breeders of the popular cocker turn their attention to growing larger specimens we have a hunch that this class of hunting dogs will become even more popular because the American hunter must have a huskier, sturdier dog to put in the coverts than has been available. Today the springer spaniel, weighing 40 to 45 pounds, gets first play in hunting work for the spaniels, because he has the weight, legs, and muscles to crash the weeds and the thickets, and swim in most any kind of water.

* *

Dr. A. C. Gifford of Oshkosh has been secured to judge all the sporting spaniels at the Chicago show, according to an announcement made this week. Dr. Gifford has bred both cockers and springers for the field trials and the bench, so he is well qualified to handle these breeds.

Bankers' Track Meet Draws Women Stars

BY BETTY ECKERSALL.

Betty Robinson, Olympic star, and Evelyne Ruth Hall, I. W. A. C., will be the feature entries in the Bankers' track meet to be held tomorrow night at the 124th field artillery armory, 52d street and Cottage Grove avenue. The meet is attracting considerable attention from feminine exponents of the cinder path, as more than 100 women employés of Chicago banks will participate.

The women will compete in a series of sprints at 50, 60, and 70 yards, with the average of each runned computed to determine respective winners of first, second and third place. It is the first time that this type of sprint has been held for women in the middle west.

Entered in this special invitational sprint event besides Miss Robinson, 100 meter champion, and Mrs. Hall, National A. A. U. 80 yard hurdle champion, are Florence Wright of the I. W. A. C., Lorraine Sisk, South Parks, and Lillian Janus, Finnish-American Athletic club. Myrtle Cook, national champion of Canada, will not compete.

Other events being held for Chicago bank women will be the 50 yard dash and the 440 yard relay race, in which five teams are entered. They are from the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, First National bank, Foreman-State National bank, Bank of the Republic, and the Federal Reserve bank.

The meet will serve as a preliminary to the semi-final trials for the 1932 Olympics.

COMPLETE PLANS FOR BIG INLAND STEEL PROJECT

Work Will Start During April.

BY AL CHASE.

What it is claimed will be the second largest industrial project announced for the Calumet steel district for 1931 will be the $10,000,000 strip mill development of the Inland Steel company, announced some time ago. It was learned yesterday that plans have been completed, bids are now being taken for materials and work is scheduled to start next month by the company's own construction department. The proposed development will comprise five buildings, the strip mill itself being 1,000 feet long. It will turn out sheet steel in one continuous operation.

The largest industrial development in the Calumet area for 1931 is the $25,000,000 addition to the great State Line plant of the Chicago District Electric Generating company, told about in this department on Sunday, March 1.

Sells Six Flat Building.

Frank J. Birk, secretary of Birk Bros., Inc., ice manufacturers, has sold the six apartment building at 717-19 Montrose boulevard, lot 80x136, to Rita McKenny for an undisclosed consideration. Semtei & Loth were brokers.

What the Texas company will pay in rentals for the southwest corner of East 104th street and South Michigan avenue, leased for ten years from Samuel Jensen, was disclosed yesterday at the county recorder's office. The property is 75x141. The annual rental for the first three years will be $3,300; then $3,600 for three years, and $4,200 for four years. The lessee has an option to purchase during the first three years for $50,000; for $55,000 during the next three, and for $60,000 during the last four years.

To Build in Elmhurst.

Plans have been drawn by Hall, Lawrence & Ratcliffe for a one story building, to contain five stories, to be erected at 155-61 York place, in Elmhurst, at a reported cost of $60,000, on a lot 110x145. The owners are Giannacakos & Tampoorlos, representing a syndicate. A store in the proposed building already has been leased to the Loblaw Groceterias, Inc. Harry A. Nichols was broker.

Elsa L. Brooks has purchased the vacant 60x132 at the northwest corner of Willow road and Walnut street, Winnetka, from Charles Lewis Patterson for an undisclosed consideration and will erect an eight room early American type residence. Frederick B. Thomas & Co. were brokers.

Title to the fifty-eight apartment building at 3419 Elaine place, lot 102x287, has been transferred by William Williams to Katherine L. Loescher.

WOOL.

LONDON, March. 17.—(AP)—The offerings at the wool sales today amounted to 11,393 bales, of which 10,800 were sold. There was a large attendance of buyers and bidding was lively at full current rates. Scoured Merinos were rather dearer and greasy crossbreds were in active demand with prices in sellers' favor.

Mullins Manufacturing.

Please give me a report on Mullins Manufacturing corporation, whose stock is listed on the New York Stock Exchange. Enclosed is a self-addressed envelope for reply.—F. W. H.

Mullins Manufacturing corporation, formerly Mullins Body corporation, carries on a business originally established in 1872. Nearly 80 per cent of its business is derived from the automobile industry. The company manufactures stamped metal parts for automobile bodies. The manufacture of parts for washing machines accounts for about 11 per cent of its yearly business. It also makes pressed steel boats and other miscellaneous items.

Outstanding capital stock consists of 28,775 shares of 7 per cent cumulative preferred [no par], which is convertible share for share into common stock, and 100,000 no par common shares. There is no funded debt.

From 1923 through 1928 the trend of earnings was upward, except for a slight drop in 1926. There was a decline in 1929 and last year operations resulted in net loss of $331,713. This was after deductions amounting to $342,656 for unabsorbed die costs which were written off as a result of curtailed production and cancellations by customers. After $205,712 had been paid in preferred dividends there was a deficit for 1930 of $537,425.

In 1929 net profit was $476,965 and surplus, after preferred dividends, was $266,965.

On Dec. 31, 1930, current assets were $1,930,938 and current liabilities were $248,861. This left a net working capital of $1,732,077, against $2,441,920 a year before. Surplus was $3,122,476.

Some improvement in business was noted in the first two months of the current year. Increased sales were reported in the boat department, and night and day shifts were employed in the washing machine tub department. January, 1931, operations showed a profit of more than $15,000, compared with a loss of $30,000 in the first month of 1930.

Preferred dividends have been regularly paid, but no disbursements have been reported on the common since 1921. The preferred is speculative and the common is more so.

Bell Telephone.

Please be so kind as to let me know if Bell Telephone Company of Canada first mortgage 5 per cent bonds, series C, of 1930, are a bound investment.—F. A. J.

These bonds, together with the "A" and "B" series, are secured by a first mortgage on all the company's real estate, buildings and telephone plant. Last year net earnings were $9,607,111, or about 2¼ times fixed charges. In 1929 earnings were $8,987,643, or 2.6 times fixed charges. The bonds are sound.

RAW SILK.

NEW YORK, March 17.—(AP)—SILK—Raw futures closed irregular. Sales, 300 bales: March, $2.56; May, $2.46; July, $2.39. Open market quotations [sixty day basis]. Shanghai steam extra B, $2.65; Canton double extra A, 14-16s, $1.85; Japanese crack double extra, $2.90.

GEN. ELECTRIC HAS 2D BEST YEAR IN HISTORY

Allis-Chalmers in Strong Position.

BY O. A. MATHER.

It was inevitable that curtailment in American industry last year should affect adversely the big manufacturers of machinery of all kinds. This is shown in annual reports made public yesterday by the General Electric company and the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company, although both concerns did not fare badly in view of the extent of the general depression. General Electric had the second best year in its history, according to President Gerard Swope, and earned its dividends comfortably, although both volume of business and profits fell considerably below the records set in 1929. Allis-Chalmers failed to earn its common stock dividend by a small margin, but maintained itself in strong financial position.

GERARD SWOPE.

Sales Are $376,167,428.

Orders received by General Electric last year totaled $341,820,312, compared with $445,802,519 in 1929, a decline of 23 per cent. Sales billed for 1930 were $376,167,428, compared with $415,338,094 in 1929, a decline of 9½ per cent. The effort to maintain operations at as high a level as possible resulted in considerable shrinkage in unfilled orders, which totaled $56,982,000 at the end of 1930, compared with $94,623,000 at the end of 1929, a decrease of 41 per cent.

Net profit for 1930 was $57,490,915, equivalent after dividends on the special stock to $1.90 a share on 28,845,-817 common shares. Dividends on the common stock totaled $45,150,203, after which surplus was increased by $9,945,758. Net profit in 1929 was $67,289,880, or $2.24 a share, figured on a comparable basis. The common stock was split on a four for one basis in January, 1930.

Cites Radio Transfer.

President Swope calls attention to the fact that 1930 earnings do not include radio set and tube business, which was transferred to the Radio Corporation of America in January, 1930, except that derived from General Electric radios brought out during the latter part of last year. The company expended about $13,500,000 on manufacturing plant last year, or about $4,650,000 less than in 1929.

The financial statement showed an increase in investments in associated companies and securities of $21,021,690 to a total of $204,810,328. The more important additions were in the foreign field, particularly Germany. On Dec. 31, 1930, the company had current assets of $242,564,549 and current liabilities of $40,603,451. Inventories were carried at $60,063,415, compared with $80,835,545 at the end of 1929.

Employment Figures.

The average number of employes during 1930 was 78,380, compared with 97,833 in 1929. Total earnings of employes last year were $140,905,000, or an average of $1,798 per employe.

The Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company reported total sales of $41,-473,349 last year, compared with $45,-203,385 in 1929. Net income for 1930 was $3,604,609, equivalent to $2.86 a share on 1,258,500 capital shares. Dividends totaling $3 a share were paid, with the result that $167,820 was taken from surplus, which now stands at $17,390,111. Net income for 1929 was $4,830,888, or $3.78 a share on 1,146,-910 shares.

Current Assets of $35,334,394.

President Otto H. Falk called attention to the fact that the number of stockholders was 9,535 at the end of 1930, compared with 4,284 at the end of 1929. The balance sheet as of Dec. 31, 1930, shows current assets of $35,334,394 and current liabilities of $1,589,210. Bookings last year totaled $41,606,196 and billings were $41,475,-949, compared with $48,493,817 and $45,302,355, respectively, in 1929.

The preliminary report of the Standard Gas and Electric company shows that last year was almost as good as 1929. Combined gross earnings of all subsidiary and affiliated public utilities totaled $153,270,404 in 1930, compared with $154,198,087 in 1929, a decline of six-tenths of 1 per cent. Net earnings totaled $74,876,172 last year, compared with $76,835,830 in 1929, a decline of 1.04 per cent.

Security Salesmen

We have openings for experienced security salesmen with a clientele in Chicago. Security offerings are confined to high grade bonds and the largest fixed investment trust. A favorable record of sales in the past should assure an even better distribution of the securities we are offering. Compensation will start with a liberal straight commission basis followed by a drawing account based on performance. Interviews by appointment.

M-K-T Railway Directors Vote to Omit $1 Dividend

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 17.—The board of directors of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad, meeting today, decided that earnings did not justify declaration of a dividend on the common stock at this time and accordingly omitted the usual disbursement of $1 paid in each of the three previous quarters.

M. H. CAHILL.

M. H. Cahill, president, issued a statement following the action of the board in which he said that business in the southwest was not good, and while there was a better tone generally, he felt it was too early to make a prediction on the outlook.

Mr. Cahill believes, however, that 1932 will see a return of good business with profit to those industries "who put their houses in order during the present period."

"Southwest roads," said Mr. Cahill, "in providing practical store-door deliveries of less than carload freight are retrieving business previously lost to trucks."

B. & O. Postpones Meeting.

The meeting of directors of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, scheduled for tomorrow, has been postponed to March 25, due to lack of a quorum. Speculative circles have been centering considerable attention on this meeting, at which action on the quarterly dividends is scheduled.

The Howe Sound company, a copper company operating properties in Canada and Mexico, today reduced its dividend rate from $4 a year to $3 by declaring a quarterly payment of 75 cents a share. The company is the sixth concern engaged in the copper industry either as producer or manufacturer that has cut its dividend or omitted payment this quarter.

This is the first change in dividend made by the Howe Sound company since the business depression set in. It maintained its dividend throughout last year when many others made cuts. The company went on a $4 dividend basis in 1927. Prior to that it paid $3 in 1926. It paid an extra dividend of 50 cents a share in 1929 in addition to the regular $4 payment.

Directors of the Empire Trust company declared a quarterly dividend of 80 cents a share, placing the issue on a $3.20 annual basis, compared with $2.40 a share paid previously. The declaration of 80 cents on Empire Trust did not increase the distribution on the stock, since the company has been paying regular dividends of $2.40 and extras of 80 cents each year, the whole equaling the new rate of $3.20 a year.

The Philadelphia company declared an extra dividend of 15 cents a share in addition to the regular quarterly of 20 cents on its common. This extra is at the same rate which has been paid since last Septemebr, when the new stock was placed upon a regular dividend basis of 20 cents quarterly, with 15 cents extras.

Declares 50c Extra.

Associated Telephone and Telegraph company declared an extra dividend of 50 cents a share on its A stock. An extra dividend of $1 was paid last Nov. 1 on this stock, which receives $4 annually in regular dividends. Transamerica corporation is a large stockholder in the telephone company.

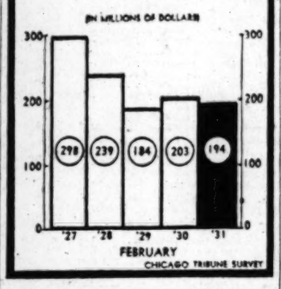
Directors of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company deferred action on the quarterly dividend of $1 due at this time, but declared the usual semi-annual dividend of $1.75 on the preferred stock, payable May 1 to stockholders of record April 1.

FEBRUARY BOND TRANSACTIONS ON THE NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE



BOLT, NUT AND RIVET ASS'N IS ORDERED DISSOLVED BY U. S.

New York, March 17.—(AP)—The Bolt, Nut and Rivet Manufacturers association, doing a $75,000,000 business annually and controlling 95 per cent of the industry, was ordered dissolved today by Federal Judge Frank J. Coleman.

The action was taken under the Sherman anti-trust act. The association, comprising 50 manufacturers, including Bethlehem Steel and Republic Steel, was accused by the government of having "concertedly fixed and maintained enhanced, uniform, and noncompetitive selling prices—and uniform and arbitrary charges on account of the cost of transportation, regardless of the points of origin of shipments."

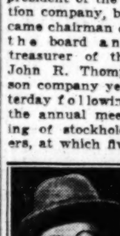
The court's decree was made with the consent of the association. Charles J. Graham of Pittsburgh, president, explained that association counsel had been conferring with the department of justice for a year. The ruling, he said, would avert "the expense and annoyance of long litigation." He announced a new association would be formed "which will operate so as to be free from any criticism on the part of the government."

The association was formed in 1925 when the industry was losing approximately $3,000,000 a year, according to the officers, and has turned the loss into a profit which last year amounted to $7,000,000.

Revamp John R. Thompson Co. Board; McCulloch Chairman

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Charles A. McCulloch, formerly president of the Parmelee Transportation company, became chairman of the board and treasurer of the John R. Thompson company yesterday following the annual meeting of stockholders, at which five new directors were named.



C. A. McCULLOCH.

JOHN HERTZ.

The new directors named include several outstanding Chicago business men. They are John D. Hertz, former president of the Chicago Yellow Cab company; William Wrigley Jr., Charles S. Pearce, president of the Colgate-Palmolive-Peet company; Herman Waldeck, vice president of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, and Edward d'Ancona, attorney, who was also named general counsel for the company. John R. Thompson Jr. was re-elected president of the restaurant company which his father founded.

Group Enters Management.

The Hertz-Wrigley-McCulloch group recently purchased a large block of Thompson stock and yesterday's action marks entrance of the group into the active management of the firm. It is understood that the stock was purchased at approximately $25 a share. The stock closed yesterday on the Chicago exchange at $33 a share.

It was rumored yesterday that the changes in the directorate are the forerunner of a refinancing program for the company which will probably take the form of an issue of preferred stock. There was no official intimation that such a financing plan will be undertaken, but it was stated that the present expansion program would be pushed.

Mr. McCulloch has been a director of the company and his election as chairman fills a position which has been vacant since the death of John R. Thompson Sr. He succeeds Sidney D. Goldenberg as treasurer and the latter was elected a vice president. The only other change effected in the executive personnel was the election of Warren Wright as vice president to replace H. M. Henriksen. Mr. Wright, who is president of the Calumet Baking Powder company, was also reelected a director.

Retiring Directors.

The retiring directors are Otto W. Lehmann, R. K. Kaufman, Sidney M. Goldenberg, W. D. Owen, and H. M. Henriksen. The retirement of Mr. Lehmann was taken as an indication that he and his associates have disposed of some of their holdings to the Hertz-Wrigley-McCulloch group.

That the ambitious expansion program which was launched by the company last year will be carried out was indicated by Mr. McCulloch.

"Mr. Thompson is thoroughly schooled in the restaurant business and I am happy to assist him to realize his dream of the world's greatest restaurant chain," he declared.

The Thompson company was founded forty years ago by the elder Thompson to prove a boast he made to a friend about his coffee making ability. Last year the company served 58,000,-000 cups of coffee in its various restaurants scattered throughout the country.

CHICAGO STOCKS EASE

Thompson shares were quiet on the Chicago exchange yesterday but the price inched up a fraction in the face of a generally declining market. Trading showed only a slight pick up from the previous day's rate. Narrow recessions prevailed generally throughout the list. Radio and motor accessory issues shared the general weakness. Polymet Manufacturing, however, added a fraction to its previous gain as the company announced that February sales were far ahead of a year ago. Q. R. S. was easier following its burst of strength on Tuesday. Saxet held the gain made in the previous session.

Closing quotations in the main were at or within a fraction of the low prices of the day. Borg Warner, Bendix, and the Insull stocks were lower. A block of 2,000 shares of Great Lakes Aircraft which came on the tape just before the close but failed to depress the stock, which closed only an eighth under its previous quotation.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 17.—Stocks started out "a wearin' o' the green" and stepping high as befitting the day, but the big parade didn't go very far. The railroad shares, with the prospect of another poor weekly report on carloadings, forecasts of unfavorable dividend action at tomorrow's Baltimore and Ohio meeting, and other discouraging possibilities weighing upon them, quickly found the pace too much and dropped out of line.

Bear mischief makers got to picking on Westinghouse Electric and other issues considered invulnerable and they gave up without a struggle. One group after another lost step and by noon the show had given up.

Losses Replace Gains.

The final returns showed early gains replaced with losses of from 1 to 4 points or more throughout the list. Even the power and light share group, constituting the old guard of the bull forces in their new effort to advance the list, had to give way under growing pressure and 3 o'clock found such standbys as American and Foreign Power, Water Works, Peoples Gas, Standard Gas, Electric Power and Light, and Consolidated Gas selling generally 2 to 3½ points below their closing figures of last night.

It was all rather discouraging from the constructive viewpoint, but the sad flop in which the late spectacular runup came to its end has made the trading community rather wary of these professional drives—promoted by dint of pegging up one group after another—and all too ready to take their profits while the taking is good. Such caution, no doubt, contributed as much as anything else to today's rather sudden reversal of trend.

Both Sides Cautious.

The truth is that little confidence is being displayed by either side at this stage of the game. The bears are extremely careful about picking spots for their half hearted raids, but the opposing element on the other hand is just as loath to draw any too heavily

CAR LOADINGS ARE 41,534 AHEAD OF PREVIOUS WEEK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 17. — Loading of revenue freight for the week ended on March 7 totaled 723,534 cars, the car service division of the American Railway association reported today. This was an increase of 41,534 cars over the preceding week this year, when loading was reduced somewhat, due to the observance of Washington's birthday. It was, however, a reduction of 150,182 cars below the same week last year and a reduction of 224,005 cars below the corresponding week in 1929.

Kansas City Joint Stock Land Bank Assets Gain

Total assets of the Kansas City Joint Stock Land bank, which is in receivership, increased $23,206 to $51,-839,256 during 1930, the annual statement shows. Excess income over expenses amounted to $1,488,994. Net reduction in mortgage loans for the year 1930 amounted to 344 in number totaling $2,872,795. Total collections of installments of principal and loans paid in full during 1930 was $1,353,538, as compared with $1,981,394 in 1929.

Humphreys to Head New Mail Order Insurance Co.

Col. G. E. Humphreys, assistant to Gen. Robert E. Wood, president of Sears, Roebuck & Co., will become president of the Allstate Insurance company. The Allstate company is the newly formed subsidiary of Sears which will write automobile insurance for customers. According to plans, the new company will eventually branch out into other lines of insurance.

Germany's Exports Show Slight February Increase

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 17.—A slight revival in German exports is disclosed in the foreign trade returns for February. The total exports were valued at $185,000,000, or $800,000 more than in January. Thus it is hoped that the decline, which set in in October, has been checked. The value of the exports of finished goods increased by nearly $4,000,000. Imports were $2,-500,000 lower at $142,000,000, retaining a favorable trade balance of $43,000,-000.

Production of Crude Oil Up 33,850 Brls. Last Week

New York, March 17.—(AP)—Daily average gross crude oil production in the United States increased 33,850 barrels in the week ended March 14, totaling 2,190,550 barrels, the American Petroleum institute's weekly summary indicates. Daily average production east of California increased 29,450 barrels, to 1,662,650 barrels.

Steel Output in Chicago District Shows Sharp Rise

Steel output in the Chicago district has increased sharply, Dow, Jones & Co. reports. Steel ingot output in this territory is placed at slightly above 60 per cent, a gain of more than 2 per cent over the preceding week, and sheet steel production at 70 per cent, against 60 per cent last week.

PHONE COMPANY PLANS $4,000,000 FOR 1931 BUDGET

The Associated Telephone Utilities system announced yesterday that more than $4,000,000 would be invested by western companies of the system in nine states for additions, replacements, and betterment to plant and equipment during 1931. This is a substantial increase over the 1930 budget.

The states in which the expenditures are to be made are California, Washington, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, Nebraska, Texas, New Mexico, and Kansas.

PRICES OF GRAIN DROP AS LONGS TAKE TO SELLING

World News on Wheat Is Mostly Bearish.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Grain prices were on the downgrade yesterday due in part to selling by tired longs who found support less aggressive, and July wheat dropped 2¢ from Monday's finish to 61¾c, or within ¼c of the lowest figure on the crop, while the September at 62¼c equaled the inside price since trading started in that delivery.

Trade in wheat was light, and it took but relatively little selling to make the decline, with sellers of bids forced to protect themselves. There was a noticeable lack of rallying power and the close was about the bottom with net losses of 1@1¼c on the new crop months, with July and September both finishing at 62¼@62¼c. Old crop months were ¼@¾c lower with March, 73¾c, and May, 81¼@81¾c.

Export Demand Limited.

Pressure to sell Argentine wheat abroad caused buyers to be cautious in taking North American grain and only 200,000 bu Manitobas were claimed to have been sold during the day, while domestic hard winter was dull, although it was claimed No. 2 hard was offered at relatively low prices at the Atlantic seaboard. Winnipeg futures finished ⅛@1c lower, with July at 58¾c, scattered liquidation by longs being a factor. Liverpool closed ½@¾c higher, with July at 66½c and prices in the English market are close to the lowest figures of the season. Buenos Aires lost ¼@½c for the day.

Burdensome supplies of cash wheat in all the leading exporting countries, combined with the continued favorable weather and crop reports from the American winter wheat belt, are the dominating influences in the wheat market, and the relative strength in the old crop months, which have been holding above the "pegged" price for some time, seems to be losing its effect on the deferred futures. The market is easily influenced, with the pit element quick to follow any good buying or selling.

Longs Sell Corn Futures.

Further short covering and buying by the local element advanced corn futures fractionally early, but there was fairly general selling later when wheat weakened, and there was also pressure from a house with Omaha connections. This carried prices off 1⅛@1⅜c from the early high, with a number of the early buyers going out of their lines on the way down and the close was within a fraction of the bottom with net losses of 1@1½c with March, 61⅝@61¾c; May, 63¾@63⅞; July, 66⅛@66⅝c, and September, 66⅛@66¾c.

Oats were dull, but showed independent strength and closed unchanged to ⅛c higher, March finishing at 30¼c; May, 32½c, and July, 32⅝c. Cash interests were persistent buyers and more than off set selling by the northwest and by the local element. Shipping sales aggregated 126,000 bu. Trade in rye was decidedly light and the market was influenced mainly by the action of wheat. Closing trades were ⅛@⅜c lower with March, 37½c; May, 39½c, and July, 41c.

GOOD BUYING OF LARD

Buying of lard by commission houses, dealers, and by houses with foreign connections absorbed the selling by packers yesterday and made a more active and higher market, although the close was at net gains of 5@7½c. Hog receipts were lighter at Chicago but heavier at western points than a week and a year ago. Liverpool was 3@6d higher, the latter on spot, and March exports of lard were 2,772,605 lbs. and of hams 39,000 lbs. Prices follow:

COTTON DROPS $1 A BALE

Cotton was under pressure the greater part of yesterday. There were losses on futures in Chicago of 16@22 points and in other markets of 16@21 points. New York was relatively stronger than New Orleans or Chicago, with losses of 15@18 points. Spot markets were off 20 points or $1.00 a bale with New York 10.75c, New Orleans 10.45c, Housto 10.60c, and Galveston 10.70c. Liverpool was rather a surprise to the trade with a close of 5@6 points net higher and spot sales of 7,000 bales, the largest of late.

The census bureau will issue its semi-annual report on ginnings and the size of the crop on March 30. Private estimates indicate about 13,750,000 bales, and the final estimate of the department of agriculture was 14,243,000 bales.

Revised returns on world consumption of American cotton for the first half of the season as given by the New York Cotton exchange service was 5,477,000 bales or 199,000 bales in excess of the federation estimates, compared with 7,050 bales last year and 7,645,000 the previous year. Prices follow:

NEW YORK, March 17.—(AP)—COTTONSEED OIL was quiet today, but after somewhat unsettled opening developed a firmer tone in sympathy with the strength in crude oil, hogs and lard. Closing prices were net 11 points higher to 3 lower. Sales were 1,350 bbls. Prime crude, 6.75@7.00c; prime summer yellow spot, 7.50c; March closed 7.75c; May, 7.96c; July, 8.11c; Sept., 8.32c.

POTATOES SHARPLY HIGHER

Potato futures advanced to a new record high on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, a net gain of 8c coming in the April delivery on heavy buying. Butter futures broke nearly $200 per car and eggs dropped sharply. The advance in potatoes, which carried the April delivery to $1.82 during the day, came as a result of strong buying induced by sharply higher spot market prices. Butter closed ¼@1¼c lower, with eggs down ¼@¾c. Sales: Butter, 95 cars; eggs, 59 cars; potatoes, 52 cars. Deliveries: Eggs, 5 cars. Prices follow:

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, March 17.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was steadier today and 6c higher, at 3.25c for spots duty paid today.

A little irregularity early in raw futures was followed by recoveries later, attributed to a statement by a prominent economist predicting a better outlook for the sugar industry as a result of the final ratification of the Chadbourne plan, which is again under consideration abroad. WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

No agreement was reached yesterday by the members of the Terminal Elevator association with George S. Milnor, president and general manager of the Grain Stabilization corporation regarding the exchange of the cash wheat sold for May delivery to the farm board agency. The elevator men were in session a good part of the day and enetrtained Mr. Milnor at luncheon at the Union League club where the situation was thoroughly discussed. The proposition made by the elevator people, it is said, did not interest Mr. Milnor. Elevator men in their conversation created an impression that they desired to keep their cash wheat held in the various markets and give in exchange, a deferred future rather than the May. This was not taken as favorable by Mr. Milnor. It is said that the farm board has the May wheat bought from the elevator men in on their hedges on terms satisfactory to the Stabilization corporation officials.

A Chicago Board of Trade membership sold yesterday at $10,500 net to the buyer, an advance of $500 over the previous sale.

It is said that export sales of cash wheat by the Grain Stabilization corporation are considerably in excess of 2,500,000 bu. The exact quantity however is not divulged.

REORGANIZATION OF

National Radiator Corporation

Under Plan and Agreement dated February 11, 1931

$6,455,000 of the 6½% Debentures of National Radiator Corporation, constituting over 60% of the total issue outstanding, have now been deposited under the Plan. There have also been deposited substantial amounts of the Preferred and Common Stocks.

While highly gratified at the response to the Plan, the Reorganization Committee considers that it is imperative that a substantially greater amount of Debentures be deposited before the Plan can be declared operative. Therefore, the time has been extended within which DEPOSITS MAY BE MADE TO THE CLOSE OF BUSINESS APRIL 15, 1931. Debenture-holders should recognize that it is to their best interest to effect a prompt reorganization, and their failure to deposit their Debentures may seriously jeopardize the success of the Plan.

The deposit of all securities should be made with Bankers Trust Company, Depositary, 16 Wall Street, New York City. Transferable Certificates of Deposit will be issued in respect of all deposited securities. Prompt deposit of securities is urged so that the reorganization may be effected expeditiously.

Copies of the Reorganization Plan and Agreement and of the letter of transmittal, which should be used in making deposits, may be obtained from the Depositary or from the Secretary of the Reorganization Committee. A letter dealing with the necessity for the Plan and reviewing its salient features has been prepared and is available for distribution.

Dated, New York City, March 18, 1931.

Wieboldt Stores, Inc., last night reported a net loss from operations for the year ended Jan. 31 of $102,460. Net deficit after deducting dividends paid was $293,600 for the year. In 1929 the company had net income from operations of $738,589 and a net deficit after dividends and other charges of $12,058.

Net sales of the company in 1930 were $21,262,025, against $20,697,649 for the previous year. Current assets at the close of the year were $5,338,925 and current liabilities were $2,308,026. Total assets are carried at $6,370,968.

Surplus at the close of last year stood at $315,897, as compared with $640,708 on Jan. 25, 1930. In addition to the deduction for dividends paid out there was a net charge to surplus of $36,425 which was not explained and a credit of $5,213 for reduction in reserve for federal taxes.

President Werner A. Wieboldt stated that the company wrote off $100,000 for anticipated losses on accounts receivable on wholesale sales. A large expense incident to the opening of a new store on the south side was also absorbed during the year, he explained. Declining commodity prices were responsible in a large measure for the loss sustained during the year, he added.

Report A. H. Wiggin May Be Fox Film Director

Wall street is awaiting with interest the coming meeting of Fox Film corporation. Advance gossip has it that Albert H. Wiggin, chairman of the Chase National bank, will become a director, and that the regular quarterly dividend of $1 will be paid. The corporation is faced with the necessity of refunding the $55,000,000 in notes which fall due this spring.
